CANADA TO CLOSE TRADE OFFICE

SALISBURY (AP) — Canada's trade commission in Salisbury is likely to close toward the end of December, an official Canadian statement said today.

The statement sent to about 250 Canadian citizens in Rhodesia by Acting Trade Commissioner C. D. Miller said that after the office closed "it will not be possible for the Canadian government to provide direct consular assistance to you."

"After the Canadian government declined to recognize Rhodesian independence, it withdrew its trade commissioner but kept its Salisbury office open. Miller's statement is the first official indication that the office is to be closed entirely.

CALIFORNIA Rain, Rain, Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The third storm in 12 days swept into soggy southern California today, bringing new flash floods to areas where at least 13 are feared dead.

Heavy rain hit mountain and foothill areas north of Los Angeles during the night, causing fresh gushes through canyons, then sloshed across the Los Angeles basin during the morning.

A third of an inch of rain fell in downtown Los Angeles in an hour, pushing the season total to 11 inches. Normal for the season since July 1 to date is 1.45 inches.

Rain was forecast to continue at least through Monday.

In northern California, a storm approaching blizzard proportions whipped into the Sierras. Wind and snow reduced visibility to 100 yards on 7,135-foot Donner Summit.

In the heaviest November rains ever recorded in southern California, floods in desert areas raked cars off highways and into washes and residents of hillside areas fought oozing mud as it inundated homes and yards.

The desert resort of Palm Springs, a winter mecca for smog - tired Los Angeles residents, was virtually isolated and cut in two by a flood that rushed down from the San Jacinto Mountains.

Witnesses said three persons were carried away in their cars and a man wading out to help was swept away in the torrent. Only one body was found.

FLOOD HITS CARS

At rocky Cucamonga wash, a roaring flood caught a dozen cars and swept them half a block, tumbling over and over, some with their lights still burning.

Hal Malloy, 19, saw a man swept away in the flood, then lamented: "I was so close . . . he finally was able to get out of the car. He was hysterical, saying 'help me, help me.' I got to within inches of him . . . his body disappeared."

Life Jail Term Starts On Slayer's Birthday

The murderer of Susan Freschi today was taken to New Westminster to begin a life term in the B.C. Penitentiary.

David Leonard Robinson, who also was marking his 25th birthday today, received his sentence in Assize Court Tuesday afternoon, without blinking.

"David Leonard Robinson. I sentence you to life imprisonment," said Mr. Justice George Gregory.

The sentence is laid down by statute and neither the accused nor court officials had reason for surprise since Monday when Robinson entered a guilty plea.

The prisoner was escorted from court almost immediately and RCMP confirmed this morning that he has already been taken to the mainland.

He will automatically be eligible for consideration by a parole board in seven years. But some legal circles here believe the gruesome details of his crime, all written into the court proceedings, might weigh against him.

Mr. Justice Gregory said in the final stages of the court session that it might appear unusual for all the evidence to be reviewed after the plea of guilty—because the sentence is set by law. A recitation of the facts could not affect the sentence.

"HAS REASONS"

"The Crown has its reasons, with which I heartily concur," he said.

Outside of court, the judge would not comment on the statement. Nor would prosecutor William McIntyre.

But some quasi-legal comment on the case suggests that with the full evidence on the record, including suggestions of mental instability, there would be little hope of early parole.

Several times in his testimony to police, all of which was repeated in court Tuesday, Robinson mentioned mem-

AERIAL BOMBER ARRESTED

MIAMI (UPI)—Police today arrested a man whom they said bombed Miami homes from the air with Molotov cocktails because he hated Negroes and Jews.

Sheriff's officers identified the man as Lon David Shaw, 30, and said he went on his fire-bomb missions at night and alone in a small plane.

Shaw was charged specifically with tossing Molotov cocktails, bottles filled with gasoline and a rag and then ignited, at five homes, two of them owned by Negroes.

ADVICE FROM NEWFOUNDLAND SAGE:

Brace Yourself for Hard Winter

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Levi Drodge, an amateur forecaster who has been predicting Newfoundland weather with uncanny accuracy for more than 40 years, has decided to branch out.

Mr. Drodge issued his first long-range forecast for all Canada Tuesday.

In a statement to The Evening Telegram, Mr. Drodge, 83, a retired fisherman from the Trinity Bay community of Hillview, said: "There's a hard winter coming up—don't say I didn't warn you."

His first forecast for the entire country: "It's going to be a very hard winter for Canada. It is going to be very cold and plenty of snow and frost." He predicted extremely heavy snowfalls.

He also predicted a bad year for ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Canadian forecast ended with: "That's all I am going to give you."

In 1963, Mr. Drodge forecast a heavy snowfall and during that winter the St. John's area received a total of almost 20 feet from November to May. Last winter, he forecast a cold winter with little snow and he was right again.

He said he predicts the weather by watching the tides and "scenting" the winds. The best place to predict weather, according to his calculations, would be Sable Island, off the Nova Scotia coast.

"If I was there for about 10 days, I could give the weather for the whole of North America," he said.

Ontario Strike To Spread?

TORONTO (CP) — Plans to spread a strike of oil workers through other parts of Ontario and to Montreal were announced today by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC).

Union spokesman Robert Kirk said unless a settlement is reached by noon Thursday in the strike against the British American Oil Co. Ltd. refinery at nearby Clarkson, union employees in the Toronto-Hamilton area and Montreal will walk off their jobs in sympathy.

About 600 additional workers in the Toronto-Hamilton area would be affected. In Clarkson, 419 workers have been on strike since Sept. 15. Union spokesmen here were unable to say how many workers would be affected by the strike deadline at the Montreal refineries of BP and Texaco Canada Ltd.

These are the only refineries in Quebec where the OCAW holds bargaining rights for workers.

DRIVERS AS WELL

The proposed spread of the strike involves truck drivers who distribute the oil as well as the refinery workers.

Mr. Kirk said the Thursday deadline could be affected by the results of the intervention by the British Columbia government into the strike of oil workers in that province.

Gandhi Kin Banned By S. Africa

DURBAN (AP)—The South African government today banned the Indian husband of Mohandas Gandhi's granddaughter for five years under the suppression of communism laws.

Four years ago he helped establish the Gandhi Clinic, which treats more than 1,000 patients a month. Author Alan Paton, chairman of the trust which administers the clinic, said he thought Ramgobin had been banned because of his student political activities.

The few newsmen who heard about the "secret" hearing were asked not to print anything about it by Crown Prosecutor Anatole Corriveault because Constantin's life was "in danger." He didn't elucidate on the danger.

Union Urges Gov't Plan Be Accepted

VANCOUVER—A threatened two-day general strike in B.C. Thursday and Friday was to be called off this afternoon.

At the same time, the executive of the oil workers' union will recommend acceptance by members of the government's settlement proposal announced this morning.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said:

"We are very happy the dispute is resolved. Our executive council now is going to call off the general work stoppage set for tonight."

The recommendation from the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union to its members was announced by Canadian director J. R. Duncan.

"The terms are not all we would have liked, but we have a responsibility to the community," Mr. Duncan said.

But there was no comment from any of the oil companies whether or not they will accept the formula.

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

The provincial government today announced a proposal to settle the oil workers dispute.

Premier Bennett said in Vancouver "we ask immediate acceptance by labor, management and the general public."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson asked that all plans for a two-day work stoppage to coincide with an expanded oil strike "be abandoned forthwith."

Company and union representatives retired immediately after the announcement to consider the proposal.

The proposed formula contains recommendations on job security and the subsidiary issue of wages.

These were the points in the formula:

- A committee with equal representation from both sides for continuing discussions on automation;
- Six months notification by oil companies of intent to change conditions which would result in discharge or layoff for any employee working for the company after Aug. 31, 1965;
- Companies will participate with the government in every way possible in training and retraining of men displaced by automation;
- Severance pay of one week's wages for each year of service to a maximum of 26 weeks;
- Wage increase of 35 cents an hour over two years.

The dispute involves 540 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union in B.C. and seven oil companies—British-American, Imperial, Shell, Standard, Home, Texaco and Pacific Petroleums.

B-A was struck two months ago and Imperial's Port Moody refinery earlier this month. Pacific Petroleums locked out employees in anticipation of a strike.

The oil workers had set a deadline of midnight tonight to expand the strike. More than 60,000 members of unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labour responded to a call for a two-day work stoppage to support oil workers.

The Teamsters union said it would follow contract provisions allowing it to observe picket lines and refuse to handle goods from a strike-bound plant. This wouldn't apply to fuel delivered from a strike-free plant prior to any strike.

This is what the oil workers were seeking:

- Six months notification by companies of new automation processes;

CROPS ARE FLOODED AND CHILDREN WAIL

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

It's the time when cold and bitter winter weather gives way to the ceaseless spring rains . . .

When thousands more are added to the millions of Koreans who are homeless and unemployed all year round.

The food situation for the poor becomes crucial, because it is just before the grain crop is to be harvested.

And the harvest, when it does come, will be pitifully inadequate because of the floods.

Grain prices go sky-high and the wail of hungry children is heard more and more in the streets of Korean cities like Seoul and Mokpo.

Although USC activities are worldwide, Korea continues to receive the lion's share of aid both in funds and in what the USC calls "gifts-in-kind" — everything from codfish to cardigans contributed by Canadians.

Thousands of human lives have been saved through USC aid, and thousands more salvaged from misery and despair by the efforts of USC workers throughout Korea.

Of about 600 children's homes in the country, the USC sponsors seven, four in Seoul and three in Kyong go Do province.

The largest and most expensive USC project since 1960 is the TB Children's Hospital in Mokpo, Chollanamdo Province.

But how about Rhodesia, with a whole country on strike against th' management?

. . . GENERAL STRIKE

● Company-sponsored job retraining for men facing automation;

● One year's severance pay for each five years of employment;

● An extra 50 cents an hour over two years.

This morning's proposal from the government came at a meeting attended by Premier Bennett, Labor Minister Peterson and mediator Reg Clements.

The premier said neither side had advance knowledge of the formula.

The premier went to Vancouver Tuesday to sit in on mediation talks.

"These discussions are never easy," he said.

In a reference to Mr. Peterson being minister of both education and labor, he said both education and labor "must work closely together."

Negroes File Back to Work

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — A general strike of Negro workers in protest against the seizure of independence by Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian government appeared to have petered out here today, the third day of the protest.

Negro workers streamed into this city, Rhodesia's main industrial centre, from their townships.

Shots were heard in the centre of Bulawayo Tuesday night, but no further incidents were reported during the night. The shooting was unexplained.

Police and other official departments have refused to give details of incidents to the press.

Police opened fire Tuesday on a crowd which was stoning a bus in Mpopoma Township, killing one Negro. His death was the first known killing in disturbances arising from Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain Nov. 11.

Police also used tear-gas as incidents broke out between pickets and non-strikers.

More than 50 Negroes suspected of intimidating other Negroes were arrested. Absenteeism Tuesday was estimated at 60 per cent.

Today the scene was quiet. There were no signs of the Negro pickets who prevented non-strikers from reaching their factories during the last few days.

But steel - helmeted riot police — the whites armed with rifles and the Negroes carrying truncheons—stood watching for any sign of trouble at main junctions and other key points.

A warning by Bulawayo's industrial and business leaders that workers who failed to report for duty today would be dismissed appeared to be a major factor in the back-to-normal trend.

The chambers of commerce and industry represent some 500 businesses employing between 15,000 and 20,000 Negroes.

33 New Citizens

Thirty-three immigrants will be sworn in as Canadian citizens by Judge Montague Drake in County Court here Thursday, Dec. 9, at 10 a.m.

They will be received afterwards at a coffee party given by Greater Victoria Citizenship Council in the new "Y" building. Mrs. H. L. Smith, a former president of the council, will be hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol, who were refused citizenship in County Court last July, will receive their certificates at a special ceremony conducted by Immigration and Citizenship minister John Nicholson this Friday at 10 a.m.

Natural Gas Halted; Firm Says 'Sabotage'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Natural gas service disruptions, which affected homes and industries in three Essex County areas late Tuesday night and early today, were "acts of sabotage," a gas company spokesman said.

The spokesman for Union Gas Ltd. said there were nine shut-offs reported during a three-hour period.

In Windsor, three firms manufacturing parts for the automobile industry, a hotel, a bowling alley and a billiard saloon were affected. The shut-offs also disrupted service to a store and a number of homes in Leamington, 38 miles southeast of here, and a motel at Kingsville, 23 miles southeast of Windsor.

The company spokesman said today that although it was not known who was responsible for the latest shut - offs, "it obviously was deliberate sabotage."

Similar incidents have occurred in the Sarnia are since the strike began and the company has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension of those responsible for the shut-offs.

Some 200 employees of the company here and in Sarnia, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC), have been on strike since Nov. 3.

Injunction Hogties Cominco Employees

The giant Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company in the Kootenays obtained an injunction late Tuesday prohibiting announcement of the result of a vote by its workers on the two-day walkout.

The company employs about 6,500 persons, members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

The injunction, issued by Judge Leo Gasner in Nelson, prohibits union officers from taking a strike vote, compiling the results of such a vote, announcing the results or even recommending strike action to the members.

Cominco workers had voted earlier whether or not to join the work stoppage. The results were to have been announced this morning.

The company's western operations manager, S. M. Rotham, called the work stoppage "a form of mass intimidation."

Both Cominco and B.C. Hydro, with 6,000 employees, earlier warned workers they would be subject to suspension or dismissal if they joined the work stoppage.

A weather disturbance moving through Oregon this morning will continue the mainly cloudy weather over southern B.C. today. Occasional rain or snow is also looked for on the lower coast today while a few snow flurries will reach into the southern interior later today and Thursday.

Civic Workers Vote Support To BA Boycott

The Canadian Union of Public Employees has asked its 90,000 members to support a boycott of BA products launched by striking members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (CLC).

Workers employed by the BA Oil Company and the Royalite group have been on strike since September and have asked members of other unions to boycott the companies' products.

CUPE president Stanley A. Little, of Ottawa, sent letters to the union's 560 locals asking their members to support the boycott.

It asks CUPE members not to buy BA products until the strike is settled, to return BA credit cards if they hold them and to cancel fuel oil contracts if their dealer buys from BA.

"If your employer uses BA products we would ask that locals, wherever possible, use their influence to see that another unionized product is used as long as the strike continues."

ory failings, severe, sudden headaches and a fear of inanimate objects.

In a tape-recorded police interview he said that following his fatal attack on the girl, as he walked down the railway tracks, he felt something frightening all around him.

"All around there were huge towering things and they didn't look like trees," he said.

And again, "These big things were still around . . . huge . . . they didn't look like trees . . . I guess that's all they were."

STARTED TO CRY

He said that he started to cry after he struck the girl and when he was driving home, "A few more tears dropped then."

When he arrived home he said he walked into his house and saw his wife sitting there. He thought she was watching TV.

Then he went upstairs to wash his hands because there was blood on one of them.

"Then I came downstairs. We just sat and played a couple of games of scrabble and watched TV," the tape-recorded voice said in court.

In the earlier court session the recorded interview explained how Robinson last May 11 had seen Susan Freschi, 14, walking home along a railway track in a wooded area behind Six Mile House.

KNOCKED HER DOWN

After parking his car he had walked down the track, picking up a stone on the way, to intercept her. He bumped into her and knocked her down, then helped her up.

His testimony, vague and uncertain on many points — he could not remember when he tied her hands or gagged her—indicated he brought the girl off the railway into the woods where a sexual assault took place.

RCMP sergeant R. S. Rogers in his testimony said the accused told him he later knelt over the girl and struck her, in Robinson's words, "Two or three times . . . I don't know."

'HIT HER AGAIN'

Later on the tape, Robinson said, "I put my hands down and the rock just hit her head . . . she started to moan and I think I started to cry . . . she was still crying and I think I hit her again, and I'm not sure if it was then or after I felt a big pain in my head."

His counsel, Alan Bigelow told the court that he realized that there was nothing he could say in mitigation.

"If judged by psychiatric standards, he most assuredly needs treatment. He is sick. His sole wish is to receive psychiatric treatment . . ."

A source close to the penitentiary service told The Times later that the New Westminster penitentiary at present has a part-time psychiatrist tending to 700 men. Treatment is not set up on a clinical basis—another fact which might be expected to weigh against eventual parole considerations.

RELIEVED

Mr. Justice Gregory, before passing sentence, noted that he had wanted to hear the full evidence because he wanted to satisfy himself that there had been no brutality on the part of police who had questioned Robinson for almost 12 hours.

"I am relieved to be assured, after hearing the tape recording that there was no police brutality or misconduct in the questioning of this man," he said.

This was contrary to an impression he had formed when reading transcripts of the preliminary hearing, he added.

Thirty per cent of their young patients, say USC workers, come from families that suffer from hunger, squalid housing conditions and unemployment.

Besides orphanages and hospitals, the USC also runs a Social Service Centre in the heart of Seoul's Mapo slum district, where USC workers have been aiding refugees since 1958.

This centre, employing Korean social workers, was the USC's 20th anniversary project, started last year, and the cause of much excitement and enthusiasm in the organization.

Much more can be accomplished through USC aid, if the money is available for their projects and self-help programs overseas.

Scale Plan Helps Avoid Confusion

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda-

Some gardeners object to any type of label on the grounds that they are not interested in names, and labels make their gardens look like a public park.

My own reaction to this is to wonder how to be interested in any plant without its name being known, and how to do it justice. How could I choose a place for it if I had no clue as to its habits and requirements? And furthermore, how could I care for it through the years except by the trial and error method which might take years if I were slow to learn?

A wooden name tag with a thin wire tie is good for two or three years if printed with a weather-proof pencil, but this type is not considered to be more than an identification label from nursery to garden.

There is a soft metal strip label with a life of eight to ten years, perhaps longer. The printing can be done with the point of a spent pencil refill of the modern kind. An expert in printing can print in reverse on the soft metal and have it come out in raised print on the other side. This is easy to read.

The label is fastened with small tacks or staples to a stout painted stick of suitable size according to the type of plant it identifies.

GARDEN PLAN

There is one way to avoid labels yet have every plant and its location permanently recorded, and that is by a garden plan.

I have seen this method used so satisfactorily that subsequent owners of the gardens had no difficulty in locating, identifying and caring for the various trees and shrubs.

A project for spare evening hours for young folks putting in their first garden could be the drawing up of a scale plan of their lot, marking in the house area and other permanent features..

Fruit trees particularly need to be recorded by name for the future. It is quite likely that someone will want to exhibit the fruit as interest in gardening increases, and names are needed.

Roll it up, keep it clean, keep it up to date with additions, removals and changeovers. You will find much of interest to record on your home garden plan besides permanently naming your plants for the life of the garden.

France Hints U.K. Welcome

PARIS (Reuters)—France today dropped a strong hint that it would welcome and support a new application by Britain to join the six-nation European Common Market.

It was de Gaulle who blocked Britain's attempts to enter the European Common Market in 1963.

Two days ago Edward Heath, leader of Britain's opposition Conservative party, was in Paris for talks with the president and some of his senior ministers.

After meeting de Gaulle, Heath declared: "I think I now have a full knowledge of the way Europe is going to develop."

Before the meeting Heath said that if his party was returned to power it would take the first opportunity to join the Market.

REPORTS TO CABINET

He said: "A certain number of signs indicate that the conditions which, in the past, obstructed Britain's rapprochement with Europe are in process of weakening.

"The problem seems to be ripening slowly in a positive sense. If this evolution should take more precise form it would be considered by France with sympathy."

Peyrefitte told reporters that the chief subjects of the talks with Heath were the problems of Europe—political, economic and military.

COLLEGE CO-ED Patricia Ann Conway, 22, died today after setting herself afire Tuesday on the campus of West Chester, Pa., State College. Police said she suicided over personal problems and was not protesting the war in Viet Nam.

Ad Executive Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)— Vancouver advertising executive William Edward Ellis died of an apparent heart attack aboard a jet aircraft between Calgary and Toronto Monday.

WOMAN CANDIDATE

If elected, Mrs. A. H. Gunning, 4555 Duart, would be the second lady councillor. The first was Mrs. Grace Shaw elected 15 years ago.

Mrs. Gunning, a former high school teacher now a housewife, said she "strongly" supports the capital projects referendum. She also wants more roads, street lighting, sewers and parkland.

LATIN-AMERICA COOL TO PEACE FORCE BID

The inter-American conference did, however, produce a favorable reaction to the U.S. pledge to continue to support the Alliance-for-Progress aid program for Latin-America beyond its original 10-year goal set in 1961.

Colombia Tuesday joined the mounting opposition to the peace force, declaring it would be counter to inter-American law.

The Latin-American reaction to the U.S. concept of an inter-American peace force to keep order in the Western Hemisphere has been critical.

U.K. IMMIGRATION POLICY HIT

'Only Judas Would Be Allowed In'

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor member Leslie Hale told the House of Commons today that if the 12 apostles of Jesus Christ were to land as immigrants in Britain today, only Judas Iscariot would be likely to qualify for admission.

The reference to Judas, who betrayed Christ for money, came as the House was debating the government's curbs on the number of immigrants entering Britain.

Hale said he knew of persons who were refused permission to land because they had no money. But, he said, if a man arrived with £200,000 ($600,000) and no character he was allowed in.

If he had a high character and no money would he be admitted? Hale asked.

Judas "would have the necessary 30 pieces of silver and may well have invested it profitably and have more," he added.

Success Without Force?

WHILE THE SITUATION INside Rhodesia grows uglier daily, competent economic experts say that even with more stringent boycotts such as called for in the United Nations, the Smith government can last until spring or early summer without feeling too great a pinch.

Even the embargo on petroleum products is not expected to create a great difficulty for the rebel government. The country uses less than 9,000 barrels of oil a day—about a fifth as much as British Columbia—and oil runs a distant third to coal and hydro-electric power as a source of industrial energy.

There is a further complication in the oil embargo. Rhodesia's Umtali refinery not only produces all the petroleum products used in that country but also the 4,500 barrels daily required by neighboring Zambia. Embargoing oil to Rhodesia also cuts off oil to Zambia.

Oil sanctions would be difficult to enforce in any event since few people doubt that sufficient supplies to meet essential needs could be smuggled into Rhodesia via South Africa and Portuguese Mozambique.

Before the independence declaration, there was speculation that lack of foreign exchange could bring the Smith government to its knees within a few weeks. It has since been revealed, however, that Rhodesia took the precaution well in advance of moving at least a quarter of its reserves out of reach of the British freeze action.

The Rhodesian tobacco crop, on which the country depends for the largest share of its export earnings, may be difficult to market. However, the next marketing is not until June.

So far as Rhodesia's internal affairs are concerned, there seems little doubt that the well-armed police, militia and regular armed forces can keep dissidents in line although it may be a nasty and bloody business.

What is going to come out of this is a dawning realization that, contrary to many critics of the Smith regime, there is not much chance that the rebels will be brought quickly to heel without armed intervention from outside the country.

For some months at least, then, Rhodesia can be counted on to irritate the feelings not only of the newly-independent African states but of many other countries as well, before economic sanctions show much appreciable effect. During this period the demands for more direct action could continue to mount in the United Nations and elsewhere. How long Britain's call for patience and understanding in handling the situation will be respected may become a critical question.

Zoning Through Bankruptcy

SPEAKING AT A LOCAL REAL estate meeting here the other day, Professor Philip White of the University of British Columbia's commerce department argued that cities could well afford to abolish their zoning bylaws.

"There exists in every city a natural zoning law," he said. "The key to that law is that businessmen want to put land to its most profitable use. That means building where the public wants a building. If it is built where the public doesn't like it, they just will not use it."

If building and zoning were purely economic matters it might be possible to go along with Professor White in part of his theory. As a general rule businessmen do want to put land to its most profitable use. But what is profitable is not necessarily desirable from the viewpoint of a neighborhood or a city as a whole. The public opposition to attempts to intrude commercial buildings into residential areas, to erect high-rises where they will shut out the sunlight from established buildings, is certainly evidence of this.

The other part of Professor White's argument—that if buildings are not put where the public wants them, they will not be used—is similarly only a partial consideration. What happens to buildings which were wrongly, or "unprofitably" placed? They are not used, not properly maintained, fall into neglect and blight the whole area in which they are located.

Professor White maintained that in areas where zoning bylaws were non-existent, quite orderly development had taken place. Since he failed to define his term of "quite orderly" it is only possible to speculate on what he meant. City planners seem to be unanimously in agreement—and most people will have observed this themselves—that where zoning bylaws are non-existent, development is anything but orderly. Most large cities on this continent, for instance, are cursed with ribbons of blight on every major exit highway and "jungles" of tarpaper shacks mingled with chicken farms, drive-in movies, abattoirs and auto boneyards on their boundaries.

Zoning bylaws are often imperfect instruments with which to effect orderly growth but this may be because they are not well planned to take future expansion into account. It is difficult, however, to imagine anyone seriously arguing that the zoning concept should be done away with in favor of pure economic determinism.

We Could Learn From Virginia

TOO MANY PEOPLE IN THE state have failed to appreciate the historic comment of Captain John Smith that "Heaven and earth never agreed to frame a better place for man's habitation than Virginia".

In consequence, industrialization and a heavy concentration of population have made serious inroads into Virginia's open spaces—to such an extent that a state commission has now called for the creation of three times as many parks by the early part of the next century.

Counterparts of Captain Smith on Vancouver Island and in British Columbia have no doubt paraphrased the words of the distinguished colonizer. But unless their words are taken more to heart than were his, the people of this part of the world could be confronted by the situation now facing Virginia.

The moral of the story is clear. The best time to preserve areas for parks development is before they are cut up and turned over to private interests. This may once more prompt local questions to the provincial parks minister about his intentions relative to Mr. Arthur Laing's invitation to join in the creation of a national park on the Pacific.

Through Liberalism to Socialism?

AN AMERICAN STUDENT OF British politics says that Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer has confirmed the fact that the Labor government will nationalize the steel industry when the government has a big enough majority in the Commons to do it. In the meantime, the government will trim sails and steer a Liberal course—at least until the next election.

This, the commentator argues, indicates that the socialists hope to be re-elected on a largely Liberal platform so that Labor can enact strongly socialist legislation.

There may be more to this than an engaging paradox. It may offer proof that there is a Liberal platform and program in Britain. During recent years readers this far from the scene have been assured that British Liberals are very earnest, very progressive, but follow as the party program what each individual Liberal wants to believe to be the program. If the American commenator is correct, Mr. Jo Grimond's people are not quite so nebulous in their concepts as some would have us suppose.

Homeward Bound

DOWN THE CENTRE — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Left: ——— A Free Society ——— :Right

IN HIS latest shattering discovery Mr. T. C. Douglas announces that the government of Canada has moved dangerously to the "Right" since it unloaded the leftist Mr. Walter Gordon. How does Mr. Douglas know that? He knows it because, for public purposes, he knows everything. Other statesmen may be puzzled by the Greek tragedy of human affairs but never Mr. Douglas. At the critical moment of the drama he always pops out of the scenery as the deus ex Regina.

Hutchison

This must strike his friends as odd when they see him, in private, as the most modest, reasonable and pragmatic sort of fellow who frankly doubts his own omniscience, laughs at himself and loves his fellow men, even those who are wealthy and detest his politics.

But once a microphone is thrust before him he becomes the flaming oracle of the "Left" without bothering to explain what that word may mean. He doesn't tell us because he doesn't know. Nor does anyone else.

He meant, I suppose, that both the "Left" and the "Right," at their extremes were determined to impose some kind of authority on the indivdual, for his own good, of course. A weird synthesis of opposites rounds a complete circle when Mr. Douglas, the champion of the poor, links himself with Mr. Gordon, the millionaire. As Wilfred Laurier exclaimed in another connection, "What a salad!"

One doubts that the Canadian people are sufficiently wise, or foolish, to follow such a precious, abstract debate of ideologies. To the ordinary man it sounds rather like the argument at the Mad Hatter's tea party. And what on earth has it to do with the practical, mundane business now confronting the nation? Very little, really, except as a harmless escape from reality, a safety valve for our national frustration.

An Opposition Luxury

Only statesmen in opposition can afford this luxury. Those in office must face the hard facts of our political system, and the central fact is that the system cannot be ideological or it will break under the strain. It is not a struggle of abstractions, but an untidy bundle and ragbag of inconsistencies, a nightmare to the logician. Still, it has certain advantages over other systems. It works better than any of them.

It won't work well, however, it will hardly work at all, if political leaders as intelligent as Mr. Douglas pretend that a man must be on the "Right," and hence on the side of evil, because he questions the divine wisdom of the state. It would be just as accurate to say that Mr. Douglas, being on the "Left," intends to crush the human person under the juggernaut of government.

A sensible citizen, rejecting these caricatures of the system, will not refuse to let private enterprise do something else, and do it efficiently, because someone makes a profit (to be heavily taxed and the remainder spent to swell the general prosperity).

The true test, in all these choices, is not whether a policy is on the "Right" or the "Left" but whether it will get results. Unfortunately we have been too much occupied with irrelevancies of late to make that test. We have been distracted from practical decisions by the ideologists on both sides of a gulf existing only in their feverish imagination—the socialists who can see no good in private enterprise because it is private, the private enterprisers who think that government should do nothing because it is public.

Irrelevant

Before many months are out we shall find that debate in these terms is no more relevant to our business than the angels dancing on the old schoolmen's head of a pin. For assuredly choices must soon be made, not between pure ideologies but in grimy dollars and cents.

The disagreeable truth is that with all our opulence we can't do everything we would like to do, either in government or private enterprise. We lack the required money, which is to say that we lack the materials, manpower and machinery. Until more of them are available we must do what we can and decide what things we wish to do first.

Premier Roblin is the only practising politician, so far as I know, who has dared to tread the forbidden ground and he hasn't moved very far, lest he embarrass his beloved party leader. So far as he goes, however, Mr. Roblin is quite correct in saying that we must make up our minds about priorities.

Which, he asks, should come first—education, social welfare or investment in industry, the sole means of financing any public service? Where should our money be spent, and in what sums?

Question Unanswered

No one has answered Mr. Roblin, least of all in the recent election campaign, where the main purpose of all parties was to avoid his question. Yet it is the only question that matters in our domestic politics and comprehends all others.

Slowly, clumsily, almost blindly, we are creeping up on it in a bewildered Parliament but we shall not reach it in time to prevent exceedingly unpleasant consequences if we stop to listen to the ideologists. Those Ancient Mariners with their glittering eyes and chattering microphones offer nothing except the meaningless catchwords of "Right" and "Left" when a free society, by definition, must always move down the centre.

FROM NEW YORK — By RICHARD PURSER

Sanctions, But How Stiff?

THE resolution on Rhodesia, finally passed by the United Nations Security Council Saturday after eight days of continuous haggling, could mean everything or nothing, depending on how it is acted upon. Most Africans, convinced they have been had by the big powers, think it will mean nothing. It is a "compromise" resolution — in other words a toothless version of a tough resolution originally presented on behalf of the African states. Instead of decisions, it contains only requests.

Purser

The original African resolution was presented by the Ivory Coast, now representing Africa on the council, and supported by all 17 Afro-Asian states which appeared before the council to speak.

It would have formally determined that the Smith Regime's illegal seizure of independence is "a threat to international peace and security." The compromise resolution merely determines that it is a matter of "grave concern." The difference is important.

Buck Passing

The original wording would have conformed to Article 39 of the UN Charter and paved the way for military enforcement action under Articles 42 and 43, which also would have been decided upon had the African resolution been approved.

But the compromise version contains no mention of these or any other provisions of the Charter's Chapter seven, covering "action with respect to threats to the peace." It omits the African call for British or UN force to put down the Rhodesian racist rebellion. It, instead, passes the buck for any use of force to the feeble Organization of African Unity under Chapter eight of the Charter, which authorizes "regional arrangements" to deal with peace and security matters in specified areas.

The compromise resolution also omits an African demand for all states to impose against Rhodesia "a complete interruption of economic relations, including an embargo on supplies of oil and petroleum products, and of rail, sea, air, postal, telegraphic, radio and other means of communication." It merely requests all states to "do their utmost" to break economic relations, including the supply of oil and petroleum products.

Toned Down

The African demand that the rebellion "be immediately crushed" is toned down to a simple request, with no time element, that Britain "quell" the rebellion. The direct demand that Britain suspend the 1961 Rhodesian Constitution and establish majority rule under "one man, one vote", becomes a request that Britain "take immediate measures in order to allow the people of Southern Rhodesia to determine their own future . . ."

Britain now is asked only to take "appropriate measures to eliminate the Smith Regime's authority. But Africa's detailed demands are gone. To Africans, the final resolution is one vast loophole.

It was drafted chiefly by the Security Council's two Latin American members, Bolivia and Uruguay, to bridge the huge gap between the Ivory Coast resolution and a short British resolution that would merely have had the council voice support for measures already taken by Britain. In the process, the Latin Americans came up with a resolution having much the tone but little of the substance of the Ivory Coast entry.

Continuing Review

What allowed the Africans to accept the compromise and through their acceptance to head off the danger of a Soviet veto, was a closing paragraph in which the council "decides to keep the question under review in order to examine what other measures it may deem necessary to take." In other words, the whole can of worms that is Chapter seven of the Charter can be opened again at any time the Africans decide things are going from bad to worse in Rhodesia.

The Africans had no choice but to accept a weak resolution. A strong one would have been vetoed by Britain, possibly throwing the whole issue into the boiling cauldron of the General Assembly.

It is not the absence of a call for force that most seriously annoys the Africans. Few of them really believed Britain could be made to send its army into Rhodesia to throw Mr. Smith out. What they genuinely cannot understand is the apparent unwillingness of Britain, and indeed the West in general, to impose total economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Britain regards it as a matter of inability, not unwillingness. The limited measures earlier announced by Britain—banning of tobacco imports and capital exports, etc. — are those whose effectiveness Britain feels it can assure.

Africans Disappointed

Although Britain allowed diluted mention of an oil embargo, about which the Africans feel especially strongly, to creep into the compromise resolution, Britain doubts that itself or the West can prevent oil from entering Rhodesia via the Portuguese pipeline. And even if oil could be barred from Rhodesia, this would mean cutting off supplies to friendly Zambia which is supplied from Rhodesia's refinery.

So the Africans, unable in the foreseeable future to mount a liberation army or impose effective sanctions of their own, are disappointed. If the measures now being taken do succeed in bringing down the Smith regime, the Africans will be astonished. And, one suspects here, even the British will be somewhat surprised.

Press India To Feed Self

By CHARLES BARTLETT
from Washington

THE Johnson administration is stirring irrational indignation in India with its closely-calculated tactic of using surplus food to force the Indians to move constructively to meet their own agricultural requirements.

Mr. Johnson has provoked the Indians by refusing since June to make any new, long-range commitments of food. All sales under P.L. 480 are being restricted to a 30-day basis which reflects the determination of officials here to require the Indians to take realistic steps in agriculture as they draft their new five-year plan.

The crucial need for these steps was impressed on Washington last spring when India conveyed her 1966 requirements for some eight million tons of U.S. wheat. This is almost one-fourth of America's total crop. The Indians could be reaching by 1975 for 16 million tons, or almost half the total production, if they improve their economy without expanding their domestic food supply.

Sharp Prod

India's tendency to take American food for granted and her disinclination to spend resources to improve her agricultural economy prompted President Johnson and his aides to decide that a sharp prod was necessary. Some Indians now claim that American food is being used to force them into a settlement on Kashmir but the food diplomacy is totally unrelated to the efforts to establish peaceful relations between India and Pakistan.

The American prod is less sharp than one which the late Prime Minister Nehru proposed in 1949.

"I think the very ease with which we have been able to get foodstuffs from abroad has rather prevented us from facing the problem properly," he said then. "I think we should think in terms of not getting any food at all from abroad after a certain period—let us put it at two years, I should not add a day more—and just make up our minds that we shall live on the food that we produce after two years or die in the attempt."

Sixteen years later India leans on foreign suppliers for eight per cent of its food and the gap is widening. The Indian yield per acre of rice is only one-third the yield in Japan. Fertilizer production is far short of the program goals and the subsidy system has not been adapted to the reality that even peasant farmers must have economic motivations.

Agricultural Lag

The leaders are not alone at fault. The focus of India's energies has been concentrated on industrialization. Material resources have been applied to prestige projects like steel mills instead of irrigation dams. College graduates have eschewed agriculture as unworthy of their talents. The farmers who comprise some 70 per cent of the population are doing what they have done for centuries while the city dwellers nurse an assumption that agriculture will move forward on its own if the economy gathers momentum.

A major obstacle is the lack of fertilizer. In 1965 the Indians decreed an industrial policy which reserved the production of fertilizer for government plants. This policy stemmed from the Fabian socialism which permeates the Indian bureaucracy and from fear of the ruthlessness of private entrepreneurs. The consequence has been inadequate capacity and inefficient production.

Clear signs that India will need to quadruple its fertilizer production in the next five years and estimates that this will cost over $1.5 billion in foreign exchange have moved the Indians to take a new look at their policy. The U.S. AID agency declines to help the Indians with government plants until they demonstrate a readiness to negotiate open-mindedly for private foreign investment.

Fertilizer Stalemate

The present state of their open-mindedness was called into question by their failure to reach agreement with the Bechtel Company, an American concern which formed a consortium that was prepared to invest $500 million in Indian fertilizer facilities. The terms included guarantees and concessions which caused some to feel that the American companies were too greedy. Others argue that the Indians need fertilizer so urgently that they should have been willing to meet even unreasonable terms.

However, other negotiations are progressing and a break-through on fertilizer may be possible. The food minister, C. G. Subramaniam, is a realistic fellow who understands that research, insecticides, seed development, and the education of farmers in fertilizer techniques must all precede a new era of agricultural productivity.

The danger of Mr. Johnson's ploy is that the Indians will flare under the pressure of an uncertain food supply and declare that they would rather starve than take dictation from Washington. But this risk is a minor factor in an important opportunity to bring the Indians face-to-face with their obligation to themselves.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times of Nov. 24, 1905:

In the Provincial Court this morning John V. Roberts, an able seaman on the ship Riverdale, which arrived in the Royal Roads a few days ago from Australia, was charged with unruliness and mutiny during the course of the voyage. Roberts had actually defied the mate, who attempting to enforce his orders met with physical resistance. An impromptu exhibition of the manly art between the two ensued.

After hearing both sides of the case Magistrate Hall sentenced the accused to four weeks imprisonment.

Understanding Asia—3

The West Can't Impose An 'Absolutist Democracy'

HONG KONG—The so-called anti-American attitude in Asia today is largely caused by a lack of understanding by the West.

And, to try and fit the pieces of the puzzle into place, to find a common ground where East and West can meet with mutual understanding, it is first and foremost necessary to understand the present concept of Asian nationalism.

Kirkwood

These are the views of many Asian intellectuals who are becoming increasingly concerned over the West's—and America's in particular—misunderstanding of Asia, a tragic misunderstanding which they see as a huge stumbling block toward any possible mutual and lasting understanding between East and West.

Naturally enough, in any discussion of Asia's attitudes toward the West the question of the nature of Asian anti-Americanism inevitably arises.

But what does the ambiguous question really mean? Does anti-Americanism, in fact, mean pro-Communism? And, conversely, does anti-Communism, in fact, mean pro-Americanism?

In a word, say the Asian scholars: No.

There's much more to it than that.

One of Asia's most respected scholars, Dr. Carlos P. Romulo, president of the University of the Philippines—who is one of the West's most ardent supporters as well as one of its harshest critics—tackles the intricate subject in his excellent article, "The Asia America Does Not Know."

Provincial

In it he lambastes the United States for being provincial in its attitudes toward Asia, for regarding democracy as a special product manufactured and patented in America alone, for distributing largess in underdeveloped countries as some form of very special favor and for failing to comprehend and accept, the growing tide of Asian nationalism and the emergence of an Asian consciousness.

What Americans don't realise, he adds, is that democracy is not an exclusive American property, that to affirm democracy is not to be pro-American, and that anti-Americanism in Asia is not necessarily directed against America or Americans.

Writes Dr. Romulo:

"The fact is that the so-called anti-Americanism in Asia is not directed so much against America and Americans as it is against some of their cultural milieu . . .

By JOHN KIRKWOOD
Times Far East Correspondent

This is the last of three articles dealing with Western attitudes toward Asia and with Asian attitudes toward the increasing involvement of America in Asian countries.

". . . What America has to learn, it seems, is that Asian willingness to accept American assistance and the readiness of Asians to seek the advice of American experts does not mean a concomitant readiness to follow blindly America's official attitudes and policies."

And, he continues:

"The error resulting from the unexplained ambiguity of anti-Americanism also occurs in regard to pro-Americanism.

"It is also a result of regarding the things which America affirms as endemically American, an exclusive property and aspect of American civilization.

"Totalitarian Communism does not accept any deviation. Rigidity controls the Communist attitude: right action means complete conformity with the official doctrine.

"But this cannot be so with democracy because its very essence is the liberal imagination and its actuality rests on the principle of tolerance of differences.

"What is suggested here is that democracy is not an absolute thing, not even a national property.

Must Yield

"It is a concept that can be made to yield to the necessities of a particular social context—to affirm democracy is not to be pro-American."

Thus, explains Dr. Romulo, Asians quite naturally recoil in horror from the preconceived American attitude that any Asian leader who affirms the democratic way of life must be pro-American, and that Asian countries who believe in democracy must be pro-American because democracy is the American way of life and what's good for Americans must be good for everyone.

"We seek friendship rather than favor," he writes, "we seek advice but not dictation. We study technology and we send our young men to the West because we wish to learn and not to imitate.

"Immediately after we achieved our independence we realized that if Asians were ever to try to duplicate Western life, the duplicate was bound to be a forgery . . . It is an error for Americans to regard Asia as a recipient of independence from the West."

Dr. Romulo praises the West's technological and cultural contributions to Asia and cultural exchanges between Asian and Western students and scholars.

"But," he cautions, "the presence of a few Asian scholars in some Western universities and conferences between leaders, intellectuals and members of the professions are not enough to provide the basis of a complete understanding of our continent."

Here the Philippine scholar devastatingly takes to task the American press and asks how it will ever be possible for Westerners to understand Asia so long as the American press continues to misinform the public and some political leaders in its blind insistence that anything anti-American in Asia must, therefore, be pro-Communist?

Life Spirit

And, he explains, Asian nationalism is now seeking to change the old power structure of politics to conform to contemporary needs of Asia's differing societies; and America and the West must be prepared to regard these changes as part of Asia's growth and social development—the breakthrough of new life within the decadent framework of Asian societies constructed by former Western colonial regimes.

"What is happening in Asia today," he writes, "is the reassertion of the rebellious spirit of life itself. With the incerasing impacts of the effects of the industrial revolution upon our cultural milieu we are being roused from the languor that was the effect of colonialism."

And, unleashing a final devastating salvo of ammunition against the West, the proud and passionate Dr. Romulo concludes his convincing argument:

"What is happening among Asian intellectuals is a passionate striving for a universal consciousness. It can be said that the same passion to universalize minds is the common concern of every intellectual anywhere in the world.

"By regarding this universalization as subversive of the democratic order, or anti-American, or pro-Communist is to reveal a provincialism which indeed should be a point for critcism.

Rigid View

"It is also to betray the liberal imagination by interpreting the contemporary situation only in the rigid terms of the Cold War. . . . The recent confusion of the Western image of Asia after several Asian countries gained independence is the reduction, indeed ad absurdum, of the Asian independent states to battlegrounds on which the antithetical concepts of democracy and Communism must fight.

"This is a confused image which accounts for the contradictions in Western official thought regarding the new image of Asia.

"The criticism that our democractization has failed to instill in our minds the acceptance of a policy of love is actually an attempt of the West to continue in its own illusion about the Asian reality."

Two young Tanzanians, part of a student body of 170 East Africans in Canadian colleges, study mining at the Ontario Institute of Mining at Haileybury. Canada's external aid program in Africa is popular because of its "no strings" approach. Although Canada is providing military advisers in Ghana and Tanzania, aid is slanted primarily to economic and social fields with emphasis on training people.

Africans Appreciate Aid Without Strings

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canada's no-strings assistance wins her a considerable amount of trust from the emerging African countries. Joseph MacSween of The Canadian Press tells how Canada looks to the Africans of several countries.

DAR ES SALAAM — The story goes that when news broke of a big Tanzania-Zambia railway project, two Canadian experts were found examining the scheme at opposite ends of the line.

They were Prof. Cranford Pratt of the University of Toronto, then special advisor here to Tanzania President Julius Nyerere, and Prof. Gordon Goundry of the University of Alberta, then chief economic adviser to the Zambian government.

The story is cited here to illustrate the high degree of trust accorded Canadians by new African countries. Canada's "without strings" external aid appears to be winning numerous friends — though suggestions for improvement were heard on an African tour.

Canada has some 125 advisers in former British East Africa alone — Tanzania, Uganda and Kenya — compared with 45 in March, 1964. There are 80 advisers in Ghana. Nearly 170 East Africans are studying in Canadian colleges under the aid program.

Diamonds, Roads

Canadians are looking into Ghana's diamond prospects and also helping with its Volta dam project, television network and road transport system.

They are engaged in aerial mapping of Tanzania and Nigeria, making forest inventories in Kenya and Nigeria, doing a natural gas survey in Nigeria and probing Uganda's terrain for minerals.

"Your country is a Western country, but it is one of the few which are not too doctrinaire," said Nyerere, explaining why Tanzania turned to Canada for army and air force training.

Tanzania, termed the "bad boy" of East Africa because it accepted aid from China, has seen how Canada has been providing military instructors for Ghana since 1961, although the Ghana regime is unpopular in Western circles.

Col. H. E. C. Price of Quebec, commander of the 30-man Canadian military contingent in Dar es Salaam, says that "everything is going extremely well." The 48-year-old Price served in Newfoundland before coming to the tropics.

All now is spit-and-polish at the Colito barracks where a shortlived army mutiny last year threatened the Nyerere government and, coupled with concurrent mutinies in Kenya and Uganda, aroused fears of revolution in East Africa. The trouble was quelled by the British army.

Purely Advisory

Canda's role is assisting in the founding of a military academy. Price's part is purely advisory and instructional.

Canada's program is slanted primarily to the economic and social fields. The main emphasis in education is "people, not dollars." For instance, total aid to Tanzania, Kenya and Uganda last year amounted to $? 000,000.

"Canada probably gets more mileage out of its program, which really isn't all that big, than any country with the possible exception of Israel," said one Western diplomat.

Some sources say it is unfortunate that Ottawa aid is "100-per-cent tied" to Canadian goods and services. Canadian aid for one housing project here fell through because of the heavy cost of transporting materials from Canada.

Another complaint is that sometimes Canada takes long to say yes or no to requests for aid. Ottawa officials are considered to feel that the asking countries should apply in good time, rather than expect prompt decisions.

"But this shows a lack of understanding of the problems of developing countries," said an official. "The fact is we haven't got the personnel to make these evaluations as early as we'd like."

Finance Minister Amir Jamal commented: "Perhaps we have not done enough to enable you to do more."

Diplomats say Canada stands up well by comparison with other Western countries, which generally are slow to react by comparison with the Communist countries. One welcome aspect is that Canadian help is given without ideological strings.

Canadian diplomats and aid officials favor the "project approach." Aid is not dissipated and, incidentally, the recipient country is more pointedly aware of it.

Upgrading

An example is the 600-student Dar es Salaam Technical College, where Canada provides manpower and $200,000 worth of equipment, as well as taking African teachers to Canadian institutions to upgrade their qualifications.

"The point is, if the Canadians are here for a certain number of years, they will not leave a vacuum on departure," said J. C. Quinn, 49, of Toronto, "project leader" at the school which has 22 Canadian teachers.

In both East and West Africa, Canada is providing an essential tool of development through mapping and aerial photography. In Kenya, aid is keyed to forestry, while in Uganda geology and fisheries are important. A $25,000 gillnetter now plying Lake Victoria, was transported from Vancouver, the last 800 miles by rail from Mombasa.

"Canada is doing its share," said Adoko Nekyon, Uganda's minister of planning. "We don't care so much about the amount of aid a country gives. What we're concerned with is the spirit in which it is given."

A REQUIEM FOR WALTER GORDON

By PETER C. NEWMAN

As the days drop away and the implications of Walter Gordon's slam-bang leave-taking become apparent even the former finance minister's most adamant critics concede that the Liberal party has been turned inside out, and may never be the same again.

Newman

Gordon was that rare creature in Canadian politics: a man whose passion was in the pursuit of ideas rather than power. In his brief political flowering, he tried to alter not just his party but his country.

The legacy of Walter Gordon is a large one. By becoming (with a few personally chosen associates) the main supplier of political ideas to Lester Pearson, he re-oriented the Liberal party from its pro-business outlook of the St. Laurent period to its social welfare emphasis of today.

The Canada Pension Plan, the medicare scheme, the scholarship plan, the stress on economic planning, the Canada Development Corporation—these and other measures became party policy under his auspices. But his most enduring contribution will no doubt be the alarm he sounded over the potential dangers of large-scale American investment in Canada.

Instead of following the example of most politicians and merely preaching that Canadians must acquire a greater measure of control over their economy, Gordon was imprudent enough actually to try and do something about it.

No Neat Solution

This roused a cankerous irritation in the country's various establishments because Gordon was pointing up explicitly a situation which couldn't be solved in the neat grey way that Canadians prefer in dealing with their problems.

The economic benefits of American investment in Canada are so overwhelming that any appeal to control the influx of such funds was bound to be in conflict with the self-interest of many influential citizens.

Gordon's aim was statesmanlike: to alter the Canadian economic setting and gradually draw the people behind him in a crusade to recapture control over the nation's economic destiny.

But he never managed to warm up to the people, or the people to him. This was a failure partly of method and partly of personality. His early attempts (notably the disastrous budget) were judged to be administrative monstrosities and did much to discredit his cause.

His personality stood in the way of any substantial achievement because Gordon is an intensely private person. The emotions that move politicians to mouth appropriate and comforting generalizations had no place in his makeup. He would not consent to even give the appearance of appreciating or comprehending the advice poured into his office by lobbies of angry businessmen.

His off-hand manner, his aloofness and impression of intellectual arrogance (all of which are rooted in a basic shyness) made him many unnecessary enemies.

Another factor that weakened Gordon's cause was the schizophrenic character of his attitudes. He was, for instance, a left-wing socialist in his approach to policies of social welfare, but a right-wing reactionary in his support of economic protectionism.

His unsuccessful drive for domestic control of the economy tended to overshadow the fact that in the day-to-day administration of the nation's fiscal and monetary policies, Gordon was an outstanding success.

It was a blow to his reputation and prestige that in the letter accepting his resignation, Lester Pearson stated that he had hoped to persuade Gordon "to take another cabinet post where the responsibilities would not be so heavy and continuous as they have been in finance."

The stated purpose of Gordon's resignation was to absolve his old friend from responsibility for the Liberals' disappointing performance in the recent campaign. Instead, the Pearson statement seemed to cast doubts on Gordon's whole performance in finance by implying that he could better handle an alternate portfolio.

The former finance minister's absence from the inner circles of Canadian Liberalism is bound to produce a major re-orientation in the party's welfare and economic policies. It's a final irony of Walter Gordon's strange political career, that the extent of his influence should not become fully apparent until his departure from the corridors of power.

THE GALLUP POLL

'Best Campaign' Query Indicated Voter Apathy

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

More than a third of the Canadian population (35%) cannot say which party leader conducted the best campaign in the recent election, which would seem to indicate the claim that it was a lack-lustre election.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson came out slightly ahead as the best campaigner, with 25% of the voters expressing their approval. Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker and New Democratic Party leader Tommy Douglas ran neck-and-neck. Sixteen per cent gave the nod to Mr. Diefenbaker and 15% to Mr. Douglas.

Mr. Pearson's talents as a campaigner were least appreciated on the Prairies, where less than two in ten of the people named him as ahead of the others. Just short of half the voters in Quebec (44%) could not express any opinions on the campaign qualities of the party leaders.

The question: "Looking back over the election campaign, apart from your own political feelings, which party leader do you think carried out the best political campaign?"

A Parliamentary Agreement Beween Liberals and NDP?

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

One must preface any discussion of a possible parliamentary working agreement between the Liberals and the New Democrats with an opinion and a present fact.

Fisher

First, such an undertaking seems unlikely because each party is intent upon a stronger grip in the future on the same core of working-men's votes.

Secondly, at this time there aren't any negotiations under way or contemplated by key people in either party.

If this preface has not ruined the merit of my speculation, the following paragraphs outline the possibilities of parliamentary understanding between the Liberals and New Democrats.

A parliamentary undertaking is not a merger. It is not a behind-the-barn arrangement. It is not a sell-out. It is not blackmail. It is simply a fairly precise and public working arrangement in which, barring unforseen disasters, the NDP caucus would undertake to sustain the government in want-of-confidence motions while otherwise retaining freedom of parliamentary action in presentation, suggestion; and criticism.

In return the Liberal Government would guarantee to enact certain legislation, consult in a general way on the preparation of it, and give some undertaking of the timing of the legislative program for several years.

Such a parliamentary understanding would give three or four years of relative political stability and some certainty in parliamentary operation. In such a comparatively tranquil milieu there could be worked out a new relationship between Quebec and Ottawa and for French Canada in Confederation.

Liberals and New Democrats seem to be in broad agreement about the linguistic aspects of a new bi-national accommodation.

On jurisdictional matters, where Mr. Pearson's Quebec lieutenants have been preaching a fanciful kind of decentralization, it would be in the Canadian interest that the NDP concern with preserving a viable state should be brought forward in the government's thinking.

Another essential purpose which might be served by a Liberal-NDP agreement would be restoration of respect for parliamentary institutions in the public mind. The immense waste of time in the last two parliaments may have sprung mostly from a lack of government initiative, but what is needed now is a working Parliament, discussing and passing legislation with dispatch and thoroughness.

All the New Democrats and most of the younger Liberal MPs would probably be ready to try the division of the parliamentary session and year into periods for legislation, for estimates and committee work, and for regular breaks back home so constituency work can be on a rational basis.

A third desirable development might follow this process of time plus stability. That is, an ordered solution to the crisis of the moment: the replacement of the leaders of both old-line parties.

Co-operation in Parliament by the two parties would add force to the discussion we need on the necessary tools of economic planning.

Given Robert Winters and Mitchell Sharp there is small likelihood that the government would go far beyond words and the facades.

But it would be the NDP's gain to have an atmosphere in which economic planning could be talked about rationally and openly without the silly outbursts about socialism which we've had from superficial observers like Robert Thompson and some editorialists.

If Mr. Pearson is interested, the onus is upon him to make the overtures and to make them out in the open.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Power Potential of B.C. Rivers Eyed

By JIM HUME
Business Editor

At least one group of United States businessmen will be doing a little research on B.C., following an address in Chicago Monday by D. J. McParland of the British Newfoundland Corp., Quebec.

Hume

Speaking on the role of "undeveloped Canadian water power," Mr. McParland noted:

"Using reasonable criteria, it would seem that there is probably over 50 million kilowatts of undeveloped hydro power in Canada which could be classified as feasible for development under suitable conditions, and in the light of known cost structures as they exist today . . .

"Of the feasible potential over one-third, or approximately 21 million kw is in the rivers of British Columbia, of which the Peace and the Columbia are the most important at present.

"Additional significant potentials exist in British Columbia in rivers such as the Fraser and, further to the north, the Stikine and others. These sites reinforce British Columbia's possibilities for cheap energy in the future."

★ ★ ★

While casting an obviously envious eye on the power resources we hold, Mr. McParland did sound what appears to be a note of warning.

"The availability of any surplus power for export, in terms of internal needs, and in terms of the ability of the markets to the south, are points which have yet to be fully clarified."

Mr. McParland did not deal with recent developments of nuclear energy, and neither should he have been expected to do so in a speech dealing with water power reserves.

But he did mention the fact that both Alberta and Saskatchewan lean heavily on thermal power production of electricity because of their "easily obtained fossil fuels from large reserves within their boundaries."

Which brings us to an old theme, oft repeated in these columns: B.C. also has large reserves of fossil fuels but, unlike our neighbors to the east, we do relatively little about them.

Heavy Water Plant Plan Hits Snag

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The federal goverment's bid to establish a second heavy water plant in Canada has encountered new difficulties, it was learned today.

Dynamic Power Corporation of Calgary, the company slated to build the $45 million complex at Estevan, Sask., is facing difficulty in completing financial arrangements, according to R. C. Brown, secretary of dynamic.

The government has advised Dynamic it must make a decision by the end of this week.

Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts Ltd. sold $529,614,946 worth of distilled beverages in the fiscal year ending August, 1965.

This will be sad news for temperance workers but happy news for shareholders being paid $2.01 per share on the consolidated net earnings of $34,568,348.

Earnings the previous year amounted to $32,173,389 or $1.87 per share on sales of $498,174,425.

The annual report notes that all amounts are stated in United States currency.

TAhe Reader's Digest, ever-popular magazine of the millions who prefer their articles pre-digested for easy consumption, warns in its November issue that the dollar is in danger.

The article is hung on statements by William McChesney Martin, quoted here some months ago, and U.S. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler who said recently that the dollar may soon find itself in the same plight as the pound.

It reminds its readers that since 1958 U.S. balance of payments have risen from $1.5 billion annually to $3.1 over the Johnson years.

Canada's deficit this year is expected to be $1 billion.

"Simply and in the starkest terms, the free world's financial system is in danger of crumbling, and concern is spreading on both sides of the Atlantic."

Consumers Gas Signs Big Order

TORONTO (CP) — Consumers Gas Co. has signed a contract to purchase 1,700,000 million cubic feet of natural gas over a 25-year period from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. starting Nov. 1, 1966.

The contract will be worth about $725,000,000 in revenues to Trans-Canada over the life of the contract, the companies said in a joint statement.

Jet Age Arrives In N.Z.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — New Zealand entered the jet age today as Auckland's multi-million dollar airport came into operation and five major airlines introduced big pure jets

The first outbound overseas aircraft to inaugurate the new terminal was an Air New Zealand DC-8 jet flight to Sydney.

Pan American, CPAL, Quantas and BOAC were to follow.

Next month Air New Zealand begins flights to Hawaii and North America.

The new airport will put New Zealand on the tourist map and give it closer links with Canada and the U.S. It was 28 years ago that Pan-America's Samoan Clipper first linked New Zealand to America by a flying boat service originating in San Francisco.

Crop Insurance Plan Wanted by Farmers

Delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture at the Empress Hotel endorsed a resolution Tuesday requesting the provincial and federal governments to institute crop insurance at the "earliest possible date."

R. A. Williams, 3140 Campion St., said crop insurance should also cover nursery stock.

Delegates representing the Fraser Valley Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association pointed out that in the past nine years they have twice suffered severe crop losses due to frost.

DETERRENT

Delegates felt that the charges would act as a deterrent to farmers to have their animals diagnosed, and this would raise the risk of disease.

C. R. Wilson of Saanich said in the interest of public health all diseases of animals should be checked.

One grower pointed out that some diseases of animals can be passed on to people.

"Diagnosing animals not only benefits farmers but the general public," he said.

The business session was followed by a banquet. Prof. Tony Emery of the University of British Columbia, gave a whimsical address on farming.

Youth Killed Family 'To Pay Accident Bill'

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—State police said today that a 17-year-old who admitted shooting his parents and setting a house fire that killed seven of his brothers and sisters was under heavy financial pressure because of a car accident a month ago.

Capt. John C. Grey said that Harold Bordner made an oral statement of guilt Tuesday from his hospital bed, saying that he wanted to collect insurance to pay off debts.

"Most of his worries stemmed from debts resulting from that accident," Grey said.

Coroner Henry Ulrich quoted Bordner as saying: "I wanted to pay my bills. I thought it would be better this way."

Police records show that Bordner drove a car that was involved in a two-car crash near here, causing $1,300 damage and injuring two persons slightly.

IS DROPOUT

Other records show that the boy dropped out of high school in October. James Bullock, the principal, said Bordner had been one of 16 pupils in an "opportunity class" for slow learners, and left school to become an apprentice stone mason with the company employing his father. Bordner presented no behavior problem, the principal added.

Earlier in the day the grief-strieken father, Paul, 38, attended graveside services for his seven children—Cidy, 8; Jerry, 7; Stephen 6; Roger, 5; John, 4; Ruby, 3, and Dennis, 1. The father received minor wounds from shotgun pellets.

$2 BILLION TOURIST INCOME GOAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp said Tuesday night Canada's travel industry can earn more than $2,000,000,000 yearly by the next generation.

As a neighbor to the rich and populous United States, "we must not be satisfied with only a $700,000,000 total income from visitors to Canada," Mr. Sharp said at a dinner for delegates to the federal-provincial tourist conference.

Competition for the American tourist was stiff, he said. While the federal and provincial governments spent $9,000,000 in tourist advertising in 1965, they were outspent by all their competitors in the U.S. by 25 to 1.

Irish Picket Maggie

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 20 native Irish, protesting "British aggression in Ireland" Tuesday night picketed near the Manhattan town house where Princess Margaret was a guest.

The pickets carried signs which read, "Irishmen don't buy British goods" and "Ireland should be free from the center to the sea."

Highway Aid Sought

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will sponsor a conference of Canada's 10 provincial highways ministers here Dec. 6 in a move to persuade the federal government to contribute half the cost of a four-lane sections of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Rites Friday For Province Ex-Publisher

GANGES, B.C. (CP)—O. L. (Leigh) Spencer, 81, retired publisher of The Province, died at his home here on Salt Spring Island Tuesday following a lengthy illness.

The funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Friday on Salt Spring from St. Mark's Anglican Church. Cremation will follow.

The family has requested no flowers be sent and suggested donations to charity or St. Mark's.

Born in Toronto the son of a lawyer, he came west with his family at the age of five. The rest of his life was spent in British Columbia and Alberta as a conservationist, farmer, sailor, fisherman and newspaper man.

His newspaper career began in 1907 when he joined The Calgary Herald as advertising manager and ended in 1947 when he retired as publisher of The Province.

Mr. Spencer's father, O. L. Leigh-Spencer, was a prominent lawyer in B.C.'s early days. The family lived in New Westminster and Vancouver until the father's death in 1905, then moved to Victoria.

Mr. Spencer went to Hereford, England, to finish his education at Beechwood School.

He started his business life as an analyst and assistant geologist for the Crowsnest Pass Coal Co. After five years he joined The Calgary Herald and stayed there 35 years. From 1935 to 1940 he was managing director.

In 1940, he moved back to Vancouver as assistant managing editor of The Province. He became publisher in 1946.

On the paper's masthead his name appeared as O. L. Spencer. His newspaper friends called him Leigh. His son, Gerry, a Vancouver life insurance salesman, has reverted to the Leigh-Spencer surname.

SAILOR

Mr. Spencer served as a member of the board of directors of the Southam Newspapers and was a director of the Canadian Press, Canada's national news agency. He was a past president of both the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and the B.C. Daily Newspapers Association.

He was interested in farming, shooting and fishing. At one time he was an ardent golfer and in his youth a sailor, a member of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club who sailed in prominent racing crews.

For many years he was interested in waterfowl conservation and for several years was president of Ducks Unlimited (Canada), an organization he helped found.

He served overseas during the First World War, attaining rank of major. His only brother died of wounds in the war.

Mr. Spencer was a member of the Vancouver Club, the Union Club in Victoria and the Ranchmen's Club in Calgary.

Mr. Spencer is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert F. S. Robertson, Pinawa, Man., and three sons, Frank in Winnipeg, and Bill and Gerry in Vancouver.

Pension 'Advances' for CS

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to advance money for civil servants' contributions to the Canada Pension Plan starting Jan. 1 pending passage of legislation to coordinate the scheme with the Public Service Superannuation Act, Acting Finance Minister Sharp said Tuesday.

Mr. Sharp said arrangements are being made for the treasury to make "accountable advances" to each civil servant contributing to the Superannuation Act so contributions can be made to both plans with no reduction in take-home pay.

"It is proposed these advances will be repaid as an accounting adjustment consequent upon the proposed legislation which will authorize the lower contributions to the Superannuation Act from the beginning of January," Mr. Sharp said.

Socreds Hit Flourides And Sport on Sundays

EDMONTON (CP) — Delegates to the Alberta Social Credit convention Tuesday voted against two proposals of Premier E. C. Manning on commercial Sunday sport and fluoridation.

The 300 delegates passed resolutions asking:

- That there be no change in provincial legislation requiring a two-thirds majority in a municipal plebiscite before water supplies may be fluoridated;
- That there be no move to allow municipalities to open Sunday to commercial sport with the approval of a simple majority in plebiscites.

Mr. Manning said in October his government will introduce a measure at the next legislature session to allow fluoridation of municipal water supplies on the approval of a simple majority.

He said the government also plans to introduce legislation allowing Sunday commercial sport on the approval of a simple majority.

At present there is no provision for Alberta municipalities to allow commercial Sunday sport.

Mr. Manning, who attended Tuesday's convention session, said the opposition is only one opinion out of many which the government must consider.

Penkovsky's Widow Says Papers Phoney

MOSCOW (UPI)—The widow of Soviet super-spy Oleg Penkovsky said Tuesday her husband could not have written the controversial book, The Penkovsky Papers.

Mrs. Vera Penkovsky told western newsmen that the editors statement in the "papers" related that Penkovsky's manuscript was typed. "He did not know how to type," she said. "He had a typewriter, but could only type short notes with great difficulty, using one finger."

Penkovsky, a Soviet army colonel and intelligence officer, was arrested in 1962, put on trial with his British courier, Grenville Wynne, and convicted. Wynne was imprisoned and later sent back to the west, but the Soviets announced Penkovsky's death by firing squad in May, 1963.

The book claims that, in his 18 months of spying for the United States and Britain, Penkovsky turned over more than 5,000 items of information, revealed high Soviet state and defence secrets and helped President Kennedy decide how to handle the Cuba crisis.

Mrs. Penkovsky denied the statement attributed to her husband in the book that he typed his lengthy memoirs at home without his family knowing about it. "In this cramped space," she said, looking around her two-room apartment, "he could never have typed it without us knowing."

The Soviet press called the book a "fabrication." The Kremlin already has made official protests in both London and Washington over its publication and serialization. Long articles by the Soviet news agency Tass and the Communist Party newspaper Pravda have scoffed at the book as an "invention" of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Swedish publishing house today stopped the planned publication in Sweden of the Penkovsky papers, the book purportedly written by the Soviet spy Col. Oleg Penkovsky.

The book has already been published in English. Several British and American specialists on diplomatic affairs have claimed the book is a forgery written by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency as part of the cold war between East and West.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1965—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

At the moment, as I dig out from under a massive correspondence on the subject, I find myself wishing that King Canute had taken the deep six before he could retreat from the flooding tide to preach his mealy-mouthed little sermon.

To put the record straight, however, let all men know that Canute was indeed teaching a lesson to his courtiers when he skipped back from the water line, hove his crown into the sea, and concluded his hamming with a few choice platitudes.

Having taken my lumps, I will now pass them on to a supposedly authoritative reference work compiled by William Rose Benet, an American of distinction, and titled "The Reader's Encyclopedia." This tome bolstered my own recollection of the fable, and in it I placed my trust.

The moral in all this seems to be that a man should not only look before he leaps, but make sure he jumps in the right direction . . . which in this instance was toward the Encyclopaedia Britannica!

Lest anyone choose to read into this admission of error more than I offer, however, let me make it plain that the donkey to which I pinned the wrong tail—the general strike, and strikes in general—remains a donkey still.

I am not anti-labor, as has been suggested since I voiced the above opinion. But along with a probable heavy majority of British Columbians, I am convinced that the strike as a backer-up of labor's demands has outlived its usefulness. It hurts everybody and everything, including union solidarity.

Today, even a partial work stoppage seems unlikely. Government has made its approaches.

Too many union men have reflected soberly upon what such a tie-up would mean to them, their families and the provincial community, and have declared themselves against it.

No flexing of labor's muscles is going to guarantee job security; and those who still maintain that it will are looking not to the future but the past.

Our times are changing, as they have been doing since man first worked out his definitions of time. In my own years, I have seen the pace accelerate steadily. To cling to outworn arguments, methods and weapons is to court disaster.

I suggest as simple fact that job security in terms of the jobs very many of us now hold is mere wishful thinking.

★ ★ ★

That management must also change with its times is apparent to any observer.

The management that sees in this present situation a golden chance to bust a union is outdated in its thinking, and would do well to revise its policies.

As for government, I have indicated plainly and more than once in this corner my belief that it should mend its relations with organized labor.

Why, for instance, the insistence on maintaining labor as one of two portfolios upon which a minister is to ride with a foot slithering about on each back?

Premier Bennett's explanation that labor and education must work close together in job training fails to convince. Of course they must: but not on a system of short rations to each.

I'm well aware that the basic problems of automation aren't going to be worked out on the local scene. We could, though, set about providing, for the first time in the history of government-management-labor relations in this province, an atmosphere receptive to solutions.

Labor Minister Peterson, even though tardily, has offered a lead of sorts. I hope the embroiled factions will at least spare time to weigh it.

HANDLE IMPORTS OF FARM LABOR

B.C. Immigration Branch Asked

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The farmers want the department to handle importing of farm labor.

Douglas Jung, representing the B.C. Lower Mainland Farmers' Co-operative, said B.C.'s agricultural industry should seriously consider pressing for a provincial department of immigration if the federal government does nothing to solve the farm labor problem.

Both Quebec and Ontario had immigration departments, he pointed out.

Delegates unanimously passed a resolution requesting the federal minister of agriculture to provide sufficient farm labor for the 1966 season.

They agreed that the wage rate to be paid to farm laborers should bear a "fair relationship to industrial wage rates in British Columbia."

Mr. Jung told the delegates that domestic help from the West Indies is being imported for individuals in Eastern Canada.

"What is more important to the economy of Canada—domestic help for individual families or farm laborers for the agricultural industry," he asked.

He said farm workers should be brought into Canada on a two-year contract.

"This would make it worthwhile for the laborer and for the farmer," he said. "Their wages and accommodation would come under the jurisdiction of the provincial government. This would eliminate the possibility of exploiting labor from other countries."

Mr. Jung, who raised the question of bringing farm labor from Hong Kong at last year's convention, said labor leaders were unfair in criticizing his scheme.

'COOLIE LABOR'

"I was accused of attempting to bring in coolie labor," he said. "There was not a bit of truth in this. There was never any question of bringing in cheap labor."

One delegate pointed out that the class of persons available from the National Employment Service for farm labor is, as a rule, totally untrained and unfitted for normal farm work.

"I'm ready to pay a farm worker an industrial wage," said one grower, "but I want a trained man. Too many people are under the impression that unskilled workers are suitable for farm work."

"The majority of unemployed available from the city for such work are unemployable," he added.

Ron Pilling, agricultural economist for the federation, said a study of farm labor needs in B.C. has been under way since the start of the year.

"Farm labor is a problem to all of Canada," he said.

Fast Start Set On $22 Million Pulp Mill Unit

Work will start immediately on the installation of a second $22.5 million newsprint machine at the Crofton pulp mill of British Columbia Forest Products.

Company president A. D. Hamilton said the machine is an improved version of the one already in production.

Scheduled for start-up in late 1967 or early 1968, the machine will give the mill a daily production capacity of 700 tons of newsprint as well as 850 tons of market pulp.

INCREASED DEMAND

Mr. Hamilton said the machine was made necessary by increased demand for Crofton newsprint.

The new machine will consume 30,000 tons of semi-bleached pulp a year, Mr. Hamilton said.

The machine will create 100 new jobs in the Crofton mill where 800 men and women are now employed.

In addition to the new machine there will be changes in mill design to include provision for the pulping of sawdust which will provide a portion of the fibre requirements for the new operation.

Magistrate Puts Stop On Logger

A young logger who deliberately knocked down 10 stop signs in the Langford district Oct. 22 was bowled over by the magistrate in central court this morning.

John S. Baxter, 1111 Neil Road, pleaded guilty to causing wilful damage.

As the details of the case were read out in court, the people in the public gallery laughed loudly and Baxter smiled.

Magistrate J. A. Byers then said to Baxter, "I'll tell you something that will not sound so funny. You are liable for imprisonment for 14 years" on this offence.

He then remanded Baxter in custody for one week to await sentence. Another man charged with a similar offence, Leo Desmond Pike, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Dec. 7.

Court was told that Baxter and a companion drove around Langford on the evening of Oct. 22 knocking down stop signs, school signs and a railroad crossing sign. In all, about $140 damage was done with the 1949 model car.

Fire Victim's Condition Termed 'Fair'

Mrs. Joan Cragg, 3429 Seymour, is in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her home was gutted by fire and is considered a total loss. The loss is believed covered by insurance.

COVERS OVER HEAD

Mrs. Cragg was found in bed with the covers pulled over her head. She told firemen she could not remember anything of what happened.

It was spotted by 13-year-old Brenda Burke, 908 Cloverdale. She yelled to her father and he telephoned the fire department just after 9 p.m.

Mr. Burke ran to the burning house and pounded on the door. When firemen arrived they smashed their way inside. As they did so part of the roof fell in.

Fireman Benn, wearing a smoke mask, went inside and found Mrs. Cragg on the lower floor and carried her out.

Wrong-Side Drive Brings $300 Fine

Arthur Carvalho, 1350 Pembroke, was fined $300 and prohibited from driving for three months when he pleaded guilty today to impaired driving.

Evidence was that Carvalho drove on the wrong side of Gorge Road at 10:30 p.m., Oct. 27, and collided with an oncoming car.

Work to Resume Soon On Highest High-Rise

Work on Victoria's highest high-rise apartment building will resume soon, its promoter said from Vancouver today.

E. D. Blake, head of Blake Investments Ltd., said he hoped the $1.4-million job would be back on the rails before the end of the year.

Construction on the building on Rockland Avenue ceased during the fall.

It was suggested the financiers were reorganizing, although Mr. Blake said that the only comment he was at liberty to make was that work would resume.

Asked whether the same firm or a firm by another name would resume the job, he said it would probably not be under the same name.

He agreed the amount of money invested in the project was too great to allow the building to languish as it stands—a foundation, car park area, lobby slab and pillars for upper floor construction.

It was costing money to stand idle, he said.

STILL ON SITE

Getting the project back into gear would put the total cost up over original estimates, Mr. Blake said.

The building when finished would face east and west, overlooking Oak Bay and downtown Victoria, rising more than 150 feet over the rocky crest of land above Laurel and the St. Charles Street district.

It would have 17 stories.

LAUNDRY LOOT RECOVERED BY POLICE

Police this morning recovered about $1,500 worth of bedclothes and clothing stolen overnight Monday in a break-in at Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John Street.

Police said almost everything that was stolen appears to have been recovered. The thieves abandoned the goods on Huron Street near Victoria Machinery Depot incinerator.

Most of the articles were smeared with mud. A company official said laundry customers need have no fear they will lose in any way by the break-in.

He said earlier reports that all the sheets and pillowcases in the laundry were stolen had been exaggerated. He said that actually only 70 articles out of about 9,000 were taken and these belonged to two commercial concerns in the city.

Tow-Away Made Less Painful

Victoria police commision today moved to take half the pain out of the penalty for parking in a tow-away zone.

Commissioners asked their solicitor to prepare a bylaw amendment requiring either a fine or a tow-away charge, but not both.

Commissioner Gordon Carter said he felt the inconvenience of having to recover a car towed from a prohibited zone was enough deterrent without being fined as well.

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed.

The decision was reached after Chief John Gregory made a survey of practices adopted by 12 Canadian and U.S. police departments.

The commision received complaints that tourists and doctors on emergency calls were given no special consideration if they happened to leave a car in an arterial traffic lane during rush hour.

Commissioners felt all drivers should be treated in the same way.

According to the survey, Chief Gregory said, Victoria is "average" with penalties and dealing with doctors and tourists. Vancouver, he noted, imposes no fine but has a contract with a towing firm to clear rush hour lanes at $5 per car charged to the driver.

Island Hit By First Snowfall

Victoria Area Escapes With Only Light Rain

Snow was still falling today as Vancouver Island teetered on the brink of winter's first freeze-up.

Cold winds from the northeast dumped up to four inches on high-lying areas, temporarily blocking roads.

Greater Victoria was one of the few areas to escape. Only light rain fell.

Highways crews were out this morning with snowploughs and sanding trucks—the first time they have been called out this year.

At press time it was still snowing in the Lake Cowichan area and up to three inches had piled up on Lake Cowichan Road.

The Malahat received a light coating and motorists were warned to drive carefully.

Although sanded, there are still several icy patches.

Few areas escaped winter's first blast.

Nanaimo, Port Alberni Courtenay and Qualicum all reported a trace. In some cases it snowed for as much as two hours this morning.

The wintery scene followed a night which saw the thermometer drop below freezing along most of the Island's east coast.

The sudden change was brought about by an arctic front which holds most of the province in its grip.

Southern V.I. escaped the worst because of a warmer air mass centred over the U.S. northwest.

Temperatures will again drop below freezing with the exception of Greater Victoria and the west coast where the thermometer will hover around the 35-degree mark.

Said a highways department official: "We're ready for it. The snow ploughs are all set to go if things get too bad."

The weather office promised a let-up late Thursday.

Vancouver Man Gets Six Months

George Laverdure was sent to jail for six months for obtaining lodgings by fraud.

Magistrate J. A. Byers noted he has a record of previous offences "involving moral turpitude."

Anglicans to Hear Catholic Priest

A Roman Catholic priest will preach in the Anglican church of St. Philip, 2928 Eastdowne Road, Sunday at 11 a.m.

Rev. Father A. J. McDonald of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Victoria, will address the congregation on Christian Unity.

Scoring Play Near, Yet So Far

Only hours before the official closing of the 1965 campaign, the fund was still short nearly $23,500 of its $439,210 target.

Several last-minute contributions were made, including one of $1,000 from Crown Zellerback Paper Co. Ltd.

PLAQUE AWARDED

A United Appeal plaque has been awarded to wholesale division employees of Doman's Lumber Co. Ltd. for 100 per cent participation in the drive.

The eight employees of the division contributed $204—an average of $25.50 each.

Employees of National Motors received an award of excellence for the second year, for a contribution of $634 to the campaign.

Other last-minute contributors were servicemen and civilians at Work Point Barracks, who gave $650, and employees of Oak Bay municipality, who contributed $470 to the fund.

CUP PREVIEW

Crying Towels Absent

(Times News Services)

The principals are in their corners.

The countdown has begun.

Now if anybody has a football they'll be able to play a game Saturday at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition Stadium.

First, a little background music . . .

For a change, neither Bud Grant of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers nor Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats reached for crying towels, deploring terrible injuries to their players . . .

That's the kind of statement that should make Sazio wince. In 1959 Winnipeg got four singles and a touchdown from Charlie Shepard within 10 minutes and pasted the Ticats 21-7.

Sazio has only two players on the limp. Quarterback Joe Zuger suffered a charleyhorse against Ottawa and end Prince Hal Patterson stretched an ankle ligament. But, says Sazio, "there's no question in my mind that they'll be alright by Saturday."

★ ★ ★

The only notable Winnipeg injuries are a bruised knee that bothered quarterback Kenny Ploen in the last two games of the Western final and an ankle injury that kept linebacker Ken Maglicic out of the Calgary series. Maglicic may also miss the game but Ploen is expected to be fully recovered by then.

If Winnipeg wins Saturday, it will be Grant's fifth Grey Cup as a coach. He guided the Bombers to the title in 1958, 1959, 1961 and in the 1962 game which took two days to complete because of heavy fog in Toronto.

Lew Hayman, now managing director of Toronto Argonauts, coached five Grey Cup winners — the Argos in 1933, 1937 and 1938, Toronto RCAF Hurricanes in 1942 and Montreal Alouettes in 1949.

★ ★ ★

All of Grant's Grey Cup wins have been against the Ticats, but the Winnipeg coach isn't taking anything for granted.

"We're expecting nothing but trouble from this Hamilton club," he said. "Those players they picked up in the trade with Montreal have made their defence tougher than ever."

★ ★ ★

Grant scheduled a practice for 5 p.m. but had to cancel it when the equipment failed to arrive because of an airlines foul-up.

With the equipment situation corrected, Grant is planning daily workouts through Friday, all of them private.

★ ★ ★

Four times in the last six years Tiger-Cats have emerged from their dressing room to contest a Grey Cup final and returned to it without a victory.

They'll be showing up again Saturday to face Blue Bombers — but from a different dressing room.

Cup co-ordinator Harry McBrien said there is no particular reason for the change. His committee just held a meeting and decided to give the western club the home-team dressing room this time.

★ ★ ★

One bookie said he and his associates are disappointed that Calgary Stampeders didn't make it to the Grey Cup. Winnipeg eliminated Calgary in the Western Football Conference final.

"The Toronto business people (bookies) prefer Calgary ahead of Winnipeg," he said, "because Winnipeg people are a bunch of dead-heads. There's a helluva lot more action when Calgary comes down because they got richer people. Those guys own oilfields."

★ ★ ★

Kickoff is at 10 a.m. PST and the game will be televised nationally by the CBC and CTV networks. There will be no public sale of tickets, but all 32,655 seats at the stadium are sold.

BIG GUNS QUIET

Infantry Pops For Chihawks

CHICAGO (CP)—When the old pros and the superstars can't produce, some clubs can automatically write the game off as a loss.

That could have happened Tuesday night to Chicago Black Hawks. But it didn't.

With super-star Bobby Hull on the sidelines with an injury and high-scoring Stan Mikita unable to get on target, the Hawks turned the work over to the infantry and left Detroit's Olympia Stadium with a 3-2 victory over the Red Wings.

The Chicago scorers were Fred Stanfield, 21 and in his sophomore National Hockey League year, Phil Esposito, 23, who was with the Hawks last season and for 27 games of the previous season, and Red Hay, an eight-year veteran whose specialty is killing penalties.

TWO GAMES ON TAP

The Canadiens get a chance to pull out of the tie tonight when they meet Toronto at Maple Leaf Gardens. Boston could pull even with Detroit by winning its game tonight at New York. (The Toronto-Montreal game will be televised on the CTV network, starting at 5:30.

Rejoining the Canadiens for the game against his former Leaf teammates will be left winger Dick Duff, who missed the last five games with an infected toe.

At Detroit, Gordie Howe was kept scoreless for the fourth straight game in his quest for the one goal that will boost his career total to 600, but it wasn't for lack of trying. He had three good chances in the first period.

Howe's teammate Andy Bathgate was more fortunate than Howe in aiming at a personal milestone. He assisted on Delvecchio's goal to boost his career points total to 800.

Basketball Whitewash By Boys' Club

Basketball is a free-wheeling game in which points often pile up like cordwood. But not always.

Sooke midget boys couldn't locate the hoop Tuesday, not once. The result was a 52-0 fleecing by Boys' Club in a minor league game at S. J. Willis.

St. Louis College teams had their winning number posted twice. Their bantams battered Capitals 26-18 and their pre-midgets sailed past Boys' Club 30-4. In another midget boys' game Metropolitans massaged Cordova Bay 28-4.

Three Peninsula League games go tonight, all featuring teams from Cordova Bay and Sooke. Pre-midget girls go at 7, followed by midget girls at 7:45 and bantam boys at 8:30.

Oh Gee, for Three Young May Be Free

Los Angeles 5, Maple Leafs 9
By ERNIE FEDORUK

It might not have been that way last week . . .

Today, however, it would appear that Los Angeles needs Howie Young more than Young needs the Western Hockey League's defensively-dull Blades.

The apparently-reformed and raise - seeking defenceman is still on the Los Angeles suspended list. But after the 9-5 bombing the Blades absorbed at the hands of Victoria Maple Leafs Tuesday night, coach Lynn Patrick may start believing Young is a bargain at any price.

Stay tuned, because he may be back.

It would be putting salt into the Blades' wounds to say anyone would have helped. Still, that's not too far from the truth. The Blades sadly neglected defensive chores, and that was almost as sinful as asking Shirley Temple to a stag.

Maybe worse.

The Leafs hot-footed it all over the Memorial Arena ice against only token opposition for their fifth straight victory and undisputed possession of first place.

It stretched Victoria's unbeaten streak on home ice to 10 games. The Leafs now head for two games in sunny California — Friday in San Francisco and Saturday in Los Angeles—before returning to the arena for a Dec. 1 date with Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians.

Four-Point Blitz By Millie, Litz

Sparked by the four-point efforts of Millie Marcetta and Eddie Litzenberger, the Leafs carved up a 27-point melon Tuesday. They came within one goal of tying a Victoria club record for most goals in one game — 10 — and would have had that but for a friendly (or sympathetic) pipe behind Marcel Pelletier, the Los Angeles goaltender.

John Sleaver broke away with nobody to beat but Pelletier on a chance to score Victoria's 10th goal in the last minute of play while the Leafs were playing two men short.

Sleaver beat Pelletier, sure enough, but the left goalpost got in the way of a record-matching goal.

Marcetta led the scoring onslaught with three goals and an assist. The hat-trick boosted his season's goals total to 14—best in the league—and the assist moved him two points ahead of Portland's Art Jones and Billy McNeill of Vancouver in the individual scoring race.

Litzenberger turned in one of his best efforts as a Leaf. He contributed a goal and three assists.

The looseness of Los Angeles' defence didn't help Victoria's defensive record. The Leafs, comfortably ahead most of the way, were hardly cautious.

Brian Smith and Buddy Boone each scored two goals and Cliff Pennington supplied the fifth—marking only the third time this year Victoria goalie Al Millar has been beaten for four or more goals in a single game.

Blades' Defence Unbelievably Bad

The Los Angeles' defence was unbelievably bad. The "defence" also includes forwards. They invariably were well up the ice while Leafs pressed, so consequently neither the Los Angeles' defenceman nor Pelletier can be pinned with all the blame.

Pelletier made 43 stops, including 17 in the first period. Add to that total four shots that bounced off goal posts and another 20, or so, that skittered wide of the net.

Only Millar, defenceman Bill Shvetz and rookie Dave Parenteau, who went on for two shifts late in the game, missed out in the point-spree.

ICE CHIPS: Referee Willie Papp worked a comparatively easy game . . . He called only nine penalties, six to the Leafs . . . And each squad counted twice with the power-play advantage . . . The line of Marcetta, Hebenton and Bob Barlow continues to run hot . . . They've chipped in 14 goals and 18 assists in the five-game Victoria winning streak . . . The unit now has 32 for the season and should, barring the unforseen, reach the 90-goal mark predicted for them before the season opened . . . Labadie picked up an assist in addition to his goal to emerge from a slump that saw him score only one assist in eight games. . . .

Barlow spoiled his chances to figure more prominently in the scoring-fest by straying too much from his wing . . . He managed only one assist . . . Boone and Willie O'Ree were the best for the beaten Blades.

A disappointing turnout of only 2,135 fans turned out . . . which proves, if anything, that even first-place teams don't always pack 'em in . . . Fans had to sit through the game without knowing the time . . . Memorial Arena's big scoreboard clock went on the blink Saturday night and is still being repaired . . . It was "overhauled" by an eastern "expert" last week, and promptly fizzled . . . Craftsmanship, you might say, along the lines of the Los Angeles defence Tuesday night.

Millie Leading Scorer

Milan Marcetta parlayed three goals and an assist Tuesday night into the Western Hockey League's individual scoring lead.

The dark-haired Victoria centre has 14 goals and 12 assists for 26 points, two more than Portland's Art Jones and Vancouver's Billy McNeill.

Marcetta's status evolved from a sieve-like Los Angeles defence which allowed the Blades to be lambasted 9-5 by the Maple Leafs at Memorial Arena.

Other Leafs enjoyed Los Angeles courtesy. Eddie Litzenberger had a one-three night, moved into ninth place. A point behind is Andy Hebenton who was one-two.

BECAUSE OF BEARD . . .

Fuzzy Luzzi Wants Job as Santa Claus

CALGARY (CP)—Don Luzzi, Calgary Stampeder tackle who said he wouldn't shave off his thick black beard until Stamps made it to the Grey Cup, now says he'll probably dye it white and play Santa Claus for his kids at Christmas.

★ ★ ★

Luzzi, 30, said he started the beard on a "dare from a doctor friend." Then it became a gag while the Stampeders were playing the Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western Football Conference championship.

★ ★ ★

But when Stamps lost the best-of-three-game WFC playoffs to the Bombers, people began to wonder if "Big Luz," nicknamed "The Bearded Lady" by his teammates, would end up looking like Rip Van Winkle by the time Calgary made it to the Grey Cup.

"As far as I know it will stay on for quite some time. I think I might dye it and play Santa Claus for the kids at Christmas," Luzzi said Tuesday. He's the father of two boys and two girls.

★ ★ ★

He said one problem is that by the time Calgary made it to the Grey Cup, his beard might be so long some opposition lineman could give it a yank and take him out of the play.

Did it bother his breathing? "Nope, it kept my face warm."

The growth, started about three weeks ago, now is about an inch thick. "My wife did not speak to me for 2½ weeks —now she likes it," he said.

★ ★ ★

Luzzi, who finished his the Stampeders from Villanova University in 1958, was named outstanding lineman in the Canadian Football League in 1958 and was named several times to WFC all-star teams.

CAUSES SPINE LESIONS . . . ACCORDING TO MEDICS

Single-Bar Mask Most Dangerous

TORONTO (CP) — The single-bar face mask of the modern football helmet is blamed in a Queen's University study for causing certain major spine lesions in players.

Conclusions were reached after a study of identical spine injuries to two Queen's halfbacks, not identified, during the 1961-62 season.

A report on the study by W. J. S. Melvin, H. W. Dunlop, R. F. Hetherington and J. W. Kerr appears in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

They used game movies, radiographs of the injuries, and interviews with the two players whose football careers ended with injuries.

The protruding bar on the mask jabbed into the ground locking the runner's head in a vice while the rest of his body was propelled violently forward over the locked helmet.

Thus, the faceguard "appears to be a major factor in misdirecting the forces applied to the helmet."

At the outset, they warned, the injury appears minor, producing nothing more than a sore neck. But, often, considerable progressive deteriorating occurs in the later stages.

"We do not recommend the face mask as such should be removed but rather that certain safety factors be incorporated," the researchers said.

They recommended a double or broad bar, or the bird cage type of mask worn by linemen.

Also, the mask bar shouldn't project more than one inch beyond the tip of the nose.

"To physicians, at least, tackling about the head is obviously a dangerous practice, is rarely essential to good football technique and might well be eliminated from the game."

HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

It is much too early to pass judgment in the matter of candidates for the James Norris Memorial Trophy which goes to the league's top defenceman each season but it looks as though Matt Ravlich of the Chicago Black Hawks could be a strong contender.

This is an interesting situation because Chicago's Pierre Pilote has won the award the last three years.

He's a little like Doug Harvey of Montreal who won the Norris Trophy seven of the eight years before Pilote came to the fore.

Ravlich is no youngster. A native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., he is 27 years old. He played with Providence in the American League for three seasons, including a two-game stint with Boston before Chicago picked him up in a trade and used him as their fifth defenceman last season.

Ravlich doesn't exactly rush the puck when they're coming out of their end. He takes his time, lets his forwards get organized.

He has one fault. He tries to make a perfect pass every time. He's inclined to hold onto the puck just a little too long.

The fact Ravlich apparently finally has made the grade in the NHL after bouncing around in the minors for six years, playing a year with Three Rivers in the Quebec League and two with the Soo in the old Eastern League before Providence, brings up the point that defencemen sometimes develop slowly.

That was the case with Doug Barkley, now in his fourth season with the Detroit Red Wings. He was in the Chicago system for six years, alternating between Calgary and Buffalo, before Sid Abel picked him up in a trade. He's improved every year.

As far as the new rookie crop is concerned, I don't get to play against them very often. Because in playing with Andy Bathgate and Alex Delvecchio, we are checked by veterans as a rule.

I generally hold back my judgment on them until after I've seen them under fire when they've gotten a little seasoned, start to feel their oats and throw the puck around. I don't think it is fair to pass judgment on them until then.

TRADE TIME HERE

Stuart's Going To Make Catch!

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Stuart finds himself in an unusual position as baseball's inter-league trading period begins—he's going to make a great catch for someone.

Stuart, Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman who mangles a ball with both his bat and glove, figures to wind up with an American League club after the major league teams complete the inter-league trading period.

The trading period, the only time during the year when American and National League clubs can swap players, will run for three weeks.

Stuart's name tops the list of expendables. A legitimate slugger but constantly rapped for his fielding, Stuart became available when the Phillies acquired first-baseman Bill White in a multi-player trade with St. Louis Cardinals.

Despite his fielding Stuart probably would be welcomed by an American League team that needs a power hitter. He batted only .234 for the Phillies last season but smashed 28 homers and drove in 95 runs.

TWO FIELDERS TOO?

The Phillies also are reported ready to deal away outfielders Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington. Gonzalez was fined during the season by manager Gene Mauch and Covington publicly criticized Mauch for his running of the club.

New York Mets, who already have pulled off a major trade by acquiring third-baseman Ken Boyer from the Cardinals, said at the time they made the transaction that two more players would be acquired in the future.

One was supposed to be an outfielder and the other an infielder. Announcement of the trades was presumably held up because they involved American League teams and could not be officially made until the inter-league period began.

New York Yankees also are reported to be in the market after last year's sixth - place finish. Outfielder Roger Maris, first-baseman Joe Pepitone and pitcher Jim Bouton have been mentioned as trade material.

Catcher Bob Rodgers of California Angels, pitchers Jim O'Toole and Joey Jay of Cincinnati Reds and pitchers Bob Purkey and Curt Simmons of St. Louis also have been mentioned as being available.

NEW MANAGER of New York Mets is former major league catcher Wes Westrum, 43, who has been selected to succeed retired Casey Stengel of National League baseball club.

Four-Way Fight For '72 Olympics

CALGARY (CP)—Paris, Vienna and an American city are expected to contest Montreal's application to host the 1972 Summer Olympic Games, Hans Maciej, manager of "Olympic '72," said Tuesday.

The "Olympic '72" group is backing Banff as a site for the 1972 Winter Olympics and has feared the Montreal summer bid would hurt its plans.

The Canadian Olympic Association has endorsed the Montreal bid but advised the International Olympic Committee that it will also support and recommend the Banff application.

"My personal feeling is that the summer games will go back to Europe, simply because they have already been away twice from the continent, Tokyo in 1964 and Mexico City in 1968," Maciej said.

PERSONALITY TEST

Strong Egos Help To Make Athletes

LONDON (CP)—Personality tests are being used to improve the ability of English soccer players.

The Football Association has called in an expert to give personality tests to members of England's amateur national team to help their mental approach to the sport and improve performance by increasing their confidence.

John Kane, 38-year-old head of the physical education department at St. Mary's Medical College in Twickenham, Middlesex, has devised a series of mental and physical tests at the instigation of the FA, as part of his research into physical education.

GOOD ATHLETE

Explaining his plan, Kane said: "During the last few years I have been identifying the particular type of personality that makes a good athlete.

"They must have excessively strong egos and be particularly dominant. If they lack these qualities they will break down."

The tests consist of a written test with 100 questions, plus a series of interviews and physical examinations to study how players react to fatigue.

Some experts have misgivings about the scheme. Leslie Nichol, writing in The Daily Express, voiced fear that this may one day lead to players being picked by machines.

FIRST PLACE

"It is an imaginative and look ahead step . . . but it could be the first phase in computer selection," he said.

The time might come when "the player fills in a card, the doctor and the coach add their comments, slip it in a computer, and the player is either picked—or dropped."

"Selectors be warned. Automation is catching up to you."

Vernon Mountie Manager

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Veteran major league player, manager and coach Mickey Vernon was named manager Wednesday of the Kansas City Athletics' triple A farm club at Vancouver, B.C.

Vernon, 47, replaces Bobby Hoffman, who recently was named to the A's coaching staff.

Vernon's last full season as a player was 1959. In 1960 he was a coach and pinch-hitter with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He was named manager of the Washington Senators in 1961, remaining until May 22, 1963, when he was replaced by Gil Hodges.

In 1964, he returned to Pittsburgh as a coach. This past season he served in the same capacity with the St. Louis Cardinals.

What are the men of London talking about these days?

Gold Keg.
England has many Canadian souvenirs: totem poles, Eskimo carvings, polar bear cubs and so forth.
But many Englishmen claim that the best thing Canada ever sent over is Gold Keg Beer.
Gold Keg seems to strike the Englishman's fancy.
They like its flavour (a mellow, rare flavour). They like its colour (a warm, amber colour). They like its bouquet (the kind of bouquet all beers should have).
They say it's as good as Bass, Worthington's or any other fine British brew.
Gold Keg Beer

DEFENDING CHAMPS . . .

. . . CAN WIN CUP OUTRIGHT

Brazil's Hopes Ride With Pele

DECLARED a "national treasure," fabulous Pele holds key to Brazil's bid for permanent possession of World Soccer Cup.

LONDON (AP) — There is one man whose name bestrides the World Soccer Cup finals in England next year—Pele of Brazil.

He's the goal-getter for defending champion Brazil, and could be the player to win the World Cup outright for Brazil.

Brazil was champion in 1958 and 1962 and the first country to win the World Cup—officially the Jules Rimet Trophy—three times will win permanent possession of it.

Uruguay is another team with a chance of doing that and Italy, if it can qualify against Scotland in Naples Dec. 7, also will be in the running in 1966.

Uruguay won the world title in 1930, the first championship, and again in 1950. Italy won in 1934 and 1938.

Only other country ever to win was West Germany in 1954.

Pele has scored about 50 goals in about the same number of international appearances for Brazil.

Pele, who has no first name, is the star of the Brazilian national team and considered by many the world's best player—a player who can whip in a free kick from way outside the penalty area and also can slip in one from almost any place inside the penalty area.

Brazil as defending champion, automatically qualified for the 16-team World Cup finals in England next July.

England, as host country, was the other team to get through without playing qualifying matches.

The teams through to the finals so far are Brazil, England, Mexico, Uruguay, Argentina, Russia, Hungary, Portugal, Chile, West Germany, France and Spain.

Four places in the finals remain to be filled

The matches vital in filling the last four places in the finals involve Scotland and Italy, Bulgaria and Belgium, Switzerland and Northern Ireland and Australia and North Korea.

U.S. DEAD IN COMBAT RUNS HIGH

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

SAIGON (AP)—The battle of Ia Drang Valley pushed American casualties in Viet Nam last week to 240 killed in action, the U.S. military announced today. It was nearly three times the highest total announced for any previous week.

The U.S. command also reported 470 Americans were wounded during the week ending midnight Nov. 20 and six are missing in action.

A record number of Communist casualties also was reported—2,262 dead and 136 captured. South Vietnamese forces reported 357 dead and 807 wounded, more than double the previous week.

The exact count of American casualties during the week was believed to be significantly higher than the totals announced. The full toll will not be available until later due to procedure which requires that each American casualty be identified by name before being carried on a casualty list.

The average for the Korean War was about 210 American battle dead a week, but at times it rose far higher.

TOTAL DEAD—1,300

The report today brought the total of U.S. casualties reported in nearly five years of fighting in Viet Nam to 1,300 dead and about 6,900 wounded. Half the dead and a third of the wounded were cut down in the last three months as U.S. combat troops who began arriving in Viet Nam in February took a bigger and bigger part in the war.

Before February the U.S. role was an advisory one, coupled with providing helicopter and other air support for South Vietnamese units.

The highest previous total of American casualties was reported for the week ending Nov. 13. It was 86 killed and 230 wounded. The week before the total was 70 killed and 237 wounded.

The jump in American and Communist casualties last week was primarily due to the hard fighting in the Ia Drang Valley 210 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border. Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division battled North Vietnamese regiments all week there.

Meanwhile, new fighting was reported on the central coast as 500 South Vietnamese troops clashed with about 200 Viet Cong 330 miles north of Saigon near the provincial capital of Quang Ngai. South Vietnamese officials claimed 150 guerrillas were killed before they withdrew.

A military spokesman said two companies of Viet Cong attacked two government positions near Quang Ngai Tuesday, inflicting light casualties on the defenders. But he reported a South Vietnamese relief force killed 40 Viet Cong.

No other major ground activity was reported.

U.S. Air Attacks Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is receiving reports that Communist Chinese leaders have warned of possible American air attacks and urged elderly people and others to leave China's big cities and return to their villages.

Sources said the campaign apparently began last spring and was stepped up in September and October.

U.S. authorities said that as far as they can determine, there has not been any evacuation order, and that the advice was passed by word of mouth.

The full effect of the warning hasn't been determined. Some information indicates a slight exodus in southern China, but skepticism in the northern centres.

Some U.S. experts believe the Chinese Communists are using the warning with two goals in mind:

1. That economic problems could be handled more easily if the Chinese population was more decentralized.

2. That the threat of war will whip up the revolutionary spirit of the Chinese people.

In addition, some U.S. experts on Chinese Communist affairs said leaders in Peking may truly be concerned about the possibility of war, basing that feeling on the U.S. military buildup in Viet Nam.

HANOI'S PEACE CONDITION

All U.S. Troops Must Be Recalled

TOKYO (AP)—President Ho Chi-minh of North Viet Nam has reasserted a demand that all United States troops withdraw from South Viet Nam as a condition for settlement of the Viet Nam conflict. He thus appeared to have destroyed all hopes the Communists might move toward a compromise which could bring the conflict to a conference table.

Peking's New China news agency reported the president wrote Nov. 17 to Dr. Linus Carl Pauling, American Nobel Peace Prize winner, re-stating Communist demands. These demands since March 22 have been laid down as conditions before any international conference would even be considered.

DEAD END

President Johnson last April expressed U.S. willingness for "unconditional discussions." With both the United States and the Communists holding firmly to their terms for talks, diplomatic efforts toward settling the war may have reached a dead end.

Diplomatic efforts date to autumn a year ago, shortly after U.S. planes struck North Vietnamese naval installations in retaliation for North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin.

This month, the U.S. state department confirmed that United Nations Secretary - General U Thant, last fall relayed word North Viet Nam was willing to talk with U.S. representatives at Rangoon, Burma.

A department spokesman said Washington rejected this because "all our indications were that there was no serious intent on the other side."

The effort continued. There were some gestures since which might have been considered probes, but Ho's latest pronouncement appeared to leave little or no room for compromise.

Given Wrong Blood

TORONTO (CP) — A pathologist testified Monday that the death of Mrs. Agnes Love, 61, at Toronto East General Hospital Oct. 21 was probably caused by transfusion of the wrong type of blood.

GI HID OUT FOR WEEK

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. helicopter plucked a wounded American soldier from the Ia Drang Valley jungle today after he had hidden there for seven days from North Vietnamese troops.

Pte. Toby Braveboy, 24, of Coward, S.C., underwent a 30-minute operation at a U.S. field hospital in Pleiku for multiple bullet wounds.

He was pronounced in satisfactory condition.

Tower Tenders Called

MONTREAL (CP)—City clerk Gabrie Morin said today tenders for construction of a 1,066-foot tower at the site of the 1967 world's fair will be opened Dec. 23.

The tower, to cost an estimated $11,000,000, will honor the founders of Montreal. It has been described as "a huge water pipe cut down the middle with two lengths glued back-to-back." Officials say it will be the tallest observation tower in the world.

IN NORTHERN IRELAND

Tory Victory Seen Certainty

LONDON (CP) — Few countries in the world have more predictable politics than Northern Ireland, that Tory enclave of the Emerald Isle bound by sentimental and constitutional ties to Britain.

It has been governed by the same political party for 44 years, ever since separate parliaments were set up for the six counties of pro-British, Protestant Ulster and the 26 counties of nationalist, Roman Catholic Eire, now the Republic of Ireland. Small wonder that its 11th general election, being held Nov. 25, is taken for granted almost to the point of being ignored this side of the Irish Sea.

The Northern Ireland Parliament is related to Westminster in much the same way as a Canadian provincial government is to Ottawa, legislating on domestic affairs while the British Parliament, to which Ulster elects 11 members, retains responsibility for such matters as external affairs, defence and taxation.

With only 29 of the 52 seats being contested, the outcome of the present election is hardly in doubt. The ruling Unionist (Conservative) party of Capt. Terence Marne O'Neill, supported by most of the country's two-thirds Protestant majority, is expected to skate back to power in a House of Commons little changed from the old lineup: 34 Unionists, four Labor, nine Nationalist, one independent, one Liberal, one Republican Labor, one Eire Labor and one non-party Speaker.

MAY LOSE SEATS

Some observers predict the Unionists may lose a couple of seats in Belfast and possibly Antrim to the Northern Ireland Labor party, which has close links with Britain's socialists and has shown signs of growth in recent years. Its membership is less dictated by religious lines than that of the other two major parties.

Labor hopefully boosts the British government's legislative record as an electoral asset, but a recent British proposal to close the naval dockyard at Derry, coupled with growing uncertainty over the future of Belfast's giant Harland and Wolff shipyard, may prove useful to the Unionists.

BRIDGE RESULTS

North-South: Birdie Duprau and Bud Waddington, first; Denise and Fraser McColl, second; Judy Druce and Peter Nixon, third; Dora Duprau and Elizabeth Waite, fourth.

East-West: Anne and Earle Dye, first; Margaret and Jack McAvoy, second; Lilian McMicking and Marjory Fortye, third; Glen McDonald and Brian Larkey, fourth.

Victoria Three Cities All at the Same Time?

H. W. Hignett, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, sees triple when he looks at Victoria.

He sees Victoria the capital city. Then there is Victoria, city of growth and development.

"The third Victoria is a place where there are unhappy housing conditions," he told a joint meeting Tuesday of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, and the Victoria Real Estate Board.

Speaking on "A Fresh Look at the National Housing Act," he said the third Victoria is sometimes forgotten "in the excitement of new ventures."

COMMON PROBLEM

"Bad housing," he said, "is common to every Canadian community. It must be curbed."

He said Victoria is getting there.

"Over several trips to the city I have been impressed by many of the changes taking place. Victoria is doing things other cities are only contemplating doing."

He congratulated the city for the Centennial Square project, the removal of overhead wiring, and the paint-up '64 and '65 efforts.

"Already the facilities of the new NHA are being used for Bastion Square. After that they can be used to remedy certain poor housing conditions along Blanshard Street," Mr. Hignett said.

He said there has to be good housing for everyone everywhere.

"Single people, old people, single and married students" will all benefit from implementation of the NHA by CMHC (the federal housing agency).

"We are on the way," he said, "to a total solution of all cities' multiple ills."

'WE'VE BEEN COWARDS!'

Three Big Cheers For Gritty Printer

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A flexing of youthful minds, we call it, when students of University of Victoria vote in favor of withholding $56 of their second-term fees to protest rising tuition costs.

We may not like such gymnastics but we tolerate them in the thought that youthful minds must be exercised if a mature grown-up is to evolve.

Forbes

However, when it comes to a group of young men and women on campus passing a motion of censure against a local printing firm because its owner refuses to print a story written by one of the group for the university magazine—then I think the flexing of minds is getting out of hand.

Surely a man has every right to say what his firm will do or not do. Surely he has the right of free choice in the shaping of his own affairs; the right to make his own decisions.

Surely young men and women of university years, who presume in so many ways to shape their own destinies must, if they have any maturity at all, recognize these facts—and accept them.

I have not read the story that has been rejected by printer Charles Morriss. I don't know whether it is "pornographic" as he has labelled it or merely a puerile attempt by youth to foist its own uncertainties and nebulous beliefs on others of its kind.

COURAGEOUS

What I do know is that Mr. Morriss has had the courage that many of us lack. He has stood up and said that he doesn't like this kind of story, that it is offensive and that he will not print it. I admire him for his stand!

In the past decade we have seen the basic facts of life disclosed in ever increasing boldness, until today we are faced with the stark nakedness of such realities.

As each succeeding veil has been lifted, we've gone through the same rigmarole.

WEAK PROTESTS

We've gasped and mouthed weak protests. We've shrugged to absolve ourselves of responsibility. And we've closed our eyes to the underlying breakdown in morals and the accompanying distortion of the behavior pattern.

In other words we've been cowards!

It seems to me that the students of University of Victoria would better serve their Alma Mater at this time by turning their eyes toward their studies.

All this excess energy, this flexing of minds would be welcomed in the lecture room. There, it would be allowed full play while being channelled into a well-balanced maturity.

It's wonderful to be young! It's exciting to be young in this age of miracles! It's a challenge to be young and to know that the future depends on the intelligence of youth!

RESPONSIBILITIES

A challenge of this magnitude brings many responsibilities. These do not include attitudes that seem to bulk large in the ways of many university students.

What we need today is young men and women who can prove that the maturity they so nonchalantly assume is "for keeps" and not something that dissolves into childish actions whenever there is disagreement with their thinking.

If nothing else, Mr. Morriss' stand and the accompanying vote of censure from the campus, should clearly pinpoint this need.

Black 'Sporting' Powder Could Have Blasted Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — An explosives expert said Tuesday experiments showed that 33 ounces of black "sporting" powder would have been sufficient to cause an explosion similar to that which blew apart an airliner last July 8.

Dave Brown of Canadian Industries Ltd. was testifying at an inquest into the Canadian Pacific Airlines disaster in which 52 persons were killed.

Earlier testimony showed that an explosion in the rear section of the aircraft ripped off part of the fuselage and tail section, sending the DC-6B into a spin over the Cariboo district.

All aboard perished.

Mr. Brown said the 33 ounces of powder could be purchased from a sporting goods shop. It could be made into a package about five inches by five inches. It is normally used by hunters in making ammunition.

Tom Sterling, an expert on the effects of explosives on metals, said there was no doubt in his mind that an explosion resulting from a "high order detonation" occurred on the plane.

'Here I Am 96, Same Old Bird With the Same Old Tricks'

By GLEN ALLEN

A voice said: "Well here I am at 96,

"It's my poem they're reading. My latest," said Mr. Morton.

To James Morton, prophet, sage, pioneer, writer, poet, literatus, thinker and bon vivant, each year is a poem.

That same old bird, who was 96 Monday, has seen this country grow up. He'll tell you what he thinks of Canada —and the world.

"The history of this country, and in fact the history of all countries in the modern world, has been determined not by personalities but by economics," he said.

DON'T UNDERSTAND

"People — that is, voters — don't often understand that."

If times are good, the government stays.

"My old friend Mackenzie King understood this. A lot of people didn't credit him with much more than tenaciousness, but he understood government and he understood people.

"Take Pearson now. He's a good, but weak man. He showed bad judgment calling that election," said Mr. Morton.

"Diefenbaker is just the opposite. To aggressive. Too authoritative. But he's a plucky old beggar isn't he?"

Mr. Morton's views are the astute and current views of an old hand. They ought to be.

After homesteading in his early years in Manitoba he came farther west and got a job as legislative reporter with the old Vancouver News-Advertiser and later the Vancouver World.

PREMIER'S SECRETARY

After that he took a position as personal secretary to B.C. premier John Oliver. He served succeeding premiers MacLean and Tolmie in the same capacity.

MORTON
. . . each year a poem

He has been writing all his life. Romances, poems, satire a la Swift and a biography of John Oliver.

"I can't read any more. But I can still write."

He seems to have total recall.

Discusing his favorite poets and authors, he quotes fully and without faltering, "Carlyle, Dickens, George Eliot, Whittier, Tennyson . . . those were the greats. Good literature ended with the 19th century. I can't stand this modern stuff. I tried Dylan Thomas, but . . . And they say Yeats has a great name, but who ever quotes him?"

'MAGIC WITH WORDS'

He said dreams are full of Mrs. Gamp, Sam Wellor, and the death of Little Nell.

"Dickens could make magic with words.

"Yes . . . Yes . . . oh yes . . ." he whispers, as if remembering it all.

"Ah, but the world is still with us. Those Americans are in trouble too. History has brought socialism to our doorstep. It's inevitable. It's only a difference in degree between the nationalization of hydro in B.C. and the communization of Viet Nam. What the Americans fail to see is that people have to be let alone. If the majority of Asians are communists, or want to be, it is certainly their affair."

WHY NOT?

Canada too is moving left. And why not?

"If we make provision for people's education why not for their health?"

"You know, I take more and more comfort from the eternal truths, the eternal pleasures, as I grow old.

"I sit at the organ—bought it in the '30s for $10—and play hymns and think about Christ's teachings. I don't go for all that Billy Graham drama—I can't swallow all that—but I go to bed feeling comfortable when I am able to think that I was here and there was some purpose to my being here."

Mr. Morton sings a little to his organ. He sings softly to the reedy music; you can't hear the words.

"It's nice being 96," he says. "You remember how my birthday poem ends?"

He does, and he recites:

"I still have music in my soul

Union Sues Policeman For Telling Secrets

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Policemen's Union here launched a Supreme Court suit Tuesday against nine of its fellow members for allegedly revealing union secrets to the Vancouver police commission.

The union also launched a suit against the police commission for allegedly forcing the nine policemen to reveal the secrets.

In one suit the union seeks damages from nine men and asks an injunction preventing them from revealing union business in future unless they are specifically authorized by the union.

The second suit, filed by the union and president Ronald G. Magill, seeks damages from the police commission for allegedly inducing certain members to breach their contract with the union and for alleged breach of the Labour Relations Act.

The union further seeks an injunction prohibiting the commission and "its servants" from "compelling or inducing" members of the union to disclose union business, and from proceeding with two disciplinary charges against Magill.

A writ filed with the court said McGill faces disciplinary charges by the police force for "expressing yourself before other members of the force to the effect that you did not have any confidence in the chief constable or in the deputy chief constable and by then attempting to elicit active support from your expressions from other members of the force . . ."

The writ claims Magill was speaking to a closed union meeting.

Funeral Held For Founder Of St. Michael's

Funeral services for the founder of St. Michael's School, Kyrle Charles Symons, were held Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, Elgin Road.

Mr. Symons died Friday at the age of 84.

Born in India, he moved to England as a boy, attended public school and Oxford where he took an M.A. He came to Victoria when he was 24 and first taught in a one-room school on Salt Spring Island.

Mr. Symons founded St. Michael's in 1910 and taught until 1946, continuing as director after that.

Never a large school, it has produced Rhodes scholars and many successful Canadians.

Mr. Symons' son, Kryle, now the school's headmaster, says of his father's devotion to St. Michael's, "he had little time for anything else."

He was, though, president of the Victoria branch of the Royal Society of St. George and a member of the Kipling Society. Pallbearers at the funeral were old boys of the school: Capt. J. B. Prentiss, Hamish Bridgman, Kenneth Barnes, J. W. M. Barber-Starkey, Dr. A. E. Gillespie and John Nation.

Mr. Symons is survived by two sons, Kryle W. and Edward J., both of Victoria, and four grandchildren.

DOWAGER QUEEN DIES IN BELIGIUM

ELISABETH
. . . courage in war

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian court went into mourning today for dowager Queen Elisabeth, a heroine in two world wars and one of Europe's leading patronesses of the arts.

The queen, 89, suffered a heart attack Nov. 4. She had another attack Tuesday night and died within a few minutes.

Elisabeth was the widow of King Albert, the mother of former King Leopold III and the grandmother of the reigning monarch, King Baudouin. Former Queen Marie Jose of Italy is her daughter, and Grand Duchess Josephine-Charlotte of Luxembourg is a granddaughter.

Although born a German princess, she won the hearts of the Belgians during the two wars in which her native country was the enemy.

"An Iron Curtain has fallen between my country and me," she said when German troops invaded Belgium in the First World War. She nursed the wounded in the trenches and was awarded the French War Cross for her "courage and devotion under enemy fire."

During the Second World War she defied the Nazis and succeeded in staying in Belgium when the retreating Germans removed the royal family to Germany.

SPONSORED CONTESTS

A violinist, pianist, painter and sculptress, she sponsored one of the world's top musical contests, the Queen Elisabeth Competition, and founded or assisted 175 artistic, charitable and scientific foundations and institutions.

Noted for her independence, she was sometimes jokingly called the Red Queen because she sponsored the Communist-front Belgo - Soviet Friendship Association and showed sympathy toward Russia and Communist China.

She travelled to Russia when she was 82 and told Premier Nikita Khrushchev he was a "marvellous man." She also visited Communist China and expressed admiration for Mao Tse-tung.

Elisabeth was born July 7, 1876, at Possenhofen Castle in Bavaria, the second daughter of Duke Karl Theodor of Bavaria and Infanta Marie Jose of Portugal.

In 1900, she married Albert, heir to the Belgian throne. The couple took the throne in 1909 and ruled until 1934, when the king was killed in a mountain climbing accident.

Her son, Crown Prince Leopold succeeded his father but was forced to abdicate in favor of Baudouin after the Second World War.

The funeral will be next Tuesday. The body will lie in state in the royal palace in Brussels Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Meet Set On Water Pollution

A two-day conference on water pollution will be held Dec. 2 and 3 at the University of British Columbia.

Responsibility of the individual, local government and industry in maintaining a non-polluted environment will be the theme of the conference, to be sponsored by the university's extension department.

Voicing opinions on the subject will be experts from goverment, private industry and universities.

The value of water quality, pollution problems in the province and control of industrial plant wastes will also be discussed

Representatives from provincial industries — fishing, forest products, mining and smelting — will take part.

The conference will also be attended by municipal officials, town planners and interested citizens from throughout the province.

Speakers will include Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Mr. Sutherland is a member of Masonic Lodge No. 59, AF and AM, and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters. Already, the couple has received many letters, cards and congratulatory telegrams from their friends and relatives in Canada and the United States.

Several Victorians have signed the visitors' book at British Columbia House in London, England, during the last few days. They include Mrs. Gordon Murray, Mr. Ian M. Hedley, Mrs. Sybil Bateman and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Roy. Other Vancouver Island residents visiting there were Miss Erin McMartin, Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pollock of Comox and Mrs. Mary E. Wadsworth, Duncan.

Travelling from Vancouver to hear vows exchanged recently between Miss Arlene Joan Halliday and Mr. Gerald Hugh Shanks were Mr. and Mrs. D. Owen, Mrs. R. Goodman, Mrs. Aylett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Corsages were presented to the mother, the infants' grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Warren and their sister, Miss Hazelanne Botting. Two baby baskets held the gifts from the 100 guests attending. Refreshments were served.

FULFILLS TRADITION

Heirloom Pearls Worn by Bride

An heirloom pearl necklace was "something borrowed" for Arlene Joan Halliday when she became the bride of Gerald Hugh Shanks recently in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church. The necklace belonged to the groom's mother.

Chrysanthemums and carnations in white and red tones decorated the church when Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated at the candlelight ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. J. C. Halliday, 77A Linden Avenue, and Mr. Halliday of Vancouver, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cuyler H. Shanks, 2655 Dufferin Avenue.

The bride wore a slim, floor-length gown styled along empire lines with a full length train. The bodice featured a princess neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Velvet and lace highlighted the waistline. Her veil misted to waist-length from a coronet of pearls. She carried red roses and ivy in her cascade bouquet.

Matron of honor Mrs. F. Keogh, bridesmairon Mrs. B. Ritchie, bridesmaid Miss Linda Halliday, and flower girl Carol Swanbeck, wore dresses of red velvet. The fitted bodices featured princess necklines. Red velvet bows were in their hair. They carried cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Yacht Club Party

A get-acquainted party will be held in the clubhouse of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on Friday evening. The annual affair is designed to welcome new members.

STEALS SOME OF ROYAL LIMELIGHT

Grocery Boy Invited to Party for Snowdons

NEW YORK (UPI)—Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon danced away last night on a transparent floor over a bubbling pool at a lavish farewell party attended by socialites, celebrities and Tommy Cole.

Although the royal British couple were the guests of honor, a good deal of attention was diverted to Tommy who was cheered as he arrived in his borrowed tux and slightly crooked bow tie.

Tommy, a shy grocery boy, looked somewhat bewildered by it all as many of the guests called him by name. His invitation was a reward for his honesty in returning a stray invitation to actress Elaine Stritch.

When Tommy returned it, she mentioned the incident to party hostess Sharman Douglas, who in turn invited the youth.

Tommy arrived with Miss Stritch and her escort, spent about 40 minutes inside at the bar and left. He apparently was not introduced to the royal couple.

The princess wore a floor-length turquoise evening gown at the "informal" party in the chic Four Seasons restaurant. She declined the frug and the jerk for "sedate fox trots" and a "graceful Charleston" and danced frequently "with anyone who asked her," a spokesman said.

CHEERED IN

The princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, arrived at 11:12 p.m. in a racing green Rolls Royce. More than 300 persons, many of them British, braved the night chill to cheer and ooh and aah as the royal couple entered.

Nearly 200 of the door-watchers remained until 3:19 a.m., when the royal couple, grinning broadly, left for the Long Island estate of John Hay Whitney, former U.S. ambassador to Britain.

A member of the royal entourage declared the princess' four hours of dancing and chatting and picking up her own supper buffet-style in the restaurant's gleaming kitchen constituted "the time of her trip."

"I've never seen her stay out so late and enjoy herself so much," she said.

The princess' farewell evening was apparently not ruffled by a full-page criticism yesterday in Women's Wear Daily, bible of fashion-conscious American women, that called her a "schizophrenic mixture of chic and sheer fashion disaster."

The party was informal only in the pot-luck aspect, where guests selected their food from six "stations" (sauce, egg, grill, trout pantry and dessert) in the kitchen and took it to tables around the tree-fringed dance area. Men wore tuxedos and women evening gowns.

PRINCESS UNDER FIRE

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's Wear Daily, largest fashion newspaper in America, says the styles of Princess Margaret's travel wardrobe are "too old and too matronly . . . skirts a bit too long.

"The hats, scaled way too large and are so old-fashioned, so fussy," says the article in Tuesday's paper.

Her high heels are too high the fashion paper said, and "why such satchels for handbags when you've got a lady-in-waiting?

Morning Dispositions Sweetened With This

By Penny Saver

The worst time of the day around the Saver household is breakfast time. No sounds are uttered until the horde is fed, then it is safe to say "good morning," at least. One disadvantage to having a grumpy family at breakfast time is what to feed them. I try to give them a variety from morning to morning, which, I hope, will sweeten their dispositions.

I found a set of egg cups in one shop that would brighten anybody's day. They're sturdy plastic cups, made in West Germany. They come in attractive modern colors—red, yellow, blue, and others.

The feature I like about these cups is that if one of my sleepyheads knocks one over, the cup won't break. The price, too, suits my pocketbook. A set of six of these cups sells for 98 cents.

A handsome butter dish, made of the same plastic, sells for 98 cents too. They are available with a transparent or ordinary colored cover. You can get them to match the color of the egg cups also.

A very attractive salad bowl with a red interior caught my eye. This bowl sells for $1.98. The salad set of a serving spoon and fork sells for 98 cents the set. This is just the right thing to make a salad look colorful and appetizing.

The other day when my neighbor and I were spending a tranquil hour together over a cup of coffee, I dropped my sugar bowl, and that was that. Then, I spilled some cream, which resulted in a neat little ring of cream around the base of the cream jug. My coffee table consequently has a ring on it too.

Another product of this remarkable plastic has something just for me. It's a tray just the right size for a cream and sugar set. A set, with a tray and cream and sugar bowls to match, sells for $2.95.

Some people claim that plastics have an odor. (A synthetic odor, perhaps?) However, the salesman assured me that these plastic items do not have any trace of a smell.

Remember, Penny is available at 382-3131 if you want to know where to shop.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

"I hope you like this hash I made of left-overs — although if you do, I guess that means you're some kind of nut."

CHUNKY ALMOND FUDGE

One can (14½ oz.) evaporated milk, 1½ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 package (6¼ oz.) miniature marshmallows, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 packages (6 oz. each) semi-sweet chocolate bits, cup candied cherries, halved; 1 cup toasted slivered almonds. Whole unblanched almonds (optional).

Combine milk, sugar, salt and marshmallows in saucepan; cook over low heat, stirring until marshmallows melt. Boil mixture 5 minutes, stirring often. Remove from heat.

Add vanilla, chocolate, cherries and slivered almonds; stir until chocolate is melted. Spread evenly in lightly oiled 13x9x2-inch baking pan. If you wish, lightly mark into 1½-inch squares with tip of knife or into fancy shapes with small cooky cutter, then garnish each piece with whole almond. Cool. Cut pieces, remove from pan.

Makes 48 squares or about 30 shaped pieces.

LAVISH DECORATIONS SHOW IMAGINATION

World-Wide Theme at Huge Church Bazaar

An around-the-world theme set the stage when Fairfield United Church Women held an International Co-operation Year bazaar and realized $1,000. Other church organizations assisting were Canadian Girls in Training, Explorers, Boy Scouts, Young People's Association and the As One That Serves men's organization.

India, Holland, Japan, France, Mexico, Sweden, Italy and Hawaii were represented. Even space entered the picture, being symbolized by a space ship.

The imaginative decorations included a huge elephant, windmill, pagoda, Japanese lanterns, a French flower cart, grass hut, Mexican hats and blankets, as well as statuesque Pantheon pillars.

Mrs. H. W. Kerl[illegible], wife of the minister, opened the affair, being introduced by Mrs. C. J. Horwood, who also introduced convener Mrs. Dave Oliphant; president, Mrs. Robert Baird and Mrs. A. R. Trail, who chose the theme and was responsible for all the decorations.

Dressed in the country which their stall represented were helpers Mrs. J. Potts, sewing stall, India; Mrs. N. Desmond, home cooking, Italy; Mrs. D. Allen, delicatessen, France; Mrs. F. Stephenson, candy, Holland; Mrs. H. A. Johnston, variety, Japan; Explorers Group, pictures, Sweden; Bob Ireland and Gary Ross, wooden bowls and candles, Hawaii; H. Youson, fruit, vegetables, plants and flowers, Mexico.

Led by Mrs. G. Holland, CGIT members sold jewelry, bath salts and King Alfred cakes. In charge of a fish pond was Velma Ireland. CGIT members also acted as baby sitters.

Miss Arleigh Trail was in charge of a "post office" that featured parcels sent from various parts of the world while an outer space table for children was manned by the Misses Lara Beth Trail, Brenda Fox and Denise Caspersen.

Miss Margaret Staines convened an ABC stall that offered aprons, bags and cushions. Assisting her were Mrs. Eric Garman and Mrs. E. H. Ranson. Led by Glen Holland, Scouts sold hat racks and superfluities.

Miss Doris Freeman made a provocative "lavender lady" while Mrs. M. Hartley sold Joe's notebooks and calendars.

Mrs. John Campbell had centred tables with miniature cups and saucers, each with a "topper" of fall flowers for the tea, served by members of the Amity Unit. Guests were received by Mrs. Baird and Mrs. Kerley.

Too Cut and Dried!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Where this ungracious custom originated, I do not know, but it is rapidly becoming popular in my community. At occasions where a gift is in order, a basket of tiny "scrolls" (paper rolled up and tied with a white ribbon for brides, silver for silver wedding anniversaries, gold for golden weddings, and so on) is placed on the gift table. As each person presents his gift, he is handed a "scroll." On this scroll is a TYPED "thank-you-for-your-gift" note. Then the honoree feels absolved from the task of writing thank you notes after the party. What do you think about this?

PROPER OLD LADY

DEAR PROPER: Not much. A "thank you" note of this kind has all the warmth of a smoked herring, and the tenderness of a hit-and-run driver.

DEAR ABBY: I am divorced, and have been ever since my son was four months old. (He is now nearly three years old.) His father has remarried and hasn't bothered to come to see him since we were divorced, but he does send support money. I am only 23 and hope to remarry some day and give my son a real "Daddy," but in the meantime, a problem has come up.

We live with my parents, and my son calls my father "Papa" because he hears me calling him that. But he's just discovered the word "Daddy" and he's confused. What shall I tell him? I tried to tell him that he doesn't have a "Daddy" yet, but he doesn't seem to understand. How do I go about telling him why? And if that doesn't satisfy his curiosity, how should I explain it?

YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell him the truth. And answer only one question at a time—as it comes up. Tell him that his Daddy and you do not live together any more. If he asks why, tell him that your marriage was a mistake, and you decided to end it.

DEAR ABBY: Often, in the movies, and also on television, I have seen a gentleman give a woman his handkerchief after she has had a crying session. I would like to know, Abby just what does the woman do with the handkerchief after she has used it? It seems odd to me that she would give him back a dirty handkerchief. Or it it just taken for granted that she can keep it?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: The woman should take the handkerchief home and launder it. If she knows she'll see him again, she should return it in person. Otherwise, she should mail it back to him. (I say "should," knowing full well that few do.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "AWAITING YOUR REPLY": I do not believe that a "shotgun" marriage under the circumstances you described has much of a chance to succeed and, therefore, I would not recommend it. As for marrying to give a child "a name," good names (and bad ones) are earned by those who bear them.

Something for Everyone At OES Chapter's Bazaar

The K of P Hall was decked with boughs of holly (and fir) and hundreds of guests had plenty of reason to be jolly Saturday afternoon.

There was something for everyone to see, do and play at the Victoria Chapter No. 17, Order of the Eastern Star bazaar which realized $1,280. While many shopped for seasonal bargains in gifts at the numerous stalls, others took advantage of the chance to sit and enjoy themselves, and maybe win an attractive prize at the bingo games, called by Elmo Meiss, Jack Barnes and Bill Tomlinson.

Guests found the idea of buying their Christmas decorations early irresistible as they crowded around a stall featuring every possible type of ornament as well as novelties, convened by Mrs. F. Willavoys. Adorable little angels, glossy white and sparkling with gold, green and silver glitter were snapped up by customers as perfect toppers for a tree.

BARGAIN HUNTERS

Others found the lure of centrepieces, frost-tipped pine cones, and dried gold-sprayed grasses with ornaments, too good a bargain to miss.

Even the men—there were many there—weren't forgotten. Featured especially for them—for gifts or "necessities" were dip nets and hand-tied flies for fishing—even a crab-net, made by an expert, was offered.

No one could pass by the home-cooking stall without buying one of the mouth-watering Christmas cakes for sale. These were rich in spices, nuts and fruits and packed in gay green and red packages. The thought of calories flew out the window, they looked so delicious.

No one can resist the thought of a surprise and at this bazaar, there were no exceptions. Guests thronged about a stall supervised by Mrs. T. Baldwin, which offered surprise presents—one picked a number to win an assortment of wonderful prizes.

Others stopped in at the tea room to have refreshments served by Mrs. J. Park and Mrs. A. McMillan and their committee, and to converse with their friends.

Grand representative Mrs. A. Hiquebran opened the affair convened by Mrs. W. T. McLaughlin, and worthy matron Mrs. J. Randall greeted the guests.

Convening the other stalls were Mrs. S. Mawer, hat bar; Mrs. E. Gerrard and Mrs. I. McColm, handkerchiefs; Mrs. Leila Brenen and Mrs. T. Clarkson, sewing, fancywork and aprons; Mrs. R. Matthews and Griffith Jones, plants and produce; Mrs. M. Brown and Mrs. Florence Lafferty, white elephant; past matrons, contests, and Mrs. G. Jones, candy.

Golden Wedding Day For Victoria Couple

A well-known Victoria couple is marking their golden wedding anniversary today. Dr. and Mrs. A. W. McCaskill were married in Weyburn, Sask. 50 years ago and have lived in Victoria since 1945.

To celebrate the anniversary, a tea was held in the couple's Dawe Road home this afternoon. Yellow roses centred the refreshment table.

Dr. and Mrs. McCaskill were presented with a gold mantel clock by their two sons, daughter, daughters-in-law and son-in-law.

They are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCaskill of Dawson Creek, Mr. and Mrs. K. A. McCaskill of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. K. G. (Mollie) Robinson of Victoria. Also present for the occasion were four of the couple's 10 grandchildren, Anne McCaskill, Dawson Creek and Gordon, Margaret and Douglas Robinson, all of Victoria. The other grandchildren are Marlene, Bob and Brian McCaskill of Dawson Creek and Ken, John and David McCaskill of Calgary.

For many years, Dr. and Mrs. McCaskill lived in Calgary where their children were born and raised. After moving to Victoria, Dr. McCaskill was federal veterinary for Vancouver Island until his retirement several years ago.

Dr. McCaskill was born in Giroux, Man. His wife was born in Ayr, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1912.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Often very valuable beauty hints come to me through letters from readers. So many women are annoyed by brittle, grooved, or split nails! This is very likely to be a problem if a woman does housework and has many wet household chores. The habit of wearing rubber gloves with cotton lining when doing such work is helpful. It is also beneficial to massage an oil or cream into the nails and the skin surrounding them.

Lowman

One reader sent me this suggestion to share with you because she has profited by it for years. She said, "Since I have had such great success it seems a shame not to share the information with others."

Splitting nails used to be a problem for her. However, she has had no more trouble since she started using paste polish on her nails, and this was a long time ago.

Deformed or grooved nails can result from injury or inflammation at the nail bed. The bottom of the nail extends far back under the skin, almost to the first finger joint. Therefore nail abnormalities can be due to arthritis in the fingers.

There has been some evidence that diet plays a part, but it is not very convincing. However, if the measures I have mentioned do not remedy the condition you would be wise to talk this over with your doctor.

This same reader gave me another idea to pass along to you. For many years she has used anhydrous lanolin to keep her skin soft. As you probably know, lanolin is an important ingredient in creams. However, anhydrous lanolin is lanolin from which all the water has been removed. You can get it at any drugstore.

This type lanolin is very heavy. My reader mixes it with regular cream and finds that it is wonderful for the epidermis.

Another reader writes that she has found that there is nothing which is so effective for dry skin as heavy cream (cow's cream). She leaves it on her face and neck to dry and then rinses it off.

I am sure that I am speaking for you as well as myself when I thank these readers for sending along the ideas.

If any of you would like to have my new booklet "Isometric Exercises For Women" send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Something for All

Articles to please everyone of all ages will be featured when Centennial Chapter No. 87, Order of the Eastern Star, holds a bazaar, Saturday, commencing at 2 p.m.

The K of P Hall will be setting for the affair which will be opened by grand lecturer and past grand matron, Mrs. S. H. Watson. There will be stalls of sewing, candy, home cooking, white elephant, jewelry and Christmas items.

FOR SATURDAY WEDDING

A Gown of French Brocade Jennie Jacobson Chooses

Culture pearls starred the gold brooch, a gift of the groom, worn by Jennie Elizabeth Jacobson, Saturday, when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Gerald Victor Booth in First United Church.

The brooch complemented a gown of white French brocade, slightly fitted and floor-length, which she had made herself. A train swept back from the waistband of the empire-line bodice which was styled with a princess neckline and lily point sleeves. Her three-tier veil of silk illusion net misted to chapel-length from a coronet of white pearls and antique crystals. Red roses and white feathered carnations were in her crescent bouquet.

Arrangements of white chrysanthemums decorated First United Church when Rev. Leighton Streight heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans A. Jacobson, 640 Dunedin Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor N. Booth, 4459 Torquay Drive. Mr. Jacobson gave his daughter in marriage.

"The Lord's Prayer" and "Those Whom God Hath Joined Together" was sung by soloist Miss Irene Harris during the ceremony.

Matching gowns of soft green crystal peau, styled on empire lines, were worn by maid of honor, Miss Roberta Lister and bridesmatrons, Mrs. M. Jacobson and Mrs. B. Lundstrom.

Dr. David Emery was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows were Don Jacobson and Brian Lindsay.

The couple will make their home at 1007 Fairfield Road following a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Booth chose a cranberry red two-piece suit of wool, accented with maribou hat en tone, black accessories and white orchid en corsage.

Parks Policy Under Criticism

OTTAWA (CP)—Delegates to the federal-provincial tourist conference Tuesday criticized the federal government's national parks policy.

Industry Minister Gurney Evans of Manitoba said the policy prevents both Canadians and visitors to Canada from more enjoyment of the parks.

Alberta delegates said a survey showed only a small portion of the province's 8,000 square miles of parkland is being used. There was plenty of room for expansion of services to park users.

The policy was defended by Assistant Deputy Minister J. A. MacDonald of the federal resources department. He said the objectives are to retain the quality of the parks so "the people can go to enjoy themselves in uncommercialized natural surroundings at tolerable expenses to themselves, both as individual park visitors and as taxpayers."

A second aim was "to assure that the federal government and more specifically the Canadian taxpayer gets the best possible return from private use of public land and from the operation of commercial visitor services."

RESENT INFILTRATION

It was a basic assumption that users want the parks maintained in their natural state and resented "the infiltration of facilities, services, activities and amusements they have left behind," Mr. MacDonald said.

He also said the day is past when national parks could be considered as the only tourist attraction here capable of being publicized effectively.

About 9,000,000 persons visited the parks in 1965. Of these, 10 per cent were campers and 89 per cent were Canadians. Park improvements in the year cost about $13,000,000 but visitor concentration in some areas was still growing faster than services could be developed for their use.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corporation said Wednesday it is developing underwater breathing apparatus to provide new mixtures of reusable air for skin divers. Officials at the firm's defence and space centre said the air mixtures would allow skin divers to submerge to record depths.

'PERSONAL INVITATION' FOR MILLION AMERICANS

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 1,000,000 "personalized letters" will be mailed out to U.S. citizens between now and 1967 inviting them to come to Canada for centennial celebrations.

Dan Wallace, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, told the federal-provincial tourist conference Tuesday the letters will be ground out by a new computer the bureau has installed.

It is capable of dashing off the letters at the rate of 1,500 an hour. The bureau already has ordered a yet-to-be-produced machine capable of 3,500 such letters every 60 minutes.

Mr. Wallace said he hopes the bureau's budget for 1966 will exceed the $6,200,000 of this year and predicted Canada's tourist industry would reach its target of $1,000,000,000 annual income by 1967.

30 Million Expected For Expo '67 Party

Canada's birthday cake, Expo 67, will attract 30,000,000 people, but only 3 per cent of them will come from outside of Canada and the U.S., deputy commissioner general R. F. Shaw said in Victoria Tuesday.

Speaking to the Men's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Shaw said guest nations are particularly indignant about the small numbers of "outside visitors." He later spoke to the Women's Canadian Club.

He said roughly 21 per cent o. the visitors will come from Montreal and region, 20 per cent from the rest of Canada and 56 per cent will come from the United States.

"The average visitor to the fair will earn from $7,000 to $10,000 a year; he is a high school graduate, he is 37 years old, married and has two children," said Mr. Shaw.

Each person is expected to spend at least $7.24 on the site, according to surveys.

Mr. Shaw said among the ways of publicizing the fair, Expo 67 has invited posters in competition from all the exhibiting nations.

"Macy's department store will put on a three-month display in each of their 13 stores in New York and New England and a major Detroit store and a Canadian chain plan similar displays.

"Next year every telephone book in Canada will promote Expo on its cover and Air Canada is painting the Expo 67 symbol and name on every aircraft."

Mr. Shaw said the advertising budget totals $7,000,000 and the experience of other fairs indicates this will have a value of at least $20,000,000.

Medallion

Medallions Sold For Centennial

A centennial medallion that will commemorate the British Columbia Centennial Celebrations in 1966 and 1967 is being produced for sale throughout the province in the next two years.

L. J. Wallace, generfal chairman, said that one side of the attractive souvenir is a dogwood spray, the figures "100," and the words "In Honour of British Columbia's Centenary 1966."

The other side bears the Canadian Centennial insignia and the inscription "In Honour of the Centenary of Canadian Confederation 1967."

The medallions are enclosed in a plastic envelope and attached to an informative card which explains the two years of celebrations.

They will be available only through the local Centennial Committees and some government agencies in British Columbia for 50 cents each, with profits from their sale to be used to assist in the financing of the committees' projects and celebrations.

Sunken Ship Raided

MONTREAL (CP) —Three enterprising men—one a scuba diver—were arrested early today and three automobiles loaded with liquor were seized by provincial police. The liquor is believed to have been recovered from the hold of hte sunken 6,384-ton freighter Fort William which was refloated Monday. Until a few days ago the ship had been lying on its starboard side close to an east-end wharf in Montreal harbor.

COMPUTER NEXT

Electronic Boost Given Licence Task

Next year's licence plate application forms began going into the mail Tuesday with an electronic assist.

Motor-vehicles branch unveiled its new electronic data processing machines which use magnetic tape on reels instead of reams of paper in filing cabinets to store the addresses and vehicle details of some 750,000 owners in the province.

It marks completion of the first phase in modernizing the branch's record-keeping techniques that ultimately will involve a computer in Victoria which can be used instantaneously from other B.C. cities to answer a host of questions about cars and drivers.

PUSH OF BUTTON

The licence plate records, with all cross references, is available at the push of a button on the electronic processor instead of requiring lengthy checking by filing clerks. The taped records also can be stored in a fraction of the former space requirement.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said compiling the licence renewal forms is the first major task for the new equipment but before the year ends it will be used to start a mammoth and complex job of putting the driving records of all motorists on tape.

"It is expected that by early 1967 all driver licence records will be in the new (tape storage) program," he said.

INSTANT RECALL

"By the fall of 1967, it is anticipated that all branch records dealing with driver and vehicle licensing will be placed into a random access computer so as to allow for an instant recall of stored information.

"Modern telecommunications will make it possible to install information sets in the principal centres of the province and instantaneously extract information from the computer in Victoria.

"The benefits to government, the courts, enforcement agencies and industry are expected to be considerable," Mr. Bonner said.

Valuable Jade Stolen

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Thieves overpowered the night watchman of an art gallery Tuesday and escaped with 90 pieces of jade conservatively valued at $250,000. Art critics said the loss could go considerably higher. Among the stolen articles were 60 pieces of jade from the Stanley Charles Nott collection, including a Chinese elephant and a kneeling buffalo believed to have been made in 100 BC.

TWO UBC STUDENTS INJURED IN 'PRANK'

RCMP Probes Acid-Tossing

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP launched an investigation Tuesday into an acid-throwing prank in which two University of British Columbia students were injured.

Hannes Claassen, third-year student, said doctors have told him he may be without hearing in one ear for the rest of his life because of the acid.

Patrick Meehan, third-year engineer student, said he has partial sight in one eye and minor face scars from the acid, although doctors say his sight should return to normal in about three months.

Meehan said he and Claassen had tried to stop a group of students at the university from spraying dye on other students during a science-engineers stunt chariot race last month.

He said both were sprayed with acid when they intervened.

Several other students suffered minor injuries in fights that broke out after the incident, he said.

Ghana Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has rejected a request from Ghana for $100,000,000 worth of surplus food shipments, apparently because of attacks on the U.S. by President Kwame Nkrumah.

Time to Bring Indian Act Up to Date, Says Lawyer

OTTAWA (CP) — A young Mohawk lawyer said Tuesday night the Indian Act must be amended ot recognize different stages of economic and social development on Canada's 2,200 reserves.

"Provisions that in the 19th century protected the Indian now retard and hinder him," said Howard Staats, 25, who expects to be admitted to the Ontario bar in March.

He was discussing the legal status of the Canadian Indian at a week-long forum sponsored by Carleton University's Canadian Union of Students branch.

Mr. Staats went into detail on the anomalies of the act passed in 1880.

Prairie Indians aren't allowed to sell cattle or other farm products without permission of the agent, he said. However, other laws now protected everyone — including Indians —against the shady deals this was intended to prevent.

OTTAWA APPROVES WILLS

An Indian will wasn't valid until the minister of citizenship approved it. This meant that though Mr. Statts as a lawyer will be advising Indians on their estate, his own will shall be subject to ministerial approval or disapproval.

The Indian Act comes into constant conflict with the Canadian Bill of Rights, the Brantford, Ont., lawyer said.

Courts had ruled that it didn't, he said, because "everyone is equal before the law in his own sphere." The Indians were equal in theirs, the white man in his.

"This is the embodiment of discrimination," Mr. Staats said. "Discrimination by statute, which in itself breeds discrimination."

The principle that reserves were Crown land was "difficult to understand." It was based on English common law and the idea that natives on colonial land lived there at the pleasure of the King, he thought.

"A plea today that the land belongs to the Indians would likely fall on deaf ears," Mr. Staats said.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES ON TRIAL IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters)—Court officials said Tuesday 61 Jehovah's Witnesses have been ordered for trial accused of being members of a religious group whose ideas are "contrary to the present political situation." The only two in custody were charged with "instigation to collective disobedience and failure to fulfil legitimate orders of the authorities."

CPR MOVE MAY DOOM $2 MILLION INDUSTRY

Hillcrest: Only Two Years to Go

Hillcrest Mill on Mesachie Lake

By DON DINGWALL

LAKE COWICHAN—A $2,000,000 industry may be lost to the district in two years.

In 1967 Hillcrest Lumber Company, Mesachie Lake, will exhaust the last option it has on timberland.

Company president Hector Stone said Tuesday: "CPR has told us they won't sell us any more timber."

In its 40 years of existence, Hillcrest has depended exclusively on the CPR for its timber supply.

Now CPR is in the logging business itself.

If Hillcrest Lumber is forced to close, 450 men will be out of work.

Mr. Stone said: "We have an option on timber in the Robertson River Valley.

"Unless the CPR changes its mind we have no future after that timber is used up. We have cut CPR timber since 1917."

Mr. Stone is realistic about the situation.

He said: "If we get more timber we'll keep operating. If not we'll be forced to close down the plant.

"But we would still keep the company going."

Gets All Timber From CPR

Hillcrest is one of the few companies which gets all its timber from the CPR. And it's the only company being squeezed out.

Mr. Stone says there's no discrimination against Hillcrest.

New CPR policy is not to sell timber to anyone.

"And," said Mr. Stone, "it isn't economical to think of bringing logs to this mill from anywhere else."

It was started by their late father, Carlton Stone.

Mr. Stone's original partner, Jim Maitland, is still with the company as vice-president and secretary.

Many of the employees have been with the firm over 30 years.

Looking ahead two years, local IWA president, Weldon Jubenville said: "We're vitally interested in what's happening at Hillcrest.

"The timber is here so there's no reason why the company should have to close down.

"It's a case of the CPR wielding the big stick."

Mr. Jubenville said: "If the IWA is officially informed by Hillcrest of the situation we will do everything we can to keep our members' jobs intact."

Hillcrest has a payroll of about $250,000 a week.

It is the largest logging and sawmilling company left on the island which is family-owned.

Assistant manager Peter Stone said: "I don't know of anyone interested in taking us over."

He said if Hillcrest was taken over no company would want to keep an extra sawmill operating.

Decision Monday On Sawmill

A new company, Ladysmith Forest Products Ltd., plans a $300,000 operation to include a gang mill, planer mill and chip production.

Prior to the mill application, council intended zoning the waterfront for recreational use.

But Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said Tuesday, "Negotiations are continuing with the company."

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR GROUHEL

He threatened a waitress with a gun, panicked, and ran off empty-handed.

Duncan to Form Recreation Body

Names of members were not released.

But city clerk Gordon Berry said it was hoped to have the new body constituted before the end of the year.

WITNESSED BY TWIN

School Girl Dies After Swerving Into Car's Path

SWERVED

Cycling along the highway, Sheila swerved into the path of a car travelling the same direction, said RCMP.

Within minutes the girls' father, school bus driver Gordon Wighton, was on the scene.

There was little he could do to help.

By coincidence, ambulance driver Warren Heard was passing by on his way to Nanaimo.

He lifted the girl into the ambulance and rushed her to hospital where she died three hours later.

HEAD INJURIES

Police said she apparently suffered head injuries. An inquest was to open today.

Driver of the car involved was Genevieve Regenwetter, 19, of North Vancouver.

Both Sheila and Shirley attended Bowser elementary school along with younger brother Robert, six. They have another sister Joyce, 14.

CAMPBELL ASSURANCE

Islanders Can Pass On Regional Scheme

GANGES — The Gulf Islands will not be forced to join Duncan in a proposed regional district, Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce has been told.

Chamber of Commerce president T. W. Portlock said he had been assured of this by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

AWARENESS OF NATIONAL NEEDS'

Canada's Job Policies Applauded by Europeans

LONDON (CP)—Canada's effort to develop employment opportunities and a skilled work force is held out in a report published Tuesday as a sound example of national manpower policy.

Canada is conducting "a series of new, far-reaching programs and administrative changes over the wide area of manpower and social policy," says a report to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

The conclusions of the OECD study group contain a series of recommendations and some criticism—it cites confusion caused by duplication in labor placement efforts by the Canadian immigration and labor departments.

OECD's 21 members include non - Communist Europe, the United States, Canada, Turkey, and Japan.

The report notes an estimate by the Economic Council of Canada that the Canadian work force is growing by 2.8 per cent annually and says this is "probably the highest rate for an industrially-advanced country."

The report says:

"Programs have been characterized by clarity of purpose and close awareness of national economic needs. . . . Among the most original of the new programs are the winter employment schemes and the federal government service to aid labor and management in collective bargaining adjustments to technical change."

OECD recommendations and comments include:

- Establishment of a national advisory board on manpower, parallel to the economic council, "to maintain the initiative in devising new programs . . . as new conditions develop and to identify the economic interests of provinces and local communities with this effort."
- The economics and research branch of the Canadian labor department "should be adequately staffed" to continue testing the efficiency of manpower programs.
- Long-term programs to relieve depressed regions by industrial development and labor redeployment "should be supplemented by government programs for immediate employment," especially in Eastern Quebec and the Atlantic region.
- Expansion of the National Employment Service under the labor department should continue.
- The federal government should consider transferring the immigration department's job placement functions to NES because "the duplication of placement functions . . . does create confusion in the labor market."
- Expansion of labor market statistics on a regional basis to assist provinces and towns in planning is a "pressing need."
- The apprentice training program under provincial legislation "is not growing as fast as it was hoped."
- Special arrangements in hours of work and community services are needed for working mothers "to ease the strain on women who are carrying both home and job responsibilities."

Former Mayor, Freeman Sign Toone's Papers

His papers were signed by ex-mayor Percy George and athletic coach Archie McKinnon, who is a freeman of the city.

The others have filed nomination papers to date: Ald. Robert Baird and Percy Frampton, both seeking council seats, and Edward Wood, seeking re-election to Greater Victoria School Board.

Other candidates for mayor include Ald. M. H. Mooney and Rev. J. A. Roberts.

RIOT AT ILLINOIS PRISON

'Madmen' Convicts Kill Three Guards

CHESTER, Ill. (AP)—Minor complaints about prison conditions apparently caused a bloody four-hour convict riot at Menard State Prison Tuesday night in which three guards were killed and six others were injured.

Ross Randolph, Illinois public safety director who talked convicts into releasing three guard hostages and surrendering, started an investigation into the cause of the riot.

He said four "madmen" convicts instigated the uprising, sharpening knives out of steel bars and throwing a fire bomb into a guard cage in the dining hall at dinner. They said they wanted better food, more radios and more recreation.

The four convicts were talked into submission by Randolph and Menard Warden Max Frye as 300 guards and state troopers surrounded the prison kitchen in which the convicts had barricaded themselves with three guard hostages.

The ringleaders permitted a doctor to give one guard, Tom Gross, 52, of Chester, Ill., a blood transfusion through prison bars. They released Gross when his condition became obviously serious. Gross had been stabbed.

'REAL REASON OBSCURE'

"We don't know what the real reason was," Randolph said. "There seemed to be some planning. The four men worked together in the vocational training department. The bomb apparently was a paint thinner, possibly in a vinegar bottle."

The other two hostages, guards Albert W. Rohlfing, 59, and Arthur Gene Bierman, 37, both of Sparta, Ill., were released unharmed when the four men surrendered. The convicts held a knife at Rohlfing's throat while they talked to Randolph, a former Menard warden, through a barred door.

Guards fatally stabbed in the riot were Lieut. Lewis M. Paul, 36, of Murphysboro, Ill., Arthur L. Kisro, 45, of Chester, and George L. Wilson, 62, of West Frankfort.

Stabbed seriously were guards John Russell, 58, of Grand Tower, Ill., and Clinto Alsup, 59, of De-soto, Ill. Less seriously stabbed were guards Paul W. Simpson, 50, of Chester and Melvin K. Staton, 27, of Herin. All were in hospital.

Guard Wilburg A. Mortiz, 56, of Jacob, Ill., was seriously burned when the fire bomb was thrown into the cage where he sat with a shotgun, watching convicts eat dinner. Then a half-dozen convicts began scuffling, guards rushed to break it up, and the convicts brought out their home-made knives.

IDENTIFY RINGLEADERS

The four prisoners described by Randolph and Frye as ringleaders were Alonzo H. Jones, 29, Coles County, Ill., serving three to seven years for theft, who escaped from Menard earlier this year and was free for 18 days;

John W. Stamps, 26, Madison County, Ill., serving 25 years for murder;

Printess R. Griffin, 26, Cook County (Chicago), serving three to five years for armed robbery;

William E. Bassett, 26, Wayne County, serving three to 10 years for forgery.

After Gross was released, Randolph settled down to talk the prisoners out of killing the other two hostages, and into surrendering.

"I told them that they were being foolish, that their arguments were not worth much and that I would guarantee that they would not be punished bodily if they would surrender," Randolph said. "They wanted me to guarantee that they would not be punished at all, but I wouldn't do that."

Randolph said the four men are mentally unstable. "They are psychotic individuals. . . ."

WORRIED ABOUT REVENGE

The four ringleaders agreed to leave the kitchen after being assured they would get a meal and would not be harmed by guards in revenge.

More than 1,000 prisoners were in the dining hall when the riot started. Most of them went back to their cells. Frye said they did not want to get involved.

The 20 buildings of the prison stand on a 14-acre tract. The Mississippi River can be seen from the walls. Outside the walls, hundreds of convicts work in the fertile river valley soil, growing crops to help support Menard's 2,500 prisoners.

The prison runs a model college program for its convicts, and its convict newspaper, the Menard Time, this month was judged best prison newspaper in the United States in a contest sponsored by Southern Illinois University.

Menard had two riots within a month in 1952, when convicts demanded better food, heat, immunity for rioters and equal prison rights for Negro convicts. In the first riot, three prisoners and one officer were injured. Warden Jerome Munie promised an investigation.

A month later, a more serious rebellion lasted four days and involved 339 convicts. The late governor Adlai Stevenson broke off a presidential campaign tour in the East, flew to the prison and issued an ultimatum: "Release your hostages or be stormed by state troopers."

The rioters surrendered and released seven guards.

Historic Village For Sale

100 MILE HOUSE (CP) — Lord Martin Cecil, the only man in British Columbia to own an entire village, has put it up for sale.

Lord Cecil, 56, has offered to sell 100 Mile House in the B.C. Cariboo to its leaseholders.

There were reports the leaseholders thought the asking prices were too high. Lord Cecil said in an interview Sunday they were set by professional appraisers on the basis of current market values.

Lord Cecil's family has owned the square mile on which the village of 1,200 stands since 1912, when his father, the Marquis of Exeter, bought it.

Lord Cecil lives at 100 Mile House, where he is bishop of a religious organization called the Order of Emissaries of the Divine Light. 100 Mile House is 180 miles north-northeast of Vancouver.

ASKED TO RESIGN in September from the Ontario Supreme Court was Mr. Justice Leo Landreville, who last year underwent preliminary hearing on charges of municipal corruption as Sudbury, Ont., mayor in 1955-57. The charges were dismissed. Mr. Justice Landreville has refused to resign, Justice Minister Cardin says. Mr. Cardin sadi he is considering a Parliamentary resolution to force the resignation.

Menace Quickly Removed Following Near Tragedy

A water hole in a Saanich field was filled in with earth only half an hour after a young child almost drowned in it Tuesday morning.

The hole was dug some years ago to water cattle and was covered with boards but the cover has been missing for some time.

Just before noon Tuesday Carolyn Guy, 3, who lives nearby, fell in the hole that was filled with water to a depth of seven feet.

Carolyn's mother, Mrs. Barbara Guy, 26, of 3970 Oakwood, rescued the child by jumping in the water and supporting her daughter with one hand while holding on the edge with the other.

Today Mrs. Guy is getting a cold from her ducking and Carolyn is in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital where she is being held for observation.

'THANK GOD'

Mrs. Guy said, "I thank God for looking after her."

Carolyn's sister, Kim, 4½, rushed home to tell her mother immediately she saw Carolyn fall in the water. Mrs. Guy rushed to the water hole, saw her daughter floating face down and jumped in.

She said, "I braced one foot on an outcropping on the side and held on to the edge. With the other hand I held on to Carolyn's hat.

Mrs. Guy's screams were heard by two workmen who pulled her and Carolyn to safety. One of them, Murray Soyka, gave Carolyn mouth-to-mouth respiration while Mrs. Guy called for an ambulance.

Lawsuit on Estate Costs Man $450,000

LONDON (Reuters)—A London psychiatrist, Dr. Herman Peter Tarnesby, was presented with a bill for £150,000 ($450,000) in costs Monday after the longest and most expensive lawsuit in the annals of the English probate court.

The lawsuit dealt with the estate of Peter Fuld, a wealthy, German-born Canadian citizen who died in Frankfurt in 1961.

"I shall have to give up smoking," Tarnesby commented after the high court decision.

The total costs of the marathon case, which ended last month, may run as high as £750,000 ($2,100,000). Most of it will be paid from the estate of Fuld, an electronics and telecommunications magnate, whose will was the centre of the legal battle.

Justice Leslie Scarman, after a three - day hearing on the division of costs, ruled Monday that Tarnesby should pay 20 per cent of the taxed costs of Fuld's estate.

During the wrangle over the £6,000,000 ($18,000,000) estate of Fuld, a refugee from Nazism who was 41 at the time of his death, Tarnesby failed to win court approval for three codicils, additions to the will, under which he would have been a beneficiary.

Outside the court Monday, Tarnesby, who took the news calmly, said; "I estimate that my total liabilities on matters in England and in Germany amount to about £150,000 ($450,000). I reckon it will take me about 85 years to pay it off."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

There is a saying that clothes make the man. In the case of Toronto's Elwy Yost, they make a difference.

Stephen

The bald, mustached Yost tries to be completely relaxed, unsophisticated and funny. This is a difficult thing to achieve, for the wearing of a tux immediately places a man above the common plane. This is true in all cases except penguins.

Lucky for us, the true Yost emerges as host of the late afternoon, for-kids program, Passport to Adventure.

He was dressed casually Monday in a tweed jacket which gave him that completely relaxed look. It also brought out his personality and, believe me, he looks like the type who would be fun at a party.

The program was chopping up the movie oldie, One Million BC. This is the film that featured Victor Mature (a young, slim-looking Mature) and Carole Landis in a saga set in the cave man days.

The word chopping up is used because that is exactly what was being done. Instead of a continuously flowing film, it was cut up into short segments and Yost interjected with explanations on customs of the cave men, etc.

For instance, there was a scene where some food was brought over to Mature. He refused to take it from the kind-hearted cave lady. After she had placed it on a fur mat near him and left, he flipped into his stomach, stuck his nose in the stew and shovelled it into his mouth with his hand.

At this point the chop made an appearance, as did Yost. Turning to the camera and casually winking at the home audience, he quipped: "Well, one thing about eating like that is that you don't need a knife and fork."

It was a nice touch. Whether the youngsters at home glean any information from the program is another thing.

TIDBIT: Frank Sinatra, who had objected in advance to the use of some personal material in CBS-TV's documentary about him last week, now is said to have been pleased after seeing the show, which was overly complimentary to him . . . The program won the ratings battle over ABC-TV's The Fugitive and NBC-TV's Movie.

Preserved Peppers Death Cause

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Tests have confirmed that botulism from home - preserved green peppers caused the deaths of two persons from Lower Nicola, near Merritt.

Dr. Ian Findlay, Kamloops medical health officer, said the peppers were preserved by Mrs. Ida Helmbolo, 34, one of the victims.

Also stricken was Lawrence Barkley, 44.

Adolf Helmbold, 31, Mrs. Helmbold and Barkley ate the peppers Oct. 29. Mrs. Helmbold died the same day and Barkley in hospital here Nov. 3. Mr. Helmbold is showing signs of recovering, Dr. Findlay said.

"None of this would have happened if the peppers had been cooked before eating," Dr. Findlay said. "Any home preserves, especially vegetables and meat, should be cooked before it is eaten."

'OFFICIALS TOO OLD AND FRAIL'

ROME (Reuters) — Some of the UN Food and Agricultural Organization's experts are too old and frail for their work, many are of poor professional standard, and others were born idle, Kenya's agriculture minister complained Tuesday at the organization's conference.

More of the FAO's executives ought to get out into the world and see the brutal realities for themselves said Bruce McKenzie.

The organization was a magnificent conception and should be the springboard of hope, but its present performance was both inadequate and unreal, he said.

Anti-Semite Jew Fires Synagogue

LONDON (AP)—The former managing director of a Jewish chain - store tailor who himself claimed to be Jewish today started a five-year prison sentence following his conviction for maliciously setting fire to a synagogue.

Aubrey Cadogan, 39, whose views had earned him the nickname Little Hitler, was found guilty at the Old Bailey criminal court of dousing a London suburban synagogue with gasoline and firing it.

Prosecuting Attorney Michael Corkery told the court that when Cadogan's office and apartment were searched a large amount of anti-Semitic literature was found.

Cadogan said in testimony that his mother was a Jew.

Barber Chair Murder Described

MONTREAL (CP)—A prison guard testified at a capital murder trial Monday he saw an inmate of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary being stabbed in the prison's barber chair.

Guard Bertrand Lamontagne was testifying at the trial of Roger Poirier, 26, charged with the fatal stabbing last Jan. 14 of Bernard Robitaille, 25.

Poirier was serving a 21-year sentence for several armed robberies and had been in the jail about eight months when Robitaille was stabbed. Robitaille had served nine months of a 12-year sentence for armed robbery.

Lamontagne testified the victim was in the barber's chair in a washroom near the prison kitchen when he was attacked.

Lamontagne said he identified Poirier while the stabbing was in process by his prison number, clearly stamped on the back of his white cotton pants, and said he wrote the number on a piece of paper as Poirier dropped his knife and fled.

Russian Poet To Get Taste Of Army Life

MOSCOW (AP)—A spokesman for the Soviet Writers' Union said today that controversial poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko is serving for two months in the army at his own request.

The spokesman said the 32-year-old poet wanted to write about the army and asked to join an army unit for a while to see what the life was like.

The spokesman denied reports circulating in Moscow that Yevtushenko had been drafted. He refused to say where the poet was or when he began military service.

Yevtushenko was censured for his outspoken views on Soviet life during the 1963 crackdown on liberal artists and writers. Since Nikita Khrushchev's ouster the climate has improved, and last month a Yevtushenko poem attacking Soviet youth leaders was circulated in Moscow.

Centennial Planners Meet With Directors

Representatives of 14 local centennial committees met with provincial officials Monday for a "sharing of experiences" on centennial projects.

Meetings have been held in every part of the province with the exception of the West Kootenay area, where a meeting is scheduled next month.

Lawrie Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. centennial commission, said the meetings are held as a part of an information and educational campaign and mainly consist of progress reports of the various committees.

Lawyer, Judge Tangle During Theft Trial Here

Sefton Levine was defending Peter Kozak, charged with the theft of about $1,000 from A & W Drive-In, 3335 Douglas, earlier this year. Kozak, a former manager, was brought back from Prince George to face trial before Magistrate J. A. Byers.

James Hollywood, a former employee, testified that Kozak told him to put aside some sales slips every day instead of ringing them up in the cash register.

He said Kozak then took money from the register or the petty cash. Hollywood said Kozak told him he intended to pay back this money. Said Hollywood, "I knew he was taking money but I always figured he would put it back."

Hollywood said Kozak, when he left the company Sept. 15, told him he would pay back the money in a few days. Hollywood said he co-operated with Kozak for about two months and did not report the matter.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Levine, Hollywood said he was surprised that he himself had not been charged by police. He said he told police about the matter when they questioned him.

Said Hollywood, "I figured if I didn't give a statement (to police) I would have been charged."

Mr. Levine tangled with Magistrate Byers first over answers given by Detective Norman Baker. Mr. Levine said each answer differed but the magistrate overrode his objections.

ARGUING

At a later point Magistrate Byers accused the lawyer of arguing instead of asking questions. Mr. Levine denied he had done this and asked that the transcript be read back to clarify what he had said.

Replied Magistrate Byers: "I do not wish it read back."

Then, at conclusion of the Crown's case, Mr. Levine moved for dismissal of the charge on the grounds that it had not been proven that A & W Drive-In is a company incorporated under the laws of British Columbia.

Mr. Levine said the law requires that it be strictly proven that the company is a legal entity. Magistrate Byers said that one witness, a company official, had referred to the company as being incorporated and Mr. Levine had not objected to his statement.

Mr. Levine replied that it is "not incumbent on the defence to prove a negative but on the Crown to prove a positive."

However, the magistrate insisted he was satisfied on the official's evidence that the company is duly incorporated.

The case was adjourned to Dec. 6.

MORATORIUM DECLARED

Amish Winners Again In School Skirmish

HAZLETON, Iowa (UPI)—An Iowa school board that tried to force hymn-singing Amish children into public schools and failed agreed Tuesday to temporarily abandon its three-year effort.

Only one member of the six-member Oelwein community school board voted against supporting Gov. Harold E. Hughes' declared moratorium in the dispute.

The board had tried, through the courts and by physical strength, to force the stern Amish to go to state accredited schools or provide accredited teachers in the one-room Amish schools.

Failing in the courts even though farmer fathers were fined repeatedly and some faced confiscation of property to pay those fines, the school administrators were defeated again when they tried to bus Amish children to public schools.

The school board lost the first round when the children ran into the cornfields away from the bus. It won the second and registered the children in public schools. But Monday it went down for the count when faced by frightened youngsters who began chanting the words to "Jesus Loves Me."

No time limit has been set on the moratorium but it was expected to last at least a month. During that time, Amish parents will not be penalized or brought to court for failing to send their children to state-accredited schools.

Que. Police Unearth Skeleton

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Medical tests will be started this week to see if a skeleton unearthed Monday by Quebec Provincial Police is that of a man missing since 1957.

Police found the skeleton just a few hours after they began digging near the little village of St. Andre du Lac St. Jean in the hope of finding the body of Maurice Garneau, of Disraeli, Que.

The search for Garneau's body was directed Monday by an unidentified 45-year-old man arrested in Montreal last week, who is reported to have told police the body was buried minus arms, legs or head.

The lime-covered bodies of four other persons have already been uncovered by police and connected with the underworld purge, and police are searching for two other bodies, one at St. Ferdinand - de - Halifax in the Eastern Townships, and the other at St. Nicholas near Quebec City.

Four men were found criminally responsible at a coroner's inquest for the slayings of the four victims uncovered previously. One, Andre Lamathe, a Quebec City lumber merchant, has been charged with the capital murder of Alberic Bilodeau.

Man to Face Fraud Trial Extradition

TORONTO (CP) — John D. Laun, sought for three years in connection with a $1,230,000 Toronto pig-raising fraud, will be extradited from Spain, a spokesman for the Ontario attorney-general's department said today.

Laun, a naturalized Canadian from Germany, promoted a scheme under with 1,135 persons invested various sums of money in buying pigs and feed. The operation, called Piggyland, went bankrupt in February, 1962, with a net deficit of $1,613,259.

Investors eventually got back less than 10 per cent of their money from an auction of the animals and equipment.

Alderman Charged With Fraud

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec City alderman Jules Morency and former alderman Gaston Flibotte appeared in court Monday charged with fraud and conspiracy to obstruct the due process of law.

Judge Paul Roy of municipal court set preliminary hearing for Friday and fixed bail at $1,000 each.

The charges resulted from a provincial royal commission's report on the municipal court's operation between January, 1958, and November, 1963.

The report dealt with the system under which traffic offences were handled and said traffic ticket fixing cost the provincial capital $100,000 a year.

Five former aldermen and former municipal court judge Rodolphe de Blois, appeared in court last Saturday on the same charges as Morency and Flibotte, conspiring to annul or fix 49,923 summonses, 14,862 traffic and parking violations and 4,572 violation tickets.

Also in court Monday was Louis - Philippe Gauvin, 49, a former court clerk also charged with fraud. Two other court officials were charged earlier.

Seven former aldermen have also been summoned to appear in court regarding the charges.

Morency, 64, was re-elected to city council Nov. 14 in a general municipal election held after publication of the royal commission report.

A Saanich youth has won a contract to perform with the Ice Capades.

Len Simpson, 19, of 3961 Carey Road, won his chance to fame on ice by travelling to San Francisco last week to attend auditions.

He was signed to a two-and-a-half year contract. He will join the chorus line of the troupe on Christmas Day in Spokane.

The young skater has been practising for 12 years. Most of the time the training schedule called for a minimum of 12 hours a week.

DESERVES CONTRACT

"As far as I'm concerned, Len deserves that contract," says Mrs. Jane Patterson who helped train Len at the Victoria Figure Skating Club.

"He was set to do this, for a long, long time."

Mrs. Patterson describes Len as "one of the best male skaters ever to come out of Victoria. She is a former Ice Capades performer.

Len's specialty is ice dancing. In this feature of the sport he has won numerous cups and plaques. He was Western Canada champion and B.C. champion in junior categories.

Square To Have Christmas Tree For Songsters

Centennial Square committee Tuesday patched the roof, turned on the hot water and gave the green light to a "singing Christmas tree."

It was a housekeeping session for members of Victoria city council square committee, topped by a Chamber of Commerce delegation seeking co-operation in erecting a 40-foot tree in the square for choirs to sing around.

The roof patching authorization to spend $1,100 for new asphalt and gravel on McPherson Playhouse and the hot water will be supplied to shops in the car park arcade.

Architect Allan Hodgson told the committee that roofing work on the playhouse had not been done, although theatre restoration specifications called for it more than a year ago.

LEAKS APPEARED

Now, leaks have shown up and the committee decided to spend contingencies funds to put a two-ply layer over the 50-year-old original roofing, rather than a type of seal coat as called for in the specifications.

The hot water was another oversight, as a result of trimming arcade specifications to bring down the construction price, then omitted when items were reconsidered.

An architect's estimate placed the cost of adding hot water service in the row of seven shops at $2,953.

Ald. Michael Griffin, a plumbing and heating contractor, considered this excessive.

City engineer James Garnett reported the job could be done for much less than the estimate, and the committee authorized the purchasing agent to get quotations.

The committee chopped some $7,000 from the total cost of $82,442 for finishing work and certain equipment and furnishing at the theatre restaurant.

WITHIN ESTIMATE

This action brings the job within estimates, or about $75,000 for the items needed to enable an operator to open for business.

Contractor R. A. Hall submitted a final accounting of $39,941 for the theatre scene loft and restaurant additions, representing the final payment on total contract price.

Finally, Ald. Cecil Parrott brought up the fact that a city bylaw had been overlooked in failing to provide ventilation for arcade shop washrooms.

"I was amazed there was no inspection carried out on these jobs. It's contrary to our bylaws for public buildings," he said.

Mr. Young explained that the three shops nearest Douglas Street were unvented. He suggested it was because fees and permits for the building were waived (since it was a city undertaking), and therefore the routine inspection follow-ups broke down.

It is structually possible to add vents, the members were told.

Authentic oriental color will be provided for Victoria Theatre Guild's production of their pre-Christmas pantomime, Aladdin, through co-operation of the Chinese-Canadian community.

With this show, for the first time in many years, the 35-year-old Guild will leave its tiny Langham Court Theatre to occupy the city's McPherson Playhouse for a week starting Dec. 6.

LANTERNS

Under direction of Jack Tang, special committee chairman of Victoria Chinatown Lion's Club, Chinese lanterns and streamers will festoon the two foyers of the McPherson on opening night.

The club's Majorette troupe will perform on the ground floor foyer as patrons arrive.

During the remainder of the week's run there will be two exotically costumed Chinese-Canadian girls acting as program purveyors at each performance.

BASTION PARKING CONTROVERSY

Planners Urge No Cars in Square

Bastion Square will be bypassed by the tourist and will not fulfill its purpose if auto traffic is allowed to stay on Bastion Street, city council was told Tuesday.

The position was taken by Victoria branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada in a letter to the mayor and aldermen.

It referred to reconsideration by Bastion Square committee of a proposal to close Bastion between Government and Langley to create a pedestrian mall entrance to the redeveloped square.

Four downtown organizations also have asked council to stick to original plans for exclusion of vehicles from the block.

ATTRACTION

Association president Mrs. B. Levitz Packford said, "Malls are one of the solutions to help downtown Victoria become more attractive to the shopper and the tourist.

"The economic health of the whole city rests on the vitality of downtown business. If street parking was the answer to downtown business problems, then it is relevant to ask why are all the downtowns of the major cities in dire straits?

"Most cities not only provide street parking but parking lots scattered through their downtown area and still business flees to to suburban shopping plazas," Mrs. Packford said.

She asked for a meeting to discuss the matter with the committee.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

LONGER ARMS would have been better, but Pat Strazzule used a 10-foot pole when his ladder wasn't long enough to let him finish painting the steeple of this Baltimore, Md., vintage apartment house. He stopped traffic.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Phyllis Low, age 11, of Grand Prairie, Tex., for her question:

What is the hermit crab like?

Most crabs are crusty characters who live in the salty sea. When threatened, these crabby creatures are more than eager to nip and grab with their sturdy pincers, and most of the time they feel safe within their armored shells. But the hermit crab has none of these bold advantages.

A human hermit shuns his fellow men for a life of solitude. He may be a holy man trying to avoid the problems of the world or a crusty character who just cannot abide the rest of us. The hermit crab also is a loner, but the reason for his solitude most likely is timidity. The poor fellow has every right in the world to feel timid, and he is wise to keep out of sight, for his ocean world teems with hungry hunters always ready and eager to eat him.

The unlucky hermit crab has no hard shell of armor plating like most of his crusted cousins. He has a set of crabby legs and pincers. His face is adorned with long antennae and a pair of long stalks ending in watchful eyes. But there is no crusty shell over his soft, tapering body. The hermit, however, has a clever plan for protecting himself from hungry hunters while he forages for morsels in the sand.

He simply uses the discarded shell of some other marine animal. It may be the shell of a conche or a sea snail. His soft abdomen is stuffed safely inside the shell, and the graceful opening of the shell is his door. His head and legs hang over the door sill. His watchful eyes are always alert and his pincers always ready to grab each passing morsel of food, fish or seaweed, alive or dead.

There are several hundred different hermit crabs. In the tidal pools of the Atlantic there are small fellows who live in snail shells. In the Pacific there are three-inch fellows who live in deeper waters. But every hermit crab must grow from a small infant to a full-sized adult, and as he grows he needs a bigger home. Sometimes he must go apartment hunting. This job is risky, but the crab is choosey. He finds an empty shell and tenderly explores the inside with his legs and feelers. He twirls and balances it and tucks his tail inside to test it for size. He may investigate several shells before he settles on a suitable home.

As a rule, the crusted cousins of the hermit crab can scuttle safely over the sand. But they, too, grow bigger as they grow older and must discard their old shells for larger new ones. When this happens, a crusted crab becomes a soft-shelled crab. While his soft, new shell is hardening, he is as helpless as a homeless hermit crab.

THE VOICE OF BROADWAY

By LOUIS SOBOL

NEW YORK—A funny thing happened to us on the way to our usual table at El Morocco. My wife and I were steered instead to the Wrong Side of the room, and we couldn't feel more let down until maitre d's Angelo and Joe both whispered that the George Zauderers of the cafe society set had taken over most of the place, picking up the tab for some 140 guests for a bash in honor of visiting Prince Paolo and Princess Marcello Borghese of Rome. And there we were in working-day mufti and everyone else in black tie and shimmering long gowns and scintillating jewels—and 'though we knew many of them, I'm sure they regarded as as mere peasants and interlopers. The only thing that saved the last vestige of our pride was that the prince and the princess came over to our table to chat, because—after all—they have been long-standing personal friends. But the Wrong Side of El Morocco—Siberia—and my wife not wearing chinchilla to ward off the chill—will we ever be able to hold up our faces in public again!!

Hey, speaking of Arthur (the discotheque, of course), Sybil Burton, I hear, is beginning to worry. Seems her new groom, Jordan Christopher, is hinting he wants very much to play "Hamlet"!! . . . O, this was something to see! That great movie he-man Anthony Quinn on a horse in Central Park. What's so startling about that you ask? Because it was one of the wooden horses on the merry-go-round! On another were his two children by Jolanda Addulari. They kept riding for more than an hour.

★ ★ ★

I wish I could say I enjoyed "The Devils" (most of the drama critics did, it appears) but its hysteria perturbed me rather than entertained and occasionally proved distasteful. On the other hand you'll never be treated to more magnificent performances than those offered by Jason Robards, Anne Bancroft and most of the cast. Incidentally, the huge advance sale indicates quite a cosy run for the play . . . Milton Berle was genuinely surprised—co-hosting the Mike Douglas Show in Philly, there burst in on him unexpectedly, his wife, Ruth, with their three-year-old adopted son, Billy, whom she had had flown in from the coast with her mother. For once, on a TV session, Berle was speechless . . . Humorist Allan Sherman was stricken with an attack of acute asthma while on the plane to Chicago, was rushed from O'Hare Airport there to the hospital—where the doctors worked over him. He was pronounced okay the following morning—released and flew on to the coast . . .

The editor of a Paris newspaper had an idea. He assigned a reporter to phone 10 of France's most glamorous gals—Brigitte Bardot, et al—at 10 o'clock at night to ascertain how many were at home at that hour. The reporter found all 10 dateless—six of them watching TV! . . . The first Broadway revival of the Kaufman-Hart play, "You Can't Take It With You," which the APA-Phoenix is bringing into the Lyceum Theatre Nov. 23, reminds me that the out-of-town critics back in 1936 accorded it dismal reviews. One even predicted it had a slim chance on Broadway. But when it opened here, the raves were unanimous—and it went on to capture the Pulitzer best-play prize. The film version won the Academy Award in 1938. In the meantime, Kitty Carlisle, Moss Hart's widow, and Kaufman's daughter, Anne, have been collecting substantial royalties from periodic revivals and stock company productions around the world.

Alan King's starrer, "The Impossible Years," still packing them in, will be paying off its investors in full shortly . . . Jack Carter still denies vigorously reports from Hollywood that he and Paula Stewart have come to a parting. Insists he's flying back to the coast to be with her . . . Sherman Billingsley phoned. Said he was feeling fine—and that he had no plans to retire, adding he was even now looking about for a new site for his Stork Club. "I have to be active," he said.

Command Chiefs Inspect Carrier

While there they also toured the U.S. Navy shipyard.

Embarking in an RCAF helicopter on the Venture playing field in HMC Dockyard were Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific Coast; Air Commodore R. C. Weston, senior air officer Pacific; Commodore A. G. Boulton, commodore RCN barracks at HMCS Naden; Commodore R. M. Battles, commodore superintendent Pacific Coast, and Flag Lieut. A. R. Horner.

CANADA TO CLOSE TRADE OFFICE

SALISBURY (AP) — Canada's trade commission in Salisbury is likely to close toward the end of December, an official Canadian statement said today.

The statement sent to about 250 Canadian citizens in Rhodesia by Acting Trade Commissioner C. D. Miller said that after the office closed "it will not be possible for the Canadian government to provide direct consular assistance to you."

"After the Canadian government declined to recognize Rhodesian independence, it withdrew its trade commissioner but kept its Salisbury office open. Miller's statement is the first official indication that the office is to be closed entirely.

Rain, Rain, Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The third storm in 12 days swept into soggy southern California today, bringing new flash floods to areas where at least 13 are feared dead.

Heavy rain hit mountain and foothill areas north of Los Angeles during the night, causing fresh gushes through canyons, then sloshed across the Los Angeles basin during the morning.

A third of an inch of rain fell in downtown Los Angeles in an hour, pushing the season total to 11 inches. Normal for the season since July 1 to date is 1.45 inches.

Rain was forecast to continue at least through Monday.

In northern California, a storm approaching blizzard proportions whipped into the Sierras. Wind and snow reduced visibility to 100 yards on 7,135-foot Donner Summit.

In the heaviest November rains ever recorded in southern California, floods in desert areas raked cars off highways and into washes and residents of hillside areas fought oozing mud as it inundated homes and yards.

The desert resort of Palm Springs, a winter mecca for smog - tired Los Angeles residents, was virtually isolated and cut in two by a flood that rushed down from the San Jacinto Mountains.

Witnesses said three persons were carried away in their cars and a man wading out to help was swept away in the torrent. Only one body was found.

FLOOD HITS CARS

At rocky Cucamonga wash, a roaring flood caught a dozen cars and swept them half a block, tumbling over and over, some with their lights still burning.

Hal Malloy, 19, saw a man swept away in the flood, then lamented: "I was so close . . . he finally was able to get out of the car. He was hysterical, saying 'help me, help me.' I got to within inches of him . . . his body disappeared."

Life Jail Term Starts On Slayer's Birthday

The murderer of Susan Freschi today was taken to New Westminster to begin a life term in the B.C. Penitentiary.

David Leonard Robinson, who also was marking his 25th birthday today, received his sentence in Assize Court Tuesday afternoon, without blinking.

"David Leonard Robinson. I sentence you to life imprisonment," said Mr. Justice George Gregory.

The sentence is laid down by statute and neither the accused nor court officials had reason for surprise ever since Monday when Robinson entered a guilty plea.

The prisoner was escorted from court almost immediately and RCMP confirmed this morning that he has already been taken to the mainland.

He will automatically be eligible for consideration by a parole board in seven years. But some legal circles here believe the gruesome details of his crime, all written into the court proceedings, might weigh against him.

Mr. Justice Gregory said in the final stages of the court session that it might appear unusual for all the evidence to be reviewed after the plea of guilty—because the sentence is set by law. A recitation of the facts could not affect the sentence.

"HAS REASONS"

"The Crown has its reasons, with which I heartily concur," he said.

Outside of court, the judge would not comment on the statement. Nor would prosecutor William McIntyre.

But some quasi-legal comment on the case suggests that with the full evidence on the record, including suggestions of mental instability, there would be little hope of early parole.

Several times in his testimony to police, all of which was repeated in court Tuesday, Robinson mentioned mem-

AERIAL BOMBER ARRESTED

MIAMI (UPI)—Police today arrested a man whom they said bombed Miami homes from the air with Molotov cocktails because he hated Negroes and Jews.

Sheriff's officers identified the man as Lon David Shaw, 30, and said he went on his fire-bomb missions at night and alone in a small plane.

Shaw was charged specifically with tossing Molotov cocktails, bottles filled with gasoline and a rag and then ignited, at five homes, two of them owned by Negroes.

Ontario Strike To Spread?

TORONTO (CP) — Plans to spread a strike of oil workers through other parts of Ontario and to Montreal were announced today by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC).

Union spokesman Robert Kirk said unless a settlement is reached by noon Thursday in the strike against the British American Oil Co. Ltd. refinery at nearby Clarkson, union employees in the Toronto-Hamilton area and Montreal will walk off their jobs in sympathy.

About 600 additional workers in the Toronto-Hamilton area would be affected. In Clarkson, 419 workers have been on strike since Sept. 15. Union spokesmen here were unable to say how many workers would be affected by the strike deadline at the Montreal refineries of BP and Texaco Canada Ltd.

These are the only refineries in Quebec where the OCAW holds bargaining rights for workers.

DRIVERS AS WELL

The proposed spread of the strike involves truck drivers who distribute the oil as well as the refinery workers.

Mr. Kirk said the Thursday deadline could be affected by the results of the intervention by the British Columbia government into the strike of oil workers in that province.

Gandhi Kin Banned By S. Africa

DURBAN (AP)—The South African government today banned the Indian husband of Mohandas Gandhi's granddaughter for five years under the suppression of communism laws.

The action against Newa Ramgobin, 33, a Durban insurance agent, restricts his movements and prevents him from attending political meetings and other gatherings.

Four years ago he helped establish the Gandhi Clinic, which treats more than 1,000 patients a month. Author Alan Paton, chairman of the trust which administers the clinic, said he thought Ramgobin had been banned because of his student political activities.

Secret Hearing Revealed

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaston Constantin, charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud $115,000 was released on $2,000 bail Monday during a closed hearing in the chambers of sessions Judge Gerard Simard, it was learned Tuesday.

The few newsmen who heard about the "secret" hearing were asked not to print anything about it by Crown Prosecutor Anatole Corriveault because Constantin's life was "in danger." He didn't elucidate on the danger.

Union Urges Gov't Plan Be Accepted

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union spokesmen today accepted a government formula for settling a strike by oil workers and called off a threatened 48-hour province-wide general work stoppage.

There was no immediate reaction from the seven oil companies involved.

J. R. Duncan, national director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) announced the executive would recommend acceptance to union members.

"The terms are not all we would have liked, but we have a responsibility to the community," Mr. Duncan said.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said at the same time plans for a general strike would be dropped.

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

The provincial government today announced a proposal to settle the oil workers dispute.

Premier Bennett said in Vancouver "we ask immediate acceptance by labor, management and the general public."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson asked that all plans for a two-day work stoppage to coincide with an expanded oil strike "be abandoned forthwith."

Company and union representatives retired immediately after the announcement to consider the proposal.

Word from both sides on acceptance or rejection of the government's proposal was expected later today.

The proposed formula contains recommendations on job security and the subsidiary issue of wages.

These were the points in the formula:

- A committee with equal representation from both sides for continuing discussions on automation;
- Six months notification by oil companies of intent to change conditions which would result in discharge or layoff for any employee working for the company after Aug. 31, 1965;
- Companies will participate with the government in every way possible in training and retraining of men displaced by automation;
- Severance pay of one week's wages for each year of service to a maximum of 26 weeks;
- Wage increase of 35 cents an hour over two years.

The dispute involves 540 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union in B.C. and seven oil companies—British-American, Imperial, Shell, Standard, Home, Texaco and Pacific Petroleums.

★ ★ ★

B-A was struck two months ago and Imperial's Port Moody refinery earlier this month. Pacific Petroleums locked out employees in anticipation of a strike.

The oil workers had set a deadline of midnight tonight to expand the strike. More than 60,000 members of unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labour responded to a call for a two-day work stoppage to support oil workers.

The Teamsters union said it would follow contract provisions allowing it to observe picket lines and refuse to handle goods from a strike-bound plant. This wouldn't apply to fuel delivered from a strike-free plant prior to any strike.

This is what the oil workers were seeking:

- Six months notification by companies of new automation processes;
- Company-sponsored job retraining for men facing automation;
- One year's severance pay for each five years of employment;
- An extra 50 cents an hour over two years.

This morning's proposal from the government came at a

CROPS ARE FLOODED AND CHILDREN WAIL

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

It's the time when cold and bitter winter weather gives way to the ceaseless spring rains.

When thousands more are added to the millions of Koreans who are homeless and unemployed all year round.

The food situation for the poor becomes crucial, because it is just before the grain crop is to be harvested.

And the harvest, when it does come, will be pitifully inadequate because of the floods.

Grain prices go sky-high and the wail of hungry children is heard more and more in the streets of Korean cities like Seoul and Mokpo.

Although USC activities are worldwide, Korea continues to receive the lion's share of aid both in funds and in what the USC calls "gifts-in-kind" — everything from codfish to cardigans contributed by Canadians.

Thousands of human lives have been saved through USC aid, and thousands more salvaged from misery and despair by the efforts of USC workers throughout Korea.

Of about 600 children's homes in the country, the USC sponsors seven, four in Seoul and three in Kyong go Do province.

The largest and most expensive USC project since 1960 is the TB Children's Hospital in Mokpo, Chollanamdo Province.

ADVICE FROM NEWFOUNDLAND SAGE:

Brace Yourself for Hard Winter

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Levi Drodge, an amateur forecaster who has been predicting Newfoundland weather with uncanny accuracy for more than 40 years, has decided to branch out.

Mr. Drodge issued his first long-range forecast for all Canada Tuesday.

In a statement to The Evening Telegram, Mr. Drodge, 83, a retired fisherman from the Trinity Bay community of Hillview, said: "There's a hard winter coming up—don't say I didn't warn you."

His first forecast for the entire country: "It's going to be a very hard winter for Canada. It is going to be very cold and plenty of snow and frost." He predicted extremely heavy snowfalls.

He also predicted a bad year for ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Canadian forecast ended with: "That's all I am going to give you."

In 1963, Mr. Drodge forecast a heavy snowfall and during that winter the St. John's area received a total of almost 20 feet from November to May. Last winter, he forecast a cold winter with little snow and he was right again.

He said he predicts the weather by watching the tides and "scenting" the winds. The best place to predict weather, according to his calculations, would be Sable Island, off the Nova Scotia coast.

"If I was there for about 10 days, I could give the weather for the whole of North America," he said.

The premier said neither side had advance knowledge of the formula.

The premier went to Vancouver Tuesday to sit in on mediation talks.

"These discussions are never easy," he said.

In a reference to Mr. Peterson being minister of both education and labor, he said both education and labor "must work closely together."

RHODESIA STRIKE FAILS

Negroes File Back to Work

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — A general strike of Negro workers in protest against the seizure of independence by Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian government appeared to have petered out here today, the third day of the protest.

Shots were heard in the centre of Bulawayo Tuesday night, but no further incidents were reported during the night. The shooting was unexplained.

Police and other official departments have refused to give details of incidents to the press.

USE TEAR-GAS

Police also used tear-gas as incidents broke out between pickets and non-strikers.

More than 50 Negroes suspected of intimidating other Negroes were arrested. Absenteeism Tuesday was estimated at 60 per cent.

Today the scene was quiet. There were no signs of the Negro pickets who prevented non-strikers from reaching their factories during the last few days.

But steel - helmeted riot police — the whites armed with rifles and the Negroes carrying truncheons—stood watching for any sign of trouble at main junctions and other key points.

A warning by Bulawayo's industrial and business leaders that workers who failed to report for duty today would be dismissed appeared to be a major factor in the back-to-normal trend.

The chambers of commerce and industry represent some 500 businesses employing between 15,000 and 20,000 Negroes.

33 New Citizens To Take Oath In County Court

Thirty-three immigrants will be sworn in as Canadian citizens by Judge Montague Drake in County Court here Thursday, Dec. 9, at 10 a.m.

They will be received afterwards at a coffee party given by Greater Victoria Citizenship Council in the new "Y" building. Mrs. H. L. Smith, a former president of the council, will be hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol, who were refused citizenship in County Court last July, will receive their certificates at a special ceremony conducted by Immigration and Citizenship minister John Nicholson this Friday at 10 a.m.

Natural Gas Halted; Firm Says 'Sabotage'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Natural gas service disruptions, which affected homes and industries in three Essex County areas late Tuesday night and early today, were "acts of sabotage," a gas company spokesman said.

The spokesman for Union Gas Ltd. said there were nine shut-offs reported during a three-hour period.

In Windsor, three firms manufacturing parts for the automobile industry, a hotel, a bowling alley and a billiard saloon were affected. The shut-offs also disrupted service to a store and a number of homes in Leamington, 38 miles southeast of here, and a motel at Kingsville, 23 miles southeast of Windsor.

The company spokesman said today that although it was not known who was responsible for the latest shut - offs, "it obviously was deliberate sabotage."

Similar incidents have occurred in the Sarnia are since the strike began and the company has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension of those responsible for the shut-offs.

Some 200 employees of the company here and in Sarnia, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC), have been on strike since Nov. 3.

Injunction Hogties Cominco Employees

The giant Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company in the Kootenays obtained an injunction late Tuesday prohibiting announcement of the result of a vote by its workers on the two-day walkout.

The company employs about 6,500 persons, members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

The injunction, issued by Judge Leo Gasner in Nelson, prohibits union officers from taking a strike vote, compiling the results of such a vote, announcing the results or even recommending strike action to the members.

Cominco workers had voted earlier whether or not to join the work stoppage. The results were to have been announced this morning.

The company's western operations manager, S. M. Rotham, called the work stoppage "a form of mass intimidation."

Both Cominco and B.C. Hydro, with 6,000 employees, earlier warned workers they would be subject to suspension or dismissal if they joined the work stoppage.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The overnight temperature at Prince George dropped to around 10 below this morning, the coldest for the season. Elsewhere to the south it was not nearly so cold as cloud and some winds combined to hold temperatures to more seasonal values.

A weather disturbance moving through Oregon this morning will continue the mainly cloudy weather over southern B.C. today. Occasional rain or snow is also looked for on the lower coast today while a few snow flurries will reach into the southern interior later today and Thursday.

Civic Workers Vote Support To BA Boycott

The Canadian Union of Public Employees has asked its 90,000 members to support a boycott of BA products launched by striking members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (CLC).

Workers employed by the BA Oil Company and the Royalite group have been on strike since September and have asked members of other unions to boycott the companies' products.

CUPE president Stanley A. Little, of Ottawa, sent letters to the union's 560 locals asking their members to support the boycott.

It asks CUPE members not to buy BA products until the strike is settled, to return BA credit cards if they hold them and to cancel fuel oil contracts if their dealer buys from BA.

"If your employer uses BA products we would ask that locals, wherever possible, use their influence to see that another unionized product is used as long as the strike continues."

ory failings, severe, sudden headaches and a fear of inanimate objects.

In a tape-recorded police interview he said that following his fatal attack on the girl, as he walked down the railway tracks, he felt something frightening all around him.

"All around there were huge towering things and they didn't look like trees," he said.

And again, "These big things were still around . . . huge . . . they didn't look like trees . . . I guess that's all they were."

STARTED TO CRY

He said that he started to cry after he struck the girl and when he was driving home, "A few more tears dropped then."

When he arrived home he said he walked into his house and saw his wife sitting there. He thought she was watching TV.

Then he went upstairs to wash his hands because there was blood on one of them.

"Then I came downstairs. We just sat and played a couple of games of scrabble and watched TV," the tape-recorded voice said in court.

In the earlier court session the recorded interview explained how Robinson last May 11 had seen Susan Freschi, 14, walking home along a railway track in a wooded area behind Six Mile House.

KNOCKED HER DOWN

After parking his car he had walked down the track, picking up a stone on the way, to intercept her. He bumped into her and knocked her down, then helped her up.

His testimony, vague and uncertain on many points — he could not remember when he tied her hands or gagged her—indicated he brought the girl off the railway into the woods where a sexual assault took place.

RCMP sergeant R. S. Rogers in his testimony said the accused told him he later knelt over the girl and struck her, in Robinson's words, "Two or three times . . . I don't know."

'HIT HER AGAIN'

Later on the tape, Robinson said, "I put my hands down and the rock just hit her head . . . she started to moan and I think I started to cry . . . she was still crying and I think I hit her again, and I'm not sure if it was then or after I felt a big pain in my head."

His counsel, Alan Bigelow told the court that he realized that there was nothing he could say in mitigation.

"If judged by psychiatric standards, he most assuredly needs treatment. He is sick. His sole wish is to receive psychiatric treatment . . ."

A source close to the penitentiary service told The Times later that the New Westminster penitentiary at present has a part-time psychiatrist tending to 700 men. Treatment is not set up on a clinical basis—another fact which might be expected to weigh against eventual parole considerations.

RELIEVED

Mr. Justice Gregory, before passing sentence, noted that he had wanted to hear the full evidence because he wanted to satisfy himself that there had been no brutality on the part of police who had questioned Robinson for almost 12 hours.

"I am relieved to be assured, after hearing the tape recording that there was no police brutality or misconduct in the questioning of this man," he said.

This was contrary to an impression he had formed when reading transcripts of the preliminary hearing, he added.

Thirty per cent of their young patients, say USC workers, come from families that suffer from hunger, squalid housing conditions and unemployment.

Besides orphanages and hospitals, the USC also runs a Social Service Centre in the heart of Seoul's Mapo slum district, where USC workers have been aiding refugees since 1958.

This centre, employing Korean social workers, was the USC's 20th anniversary project, started last year, and the cause of much excitement and enthusiasm in the organization.

Much more can be accomplished through USC aid, if the money is available for their projects and self-help programs overseas.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Permanent labels for plants in the average garden have long been a matter of dissension.

Hilda

Some gardeners object to any type of label on the grounds that they are not interested in names, and labels make their gardens look like a public park.

My own reaction to this is to wonder how to be interested in any plant without its name being known, and how to do it justice. How could I choose a place for it if I had no clue as to its habits and requirements? And furthermore, how could I care for it through the years except by the trial and error method which might take years if I were slow to learn?

A wooden name tag with a thin wire tie is good for two or three years if printed with a weather-proof pencil, but this type is not considered to be more than an identification label from nursery to garden.

There is a soft metal strip label with a life of eight to ten years, perhaps longer. The printing can be done with the point of a spent pencil refill of the modern kind. An expert in printing can print in reverse on the soft metal and have it come out in raised print on the other side. This is easy to read.

The label is fastened with small tacks or staples to a stout painted stick of suitable size according to the type of plant it identifies.

GARDEN PLAN

There is one way to avoid labels yet have every plant and its location permanently recorded, and that is by a garden plan.

I have seen this method used so satisfactorily that subsequent owners of the gardens had no difficulty in locating, identifying and caring for the various trees and shrubs.

A project for spare evening hours for young folks putting in their first garden could be the drawing up of a scale plan of their lot, marking in the house area and other permanent features.

Fruit trees particularly need to be recorded by name for the future. It is quite likely that someone will want to exhibit the fruit as interest in gardening increases, and names are needed.

Roll it up, keep it clean, keep it up to date with additions, removals and changeovers. You will find much of interest to record on your home garden plan besides permanently naming your plants for the life of the garden.

You can spend more money for a watch—but you cannot get more watch for your money:

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1965—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

At the moment, as I dig out from under a massive correspondence on the subject, I find myself wishing that King Canute had taken the deep six before he could retreat from the flooding tide to preach his mealy-mouthed little sermon.

To put the record straight, however, let all men know that Canute was indeed teaching a lesson to his courtiers when he skipped back from the water line, hove his crown into the sea, and concluded his hamming with a few choice platitudes.

Having taken my lumps, I will now pass them on to a supposedly authoritative reference work compiled by William Rose Benet, an American of distinction, and titled "The Reader's Encyclopedia." This tome bolstered my own recollection of the fable, and in it I placed my trust.

The moral in all this seems to be that a man should not only look before he leaps, but make sure he jumps in the right direction . . . which in this instance was toward the Encyclopaedia Britannica!

Lest anyone choose to read into this admission of error more than I offer, however, let me make it plain that the donkey to which I pinned the wrong tail—the general strike, and strikes in general—remains a donkey still.

I am not anti-labor, as has been suggested since I voiced the above opinion. But along with a probable heavy majority of British Columbians, I am convinced that the strike as a backer-up of labor's demands has outlived its usefulness. It hurts everybody and everything, including union solidarity.

We may, as matters now stand, face a partial work stoppage. Only by wishful thinking, however, can it any longer be termed a general strike.

Too many union men have reflected soberly upon what such a tie-up would mean to them, their families and the provincial community, and have declared themselves against it.

No flexing of labor's muscles is going to guarantee job security; and those who still maintain that it will are looking not to the future but the past.

Our times are changing, as they have been doing since man first worked out his definitions of time. In my own years, I have seen the pace accelerate steadily. To cling to outworn arguments, methods and weapons is to court disaster.

I suggest as simple fact that job security in terms of the jobs very many of us now hold is mere wishful thinking.

★ ★ ★

That management must also change with its times is apparent to any observer.

The management that sees in this present situation a golden chance to bust a union is outdated in its thinking, and would do well to revise its policies.

As for government, I have indicated plainly and more than once in this corner my belief that it should mend its relations with organized labor.

Why, for instance, the insistence on maintaining labor as one of two portfolios upon which a minister is to ride with a foot slithering about on each back?

Premier Bennett's explanation that labor and education must work close together in job training fails to convince. Of course they must: but not on a system of short rations to each.

I'm well aware that the basic problems of automation aren't going to be worked out on the local scene. We could, though, set about providing, for the first time in the history of government-management-labor relations in this province, an atmosphere receptive to solutions.

Labor Minister Peterson, even though tardily, has offered a lead of sorts. I hope the embroiled factions will at least spare time to weigh it.

JFK Film Tonight

The documentary film, Years of Lightning, Day of Drums, on the life of President Kennedy, will be shown tonight at 8 in the Lansdowne auditorium of the University of Victoria.

The performance is open to the public and no admission will be charged.

THREE OF THE DOLLS ARE BREATHING. The other 135 are breathless about Christmas when Junior Chamber of Commerce mariners will present them to outport children in the Gulf Islands. Denise, 2, foreground; Kathryn, 9, left rear, and Barbara Barlow were foster parents briefly Tuesday. The Jaycee Santa Claus cruise departs Dec. 18. They've been helped by an anonymous Victoria West woman who reconditioned all the dolls. Last year the Jaycees took toys and dolls to hundreds of youngsters, many of whom live on the fringe of poverty in remote coastal spots. The Barlow girls live at 3953 Locarno. (Times Photo.)

HANDLE IMPORTS OF FARM LABOR

B.C. Immigration Branch Asked

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The farmers want the department to handle importing of farm labor.

Douglas Jung, representing the B.C. Lower Mainland Farmers' Co-operative, said B.C.'s agricultural industry should seriously consider pressing for a provincial department of immigration if the federal government does nothing to solve the farm labor problem.

Both Quebec and Ontario had immigration departmetns, he pointed out.

Delegates unanimously passed a resolution requesting the federal minister of agriculture to provide sufficient farm labor for the 1966 season.

They agreed that the wage rate to be paid to farm laborers should bear a "fair relationship to industrial wage rates in British Columbia."

Mr. Jung told the delegates that domestic help from the West Indies is being imported for individuals in Eastern Canada.

"What is more important to the economy of Canada—domestic help for individual families or farm laborers for the agricultural industry," he asked.

He said farm workers should be brought into Canada on a two-year contract.

"This would make it worthwhile for the laborer and for the farmer," he said. "Their wages and accommodation would come under the jurisdiction of the provincial government. This would eliminate the possibility of exploiting labor from other countries."

Mr. Jung, who raised the question of bringing farm labor from Hong Kong at last year's convention, said labor leaders were unfair in criticizing his scheme.

'COOLIE LABOR'

"I was accused of attempting to bring in coolie labor," he said. "There was not a bit of truth in this. There was never any question of bringing in cheap labor."

One delegate pointed out that the class of persons available from the National Employment Service for farm labor is, as a rule, totally untrained and unfitted for normal farm work.

"I'm ready to pay a farm worker an industrial wage," said one grower, "but I want a trained man. Too many people are under the impression that unskilled workers are suitable for farm work."

"The majority of unemployed available from the city for such work are unemployable," he added.

Ron Pilling, agricultural economist for the federation, said a study of farm labor needs in B.C. has been under way since the start of the year.

"Farm labor is a problem to all of Canada," he said.

Fast Start Set On $22 Million Pulp Mill Unit

Work will start immediately on the installation of a second $22.5 million newsprint machine at the Crofton pulp mill of British Columbia Forest Products.

Company president A. D. Hamilton said the machine is an improved version of the one already in production.

Scheduled for start-up in late 1967 or early 1968, hte machine will give the mill a daily production capacity of 700 tons of newsprint as well as 850 tons of market pulp.

INCREASED DEMAND

Mr. Hamilton said the machine was made necessary by increased demand for Crofton newsprint.

The new machine will consume 30,000 tons of semi-bleached pulp a year, Mr. Hamilton said.

The machine will create 100 new jobs in the Crofton mill where 800 men and women are now employed.

In addition to the new machine there will be changes in mill design to include provision for the pulping of sawdust which will provide a portion of the fibre requirements for the new operation

Magistrate Puts Stop On Logger

A young logger who deliberately knocked down 10 stop signs in the Langford district Oct. 22 was bowled over by the magistrate in central court this morning.

John S. Baxter, 1111 Neil Road, pleaded guilty to causing wilful damage.

As the details of the case were read out in court, the people in the public gallery laughed loudly and Baxter smiled.

Magistrate J. A. Byers then said to Baxter, "I'll tell you something that will not sound so funny. You are liable for imprisonment for 14 years" on this offence.

He then remanded Baxter in custody for one week to await sentence. Another man charged with a similar offence, Leo Desmond Pike, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Dec. 7.

Court was told that Baxter and a companion drove around Langford on the evening of Oct. 22 knocking down stop signs, school signs and a railroad crossing sign. In all, about $140 damage was done with the 1949 model car.

Fire Victim's Condition Termed 'Fair'

Mrs. Joan Cragg, 3429 Seymour, is in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her home was gutted by fire and is considered a total loss. The loss is believed covered by insurance.

COVERS OVER HEAD

Mrs. Cragg was found in bed with the covers pulled over her head. She told firemen she could not remember anything of what happened.

It was spotted by 13-year-old Brenda Burke, 908 Cloverdale. She yelled to her father and he telephoned the fire department just after 9 p.m.

Mr. Burke ran to the burning house and pounded on the door. When firemen arrived they smashed their way inside. As they did so part of the roof fell in.

Fireman Benn, wearing a smoke mask, went inside and found Mrs. Cragg on the lower floor and carried her out.

Wrong-Side Drive Brings $300 Fine

Arthur Carvalho, 1350 Pembroke, was fined $300 and prohibited from driving for three months when he pleaded guilty today to impaired driving.

Evidence was that Carvalho drove on the wrong side of Gorge Road at 10:30 p.m., Oct. 27, and collided with an oncoming car.

Work to Resume Soon On Highest High-Rise

Work on Victoria's highest high-rise apartment building will resume soon, its promoter said from Vancouver today.

E. D. Blake, head of Blake Investments Ltd., said he hoped the $1.4-million job would be back on the rails before the end of the year.

Construction on the building on Rockland Avenue ceased during the fall.

It was suggested the financiers were reorganizing, although Mr. Blake said that the only comment he was at liberty to make was that work would resume.

Asked whether the same firm or a firm by another name would resume the job, he said it would probably not be under the same name.

He agreed the amount of money invested in the project was too great to allow the building to languish as it stands—a foundation, car park area, lobby slab and pillars for upper floor construction.

It was costing money to stand idle, he said.

STILL ON SITE

Getting the project back into gear would put the total cost up over original estimates, Mr. Blake said.

The building when finished would face east and west, overlooking Oak Bay and downtown Victoria, rising more than 150 feet over the rocky crest of land above Laurel and the St. Charles Street district.

It would have 17 stories.

LAUNDRY LOOT RECOVERED BY POLICE

Police this morning recovered about $1,500 worth of bedclothes and clothing stolen overnight Monday in a break-in at Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John Street.

Police said almost everything that was stolen appears to have been recovered. The thieves abandoned the goods on Huron Street near Victoria Machinery Depot incinerator.

Most of the articles were smeared with mud. A company official said laundry customers need have no fear they will lose in any way by the break-in.

He said earlier reports that all the sheets and pillowcases in the laundry were stolen had been exaggerated. He said that actually only 70 articles out of about 9,000 were taken and these belonged to two commercial concerns in the city.

Tow-Away Made Less Painful

Victoria police commision today moved to take half the pain out of the penalty for parking in a tow-away zone.

Commissioners asked their solicitor to prepare a bylaw amendment requiring either a fine or a tow-away charge, but not both.

Commissioner Gordon Carter said he felt the inconvenience of having to recover a car towed from a prohibited zone was enough deterrent without being fined as well.

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed with him.

The decision was reached after Chief John Gregory made a survey of practices adopted by 12 Canadian and U.S. police departments.

The commision received complaints that tourists and doctors on emergency calls were given no special consideration if they happened to leave a car in an arterial traffic lane during rush hour.

Commissioners felt all drivers should be treated in the same way.

According to the survey, Chief Gregory said, Victoria is "average" with penalties and dealing with doctors and tourists. Vancouver, he noted, imposes no fine but has a contract with a towing firm to clear rush hour lanes at $5 per car charged to the driver.

Island Hit By First Snowfall

Victoria Area Escapes With Only Light Rain

Snow was still falling today as Vancouver Island teetered on the brink of winter's first freeze-up.

Cold winds from the northeast dumped up to four inches on high-lying areas, temporarily blocking roads.

Greater Victoria was one of the few areas to escape. Only light rain fell.

Highways crews were out this morning with snowploughs and sanding trucks—the first time they have been called out this year.

At press time it was still snowing in the Lake Cowichan area and up to three inches had piled up on Lake Cowichan Road.

The Malahat received a light coating and motorists were warned to drive carefully.

Although sanded, there are still several icy patches.

Few areas escaped winter's first blast.

Nanaimo, Port Alberni Courtenay and Qualicum all reported a trace. In some cases it snowed for as much as two hours this morning.

The wintery scene followed a night which saw the thermometer drop below freezing along most of the Island's east coast.

The sudden change was brought about by an arctic front which holds most of the province in its grip.

Southern V.I. escaped the worst because of a warmer air mass centred over the U.S. northwest.

Temperatures will again drop below freezing with the exception of Greater Victoria and the west coast where the thermometer will hover around the 35-degree mark.

Said a highways department official: "We're ready for it. The snow ploughs are all set to go if things get too bad."

The weather office promised a let-up late Thursday.

Scoring Play Near, Yet So Far

Only hours before the official closing of the 1965 campaign, the fund was still short nearly $23,500 of its $439,210 target.

Several last-minute contributions were made, including one of $1,000 from Crown Zellerbach Paper Co. Ltd.

PLAQUE AWARDED

A United Appeal plaque has been awarded to wholesale division employees of Doman's Lumber Co. Ltd. for 100 per cent participation in the drive.

The eight employees of the division contributed $204—an average of $25.50 each.

Employees of National Motors received an award of excellence for the second year, for a contribution of $634 to the campaign.

Other last-minute contributors were servicemen and civilians at Work Point Barracks, who gave $650, and employees of Oak Bay municipality, who contributed $470 to the fund.

CANADA TO CLOSE TRADE OFFICE

SALISBURY (AP) — Canada's trade commission in Salisbury is likely to close toward the end of December, an official Canadian statement said today.

The statement sent to about 250 Canadian citizens in Rhodesia by Acting Trade Commissioner C. D. Miller said that after the office closed "it will not be possible for the Canadian government to provide direct consular assistance to you."

"After the Canadian government declined to recognize Rhodesian independence, it withdrew its trade commissioner but kept its Salisbury office open. Miller's statement is the first official indication that the office is to be closed entirely.

CALIFORNIA

Rain, Rain, Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The third storm in 12 days swept into soggy southern California today, bringing new flash floods to areas where at least 13 are feared dead.

Heavy rain hit mountain and foothill areas north of Los Angeles during the night, causing fresh gushes through canyons, then sloshed across the Los Angeles basin during the morning.

A third of an inch of rain fell in downtown Los Angeles in an hour, pushing the season total to 11 inches. Normal for the season since July 1 to date is 1.45 inches.

Rain was forecast to continue at least through Monday.

In northern California, a storm approaching blizzard proportions whipped into the Sierras. Wind and snow reduced visibility to 100 yards on 7,135-foot Donner Summit.

In the heaviest November rains ever recorded in southern California, floods in desert areas raked cars off highways and into washes and residents of hillside areas fought oozing mud as it inundated homes and yards.

The desert resort of Palm Springs, a winter mecca for smog - tired Los Angeles residents, was virtually isolated and cut in two by a flood that rushed down from the San Jacinto Mountains.

Witnesses said three persons were carried away in their cars and a man wading out to help was swept away in the torrent. Only one body was found.

FLOOD HITS CARS

At rocky Cucamonga wash, a roaring flood caught a dozen cars and swept them half a block, tumbling over and over, some with their lights still burning.

Hal Malloy, 19, saw a man swept away in the flood, then lamented: "I was so close . . . he finally was able to get out of the car. He was hysterical, saying 'help me, help me.' I got to within inches of him . . . his body disappeared."

Life Jail Term Starts On Slayer's Birthday

The murderer of Susan Freschi today was taken to New Westminster to begin a life term in the B.C. Penitentiary.

David Leonard Robinson, who also was marking his 25th birthday today, received his sentence in Assize Court Tuesday afternoon, without blinking.

"David Leonard Robinson. I sentence you to life imprisonment," said Mr. Justice George Gregory.

The sentence is laid down by statute and neither the accused nor court officials had reason for surprise since Monday when Robinson entered a guilty plea.

The prisoner was escorted from court almost immediately and RCMP confirmed this morning that he has already been taken to the mainland.

He will automatically be eligible for consideration by a parole board in seven years. But some legal circles here believe the gruesome details of his crime, all written into the court proceedings, might weigh against him.

Mr. Justice Gregory said in the final stages of the court session that it might appear unusual for all the evidence to be reviewed after the plea of guilty—because the sentence is set by law. A recitation of the facts could not affect the sentence.

"HAS REASONS"

"The Crown has its reasons, with which I heartily concur," he said.

Outside of court, the judge would not comment on the statement. Nor would prosecutor William McIntyre.

But some quasi-legal comment on the case suggests that with the full evidence on the record, including suggestions of mental instability, there would be little hope of early parole.

Several times in his testimony to police, all of which was repeated in court Tuesday, Robinson mentioned mem-

AERIAL BOMBER ARRESTED

MIAMI (UPI)—Police today arrested a man whom they said bombed Miami homes from the air with Molotov cocktails because he hated Negroes and Jews.

Sheriff's officers identified the man as Lon David Shaw, 30, and said he went on his fire-bomb missions at night and alone in a small plane.

Shaw was charged specifically with tossing Molotov cocktails, bottles filled with gasoline and a rag and then ignited, at five homes, two of them owned by Negroes.

Ontario Strike To Spread?

TORONTO (CP) — Plans to spread a strike of oil workers through other parts of Ontario and to Montreal were announced today by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC).

Union spokesman Robert Kirk said unless a settlement is reached by noon Thursday in the strike against the British American Oil Co. Ltd. refinery at nearby Clarkson, union employees in the Toronto-Hamilton area and Montreal will walk off their jobs in sympathy.

About 600 additional workers in the Toronto-Hamilton area would be affected. In Clarkson, 419 workers have been on strike since Sept. 15. Union spokesmen here were unable to say how many workers would be affected by the strike deadline at the Montreal refineries of BP and Texaco Canada Ltd.

These are the only refineries in Quebec where the OCAW holds bargaining rights for workers.

DRIVERS AS WELL

The proposed spread of the strike involves truck drivers who distribute the oil as well as the refinery workers.

Mr. Kirk said the Thursday deadline could be affected by the results of the intervention by the British Columbia government into the strike of oil workers in that province.

Gandhi Kin Banned By S. Africa

DURBAN (AP)—The South African government today banned the Indian husband of Mohandas Gandhi's granddaughter for five years under the suppression of communism laws.

The action against Newa Ramgobin, 33, a Durban insurance agent, restricts his movements and prevents him from attending political meetings and other gatherings.

Four years ago he helped establish the Gandhi Clinic, which treats more than 1,000 patients a month. Author Alan Paton, chairman of the trust which administers the clinic, said he thought Ramgobin had been banned because of his student political activities.

Union Urges Gov't Plan Be Accepted

VANCOUVER—A threatened two-day general strike in B.C. Thursday and Friday was to be called off this afternoon.

At the same time, the executive of the oil workers' union will recommend acceptance by members of the government's settlement proposal announced this morning.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said:

"We are very happy the dispute is resolved. Our executive council now is going to call off the general work stoppage set for tonight."

The recommendation from the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union to its members was announced by Canadian director J. R. Duncan.

"The terms are not all we would have liked, but we have a responsibility to the community," Mr. Duncan said.

But there was no comment from any of the oil companies whether or not they will accept the formula.

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

The provincial government today announced a proposal to settle the oil workers dispute.

Premier Bennett said in Vancouver "we ask immediate acceptance by labor, management and the general public."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson asked that all plans for a two-day work stoppage to coincide with an expanded oil strike "be abandoned forthwith."

Company and union representatives retired immediately after the announcement to consider the proposal.

The proposed formula contains recommendations on job security and the subsidiary issue of wages.

These were the points in the formula:

- A committee with equal representation from both sides for continuing discussions on automation;
- Six months notification by oil companies of intent to change conditions which would result in discharge or layoff for any employee working for the company after Aug. 31, 1965;
- Companies will participate with the government in every way possible in training and retraining of men displaced by automation;
- Severance pay of one week's wages for each year of service to a maximum of 26 weeks;
- Wage increase of 35 cents an hour over two years.

The dispute involves 540 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union in B.C. and seven oil companies—British-American, Imperial, Shell, Standard, Home, Texaco and Pacific Petroleums.

★ ★ ★

B-A was struck two months ago and Imperial's Port Moody refinery earlier this month. Pacific Petroleums locked out employees in anticipation of a strike.

The oil workers had set a deadline of midnight tonight to expand the strike. More than 60,000 members of unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labour responded to a call for a two-day work stoppage to support oil workers.

The Teamsters union said it would follow contract provisions allowing it to observe picket lines and refuse to handle goods from a strike-bound plant. This wouldn't apply to fuel delivered from a strike-free plant prior to any strike.

This is what the oil workers were seeking:

- Six months notification by companies of new automation processes;

CROPS ARE FLOODED AND CHILDREN WAIL

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

It's the time when cold and bitter winter weather gives way to the ceaseless spring rains . . .

When thousands more are added to the millions of Koreans who are homeless and unemployed all year round.

The food situation for the poor becomes crucial, because it is just before the grain crop is to be harvested.

And the harvest, when it does come, will be pitifully inadequate because of the floods.

Grain prices go sky-high and the wail of hungry children is heard more and more in the streets of Korean cities like Seoul and Mokpo.

Although USC activities are worldwide, Korea continues to receive the lion's share of aid both in funds and in what the USC calls "gifts-in-kind" — everything from codfish to cardigans contributed by Canadians.

Thousands of human lives have been saved through USC aid, and thousands more salvaged from misery and despair by the efforts of USC workers throughout Korea.

Of about 600 children's homes in the country, the USC sponsors seven, four in Seoul and three in Kyong go Do province.

The largest and most expensive USC project since 1960 is the TB Children's Hospital in Mokpo, Chollanamdo Province,

ADVICE FROM NEWFOUNDLAND SAGE:

Brace Yourself for Hard Winter

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Levi Drodge, an amateur forecaster who has been predicting Newfoundland weather with uncanny accuracy for more than 40 years, has decided to branch out.

Mr. Drodge issued his first long-range forecast for all Canada Tuesday.

In a statement to The Evening Telegram, Mr. Drodge, 83, a retired fisherman from the Trinity Bay community of Hillview, said: "There's a hard winter coming up—don't say I didn't warn you."

His first forecast for the entire country: "It's going to be a very hard winter for Canada. It is going to be very cold and plenty of snow and frost." He predicted extremely heavy snowfalls.

He also predicted a bad year for ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Canadian forecast ended with: "That's all I am going to give you."

In 1963, Mr. Drodge forecast a heavy snowfall and during that winter the St. John's area received a total of almost 20 feet from November to May. Last winter, he forecast a cold winter with little snow and he was right again.

He said he predicts the weather by watching the tides and "scenting" the winds. The best place to predict weather, according to his calculations, would be Sable Island, off the Nova Scotia coast.

"If I was there for about 10 days, I could give the weather for the whole of North America," he said.

Youth Killed Family 'To Pay Accident Bill'

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—State police said today that a 17-year-old who admitted shooting his parents and setting a house fire that killed seven of his brothers and sisters was under heavy financial pressure because of a car accident a month ago.

Capt. John C. Grey said that Harold Bordner made an oral statement of guilt Tuesday from his hospital bed, saying that he wanted to collect insurance to pay off debts.

Coroner Henry Ulrich quoted Bordner as saying: "I wanted to pay my bills. I thought it would be better this way."

Police records show that Bordner drove a car that was involved in a two-car crash near here, causing $1,300 damage and injuring two persons slightly.

IS DROPOUT

Other records show that the boy dropped out of high school in October. James Bullock, the principal, said Bordner had been one of 16 pupils in an "opportunity class" for slow learners, and left school to become an apprentice stone mason with the company employing his father. Bordner presented no behavior problem, the principal added.

Earlier in the day the grief-stricken father, Paul, 38, attended graveside services for his seven children—Cidy, 8; Jerry, 7; Stephen 6; Roger, 5; John, 4; Ruby, 3, and Dennis, 1. The father received minor wounds from shotgun pellets.

$2 BILLION TOURIST INCOME GOAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp said Tuesday night Canada's travel industry can earn more than $2,000,000,000 yearly by the next generation.

As a neighbor to the rich and populous United States, "we must not be satisfied with only a $700,000,000 total income from visitors to Canada," Mr. Sharp said at a dinner for delegates to the federal-provincial tourist conference.

Competition for the American tourist was stiff, he said. While the federal and provincial governments spent $9,000,000 in tourist advertising in 1965, they were outspent by all their competitors in the U.S. by 25 to 1.

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 20 native Irish, protesting "British aggression in Ireland" Tuesday night picketed near the Manhattan town house where Princess Margaret was a guest.

The pickets carried signs which read, "Irishmen don't buy British goods" and "Ireland should be free from the center to the sea."

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will sponsor a conference of Canada's 10 provincial highways ministers here Dec. 6 in a move to persuade the federal government to contribute half the cost of a four-lane sections of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Rites Friday For Province Ex-Publisher

GANGES, B.C. (CP)—O. L. (Leigh) Spencer, 81, retired publisher of The Province, died at his home here on Salt Spring Island Tuesday following a lengthy illness.

The funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Friday on Salt Spring from St. Mark's Anglican Church. Cremation will follow.

The family has requested no flowers be sent and suggested donations to charity or St. Mark's.

Born in Toronto the son of a lawyer, he came west with his family at the age of five. The rest of his life was spent in British Columbia and Alberta as a conservationist, farmer, sailor, fisherman and newspaper man.

His newspaper career began in 1907 when he joined The Calgary Herald as advertising manager and ended in 1947 when he retired as publisher of The Province.

Mr. Spencer's father, O. L. Leigh-Spencer, was a prominent lawyer in B.C.'s early days. The family lived in New Westminster and Vancouver until the father's death in 1905, then moved to Victoria.

Mr. Spencer went to Hereford, England, to finish his education at Beechwood School.

He started his business life as an analyst and assistant geologist for the Crowsnest Pass Coal Co. After five years he joined The Calgary Herald and stayed there 35 years. From 1935 to 1940 he was managing director.

In 1940, he moved back to Vancouver as assistant managing editor of The Province. He became publisher in 1946.

On the paper's masthead his name appeared as O. L. Spencer. His newspaper friends called him Leigh. His son, Gerry, a Vancouver life insurance salesman, has reverted to the Leigh-Spencer surname.

SAILOR

Mr. Spencer served as a member of the board of directors of the Southam Newspapers and was a director of the Canadian Press, Canada's national news agency. He was a past president of both the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and the B.C. Daily Newspapers Association.

He was interested in farming, shooting and fishing. At one time he was an ardent golfer and in his youth a sailor, a member of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club who sailed in prominent racing crews.

For many years he was interested in waterfowl conservation and for several years was president of Ducks Unlimited (Canada), an organization he helped found.

He served overseas during the First World War, attaining rank of major. His only brother died of wounds in the war.

Mr. Spencer was a member of the Vancouver Club, the Union Club in Victoria and the Ranchmen's Club in Calgary.

Mr. Spencer is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert F. S. Robertson, Pinawa, Man., and three sons, Frank in Winnipeg, and Bill and Gerry in Vancouver.

Pension 'Advances' for CS

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to advance money for civil servants' contributions to the Canada Pension Plan starting Jan. 1 pending passage of legislation to coordinate the scheme with the Public Service Superannuation Act, Acting Finance Minister Sharp said Tuesday.

Mr. Sharp said arrangements are being made for the treasury to make "accountable advances" to each civil servant contributing to the Superannuation Act so contributions can be made to both plans with no reduction in take-home pay.

"It is proposed these advances will be repaid as an accounting adjustment consequent upon the proposed legislation which will authorize the lower contributions to the Superannuation Act from the beginning of January," Mr. Sharp said.

Socreds Hit Fluorides And Sport on Sundays

EDMONTON (CP) — Delegates to the Alberta Social Credit convention Tuesday voted against two proposals of Premier E. C. Manning on commercial Sunday sport and fluoridation.

The 300 delegates passed resolutions asking:

- That there be no change in provincial legislation requiring a two-thirds majority in a municipal plebiscite before water supplies may be fluoridated;
- That there be no move to allow municipalities to open Sunday to commercial sport with the approval of a simple majority in plebiscites.

Mr. Manning said in October his government will introduce a measure at the next legislature session to allow fluoridation of municipal water supplies on the approval of a simple majority.

He said the government also plans to introduce legislation allowing Sunday commercial sport on the approval of a simple majority.

At present there is no provision for Alberta municipalities to allow commercial Sunday sport.

Mr. Manning, who attended Tuesday's convention session, said the opposition is only one opinion out of many which the government must consider.

Penkovsky's Widow Says Papers Phoney

MOSCOW (UPI)—The widow of Soviet super-spy Oleg Penkovsky said Tuesday her husband could not have written the controversial book, The Penkovsky Papers.

Mrs. Vera Penkovsky told western newsmen that the editors statement in the "papers" related that Penkovsky's manuscript was typed. "He did not know how to type," she said. "He had a typewriter, but could only type short notes with great difficulty, using one finger."

Penkovsky, a Soviet army colonel and intelligence officer, was arrested in 1962, put on trial with his British courier, Grenville Wynne, and convicted. Wynne was imprisoned and later sent back to the west, but the Soviets announced Penkovsky's death by firing squad in May, 1963.

The book claims that, in his 18 months of spying for the United States and Britain, Penkovsky turned over more than 5,000 items of information, revealed high Soviet state and defence secrets and helped President Kennedy decide how to handle the Cuba crisis.

Mrs. Penkovsky denied the statement attributed to her husband in the book that he typed his lengthy memoirs at home without his family knowing about it. "In this cramped space," she said, looking around her two-room apartment, "he could never have typed it without us knowing."

The Soviet press called the book a "fabrication." The Kremlin already has made official protests in both London and Washington over its publication and serialization. Long articles by the Soviet news agency Tass and the Communist Party newspaper Pravda have scoffed at the book as an "invention" of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Swedish publishing house today stopped the planned publication in Sweden of the Penkovsky papers, the book purportedly written by the Soviet spy Col. Oleg Penkovsky.

The book has already been published in English. Several British and American specialists on diplomatic affairs have claimed the book is a forgery. written by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency as part of the cold war between East and West.

Arthur Mayse

At the moment, as I dig out from under a massive correspondence on the subject, I find myself wishing that King Canute had taken the deep six before he could retreat from the flooding tide to preach his mealy-mouthed little sermon.

To put the record straight, however, let all men know that Canute was indeed teaching a lesson to his courtiers when he skipped back from the water line, hove his crown into the sea, and concluded his hamming with a few choice platitudes.

Having taken my lumps, I will now pass them on to a supposedly authoritative reference work compiled by William Rose Benet, an American of distinction, and titled "The Reader's Encyclopedia." This tome bolstered my own recollection of the fable, and in it I placed my trust.

The moral in all this seems to be that a man should not only look before he leaps, but make sure he jumps in the right direction . . . which in this instance was toward the Encyclopaedia Britannica!

Lest anyone choose to read into this admission of error more than I offer, however, let me make it plain that the donkey to which I pinned the wrong tail—the general strike, and strikes in general—remains a donkey still.

I am not anti-labor, as has been suggested since I voiced the above opinion. But along with a probable heavy majority of British Columbians, I am convinced that the strike as a backer-up of labor's demands has outlived its usefulness. It hurts everybody and everything, including union solidarity.

Today, even a partial work stoppage seems unlikely. Government has made its approaches.

Too many union men have reflected soberly upon what such a tie-up would mean to them, their families and the provincial community, and have declared themselves against it.

No flexing of labor's muscles is going to guarantee job security; and those who still maintain that it will are looking not to the future but the past.

Our times are changing, as they have been doing since man first worked out his definitions of time. In my own years, I have seen the pace accelerate steadily. To cling to outworn arguments, methods and weapons is to court disaster.

I suggest as simple fact that job security in terms of the jobs very many of us now hold is mere wishful thinking.

★ ★ ★

That management must also change with its times is apparent to any observer.

The management that sees in this present situation a golden chance to bust a union is outdated in its thinking, and would do well to revise its policies.

As for government, I have indicated plainly and more than once in this corner my belief that it should mend its relations with organized labor.

Why, for instance, the insistence on maintaining labor as one of two portfolios upon which a minister is to ride with a foot slithering about on each back?

Premier Bennett's explanation that labor and education must work close together in job training fails to convince. Of course they must: but not on a system of short rations to each.

I'm well aware that the basic problems of automation aren't going to be worked out on the local scene. We could, though, set about providing, for the first time in the history of government-management-labor relations in this province, an atmosphere receptive to solutions.

Labor Minister Peterson, even though tardily, has offered a lead of sorts. I hope the embroiled factions will at least spare time to weigh it.

HANDLE IMPORTS OF FARM LABOR

B.C. Immigration Branch Asked

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The farmers want the department to handle importing of farm labor.

Douglas Jung, representing the B.C. Lower Mainland Farmers' Co-operative, said B.C.'s agricultural industry should seriously consider pressing for a provincial department of immigration if the federal government does nothing to solve the farm labor problem.

Both Quebec and Ontario had immigration departments, he pointed out.

Delegates unanimously passed a resolution requesting the federal minister of agriculture to provide sufficient farm labor for the 1966 season.

They agreed that the wage rate to be paid to farm laborers should bear a "fair relationship to industrial wage rates in British Columbia."

Mr. Jung told the delegates that domestic help from the West Indies is being imported for individuals in Eastern Canada.

"What is more important to the economy of Canada—domestic help for individual families or farm laborers for the agricultural industry," he asked.

He said farm workers should be brought into Canada on a two-year contract.

"This would make it worthwhile for the laborer and for the farmer," he said. "Their wages and accommodation would come under the jurisdiction of the provincial government. This would eliminate the possibility of exploiting labor from other countries."

Mr. Jung, who raised the question of bringing farm labor from Hong Kong at last year's convention, said labor leaders were unfair in criticizing his scheme.

'COOLIE LABOR'

"I was accused of attempting to bring in coolie labor," he said. "There was not a bit of truth in this. There was never any question of bringing in cheap labor."

One delegate pointed out that the class of persons available from the National Employment Service for farm labor is, as a rule, totally untrained and unfitted for normal farm work.

"I'm ready to pay a farm worker an industrial wage," said one grower, "but I want a trained man. Too many people are under the impression that unskilled workers are suitable for farm work."

"The majority of unemployed available from the city for such work are unemployable," he added.

Ron Pilling, agricultural economist for the federation, said a study of farm labor needs in B.C. has been under way since the start of the year.

"Farm labor is a problem to all of Canada," he said.

Fast Start Set On $22 Million Pulp Mill Unit

Work will start immediately on the installation of a second $22.5 million newsprint machine at the Crofton pulp mill of British Columbia Forest Products.

Company president A. D. Hamilton said the machine is an improved version of the one already in production.

Scheduled for start-up in late 1967 or early 1968, the machine will give the mill a daily production capacity of 700 tons of newsprint as well as 850 tons of market pulp.

INCREASED DEMAND

Mr. Hamilton said the machine was made necessary by increased demand for Crofton newsprint.

The new machine will consume 30,000 tons of semi-bleached pulp a year, Mr. Hamilton said.

The machine will create 100 new jobs in the Crofton mill where 800 men and women are now employed.

In addition to the new machine there will be changes in mill design to include provision for the pulping of sawdust which will provide a portion of the fibre requirements for the new operation

Magistrate Puts Stop On Logger

A young logger who deliberately knocked down 10 stop signs in the Langford district Oct. 22 was bowled over by the magistrate in central court this morning.

As the details of the case were read out in court, the people in the public gallery laughed loudly and Baxter smiled.

Magistrate J. A. Byers then said to Baxter, "I'll tell you something that will not sound so funny. You are liable for imprisonment for 14 years" on this offence.

He then remanded Baxter in custody for one week to await sentence. Another man charged with a similar offence, Leo Desmond Pike, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Dec. 7.

Court was told that Baxter and a companion drove around Langford on the evening of Oct. 22 knocking down stop signs, school signs and a railroad crossing sign. In all, about $140 damage was done with the 1949 model car.

Fire Victim's Condition Termed 'Fair'

Mrs. Joan Cragg, 3429 Seymour, is in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her home was gutted by fire and is considered a total loss. The loss is believed covered by insurance.

COVERS OVER HEAD

Mrs. Cragg was found in bed with the covers pulled over her head. She told firemen she could not remember anything of what happened.

It was spotted by 13-year-old Brenda Burke, 908 Cloverdale. She yelled to her father and he telephoned the fire department just after 9 p.m.

Mr. Burke ran to the burning house and pounded on the door. When firemen arrived they smashed their way inside. As they did so part of the roof fell in.

Wrong-Side Drive Brings $300 Fine

Arthur Carvalho, 1350 Pembroke, was fined $300 and prohibited from driving for three months when he pleaded guilty today to impaired driving.

Evidence was that Carvalho drove on the wrong side of Gorge Road at 10:30 p.m., Oct. 27, and collided with an oncoming car.

Work to Resume Soon On Highest High-Rise

Work on Victoria's highest high-rise apartment building will resume soon, its promoter said from Vancouver today.

E. D. Blake, head of Blake Investments Ltd., said he hoped the $1.4-million job would be back on the rails before the end of the year.

It was suggested the financiers were reorganizing, although Mr. Blake said that the only comment he was at liberty to make was that work would resume.

Asked whether the same firm or a firm by another name would resume the job, he said it would probably not be under the same name.

He agreed the amount of money invested in the project was too great to allow the building to languish as it stands—a foundation, car park area, lobby slab and pillars for upper floor construction.

It was costing money to stand idle, he said.

STILL ON SITE

Getting the project back into gear would put the total cost up over original estimates, Mr. Blake said.

The building when finished would face east and west, overlooking Oak Bay and downtown Victoria, rising more than 150 feet over the rocky crest of land above Laurel and the St. Charles Street district.

It would have 17 stories.

LAUNDRY LOOT RECOVERED BY POLICE

Police this morning recovered about $1,500 worth of bedclothes and clothing stolen overnight Monday in a break-in at Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John Street.

Police said almost everything that was stolen appears to have been recovered. The thieves abandoned the goods on Huron Street near Victoria Machinery Depot incinerator.

Most of the articles were smeared with mud. A company official said laundry customers need have no fear they will lose in any way by the break-in.

He said earlier reports that all the sheets and pillowcases in the laundry were stolen had been exaggerated. He said that actually only 70 articles out of about 9,000 were taken and these belonged to two commercial concerns in the city.

Tow-Away Made Less Painful

Victoria police commision today moved to take half the pain out of the penalty for parking in a tow-away zone.

Commissioners asked their solicitor to prepare a bylaw amendment requiring either a fine or a tow-away charge, but not both.

Commissioner Gordon Carter said he felt the inconvenience of having to recover a car towed from a prohibited zone was enough deterrent without being fined as well.

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed.

The decision was reached after Chief John Gregory made a survey of practices adopted by 12 Canadian and U.S. police departments.

The commision received complaints that tourists and doctors on emergency calls were given no special consideration if they happened to leave a car in an arterial traffic lane during rush hour.

Commissioners felt all drivers should be treated in the same way.

According to the survey, Chief Gregory said, Victoria is "average" with penalties and dealing with doctors and tourists. Vancouver, he noted, imposes no fine but has a contract with a towing firm to clear rush hour lanes at $5 per car charged to the driver.

Island Hit By First Snowfall

Victoria Area Escapes With Only Light Rain

Snow was still falling today as Vancouver Island teetered on the brink of winter's first freeze-up.

Cold winds from the northeast dumped up to four inches on high-lying areas, temporarily blocking roads.

Greater Victoria was one of the few areas to escape. Only light rain fell.

Highways crews were out this morning with snowploughs and sanding trucks—the first time they have been called out this year.

At press time it was still snowing in the Lake Cowichan area and up to three inches had piled up on Lake Cowichan Road.

The Malahat received a light coating and motorists were warned to drive carefully.

Although sanded, there are still several icy patches.

Few areas escaped winter's first blast.

Nanaimo, Port Alberni Courtenay and Qualicum all reported a trace. In some cases it snowed for as much as two hours this morning.

The wintery scene followed a night which saw the thermometer drop below freezing along most of the Island's east coast.

The sudden change was brought about by an arctic front which holds most of the province in its grip.

Southern V.I. escaped the worst because of a warmer air mass centred over the U.S. northwest.

Temperatures will again drop below freezing with the exception of Greater Victoria and the west coast where the thermometer will hover around the 35-degree mark.

Said a highways department official: "We're ready for it. The snow ploughs are all set to go if things get too bad."

The weather office promised a let-up late Thursday.

Vancouver Man Gets Six Months

George Laverdure was sent to jail for six months for obtaining lodgings by fraud.

Magistrate J. A. Byers noted he has a record of previous offences "involving moral turpitude."

Anglicans to Hear Catholic Priest

A Roman Catholic priest will preach in the Anglican church of St. Philip, 2928 Eastdowne Road, Sunday at 11 a.m.

Rev. Father A. J. McDonald of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Victoria, will address the congregation on Christian Unity.

Scoring Play Near, Yet So Far

Only hours before the official closing of the 1965 campaign, the fund was still short nearly $23,500 of its $439,210 target.

Several last-minute contributions were made, including one of $1,000 from Crown Zellerback Paper Co. Ltd.

PLAQUE AWARDED

A United Appeal plaque has been awarded to wholesale division employees of Doman's Lumber Co. Ltd. for 100 per cent participation in the drive.

The eight employees of the division contributed $204—an average of $25.50 each.

Employees of National Motors received an award of excellence for the second year, for a contribution of $634 to the campaign.

Other last-minute contributors were servicemen and civilians at Work Point Barracks, who gave $650, and employees of Oak Bay municipality, who contributed $470 to the fund.

'WE'VE BEEN COWARDS!'

Three Big Cheers For Gritty Printer

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A flexing of youthful minds, we call it, when students of University of Victoria vote in favor of withholding $56 of their second-term fees to protest rising tuition costs.

We may not like such gymnastics but we tolerate them in the thought that youthful minds must be exercised if a mature grown-up is to evolve.

Forbes

However, when it comes to a group of young men and women on campus passing a motion of censure against a local printing firm because its owner refuses to print a story written by one of the group for the university magazine—then I think the flexing of minds is getting out of hand.

Surely a man has every right to say what his firm will do or not do. Surely he has the right of free choice in the shaping of his own affairs; the right to make his own decisions.

Surely young men and women of university years, who presume in so many ways to shape their own destinies must, if they have any maturity at all, recognize these facts—and accept them.

I have not read the story that has been rejected by printer Charles Morriss. I don't know whether it is "pornographic" as he has labelled it or merely a puerile attempt by youth to foist its own uncertainties and nebulous beliefs on others of its kind.

COURAGEOUS

What I do know is that Mr. Morriss has had the courage that many of us lack. He has stood up and said that he doesn't like this kind of story, that it is offensive and that he will not print it. I admire him for his stand!

In the past decade we have seen the basic facts of life disclosed in ever increasing boldness, until today we are faced with the stark nakedness of such realities.

As each succeeding veil has been lifted, we've gone through the same rigmarole.

WEAK PROTESTS

We've gasped and mouthed weak protests. We've shrugged to absolve ourselves of responsibility. And we've closed our eyes to the underlying breakdown in morals and the accompanying distortion of the behavior pattern.

In other words we've been cowards!

It seems to me that the students of University of Victoria would better serve their Alma Mater at this time by turning their eyes toward their studies.

All this excess energy, this flexing of minds would be welcomed in the lecture room. There, it would be allowed full play while being channelled into a well-balanced maturity.

It's wonderful to be young! It's exciting to be young in this age of miracles! It's a challenge to be young and to know that the future depends on the intelligence of youth!

RESPONSIBILITIES

A challenge of this magnitude brings many responsibilities. These do not include attitudes that seem to bulk large in the ways of many university students.

What we need today is young men and women who can prove that the maturity they so nonchalantly assume is "for keeps" and not something that dissolves into childish actions whenever there is disagreement with their thinking.

If nothing else, Mr. Morriss' stand and the accompanying vote of censure from the campus, should clearly pinpoint this need.

Black 'Sporting' Powder Could Have Blasted Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — An explosives expert said Tuesday experiments showed that 33 ounces of black "sporting" powder would have been sufficient to cause an explosion similar to that which blew apart an airliner last July 8.

Dave Brown of Canadian Industries Ltd. was testifying at an inquest into the Canadian Pacific Airlines disaster in which 52 persons were killed.

Earlier testimony showed that an explosion in the rear section of the aircraft ripped off part of the fuselage and tail section, sending the DC-6B into a spin over the Cariboo district.

All aboard perished.

Mr. Brown said the 33 ounces of powder could be purchased from a sporting goods shop. It could be made into a package about five inches by five inches. It is normally used by hunters in making ammunition.

Tom Sterling, an expert on the effects of explosives on metals, said there was no doubt in his mind that an explosion resulting from a "high order detonation" occurred on the plane.

By GLEN ALLEN

A voice said: "Well here I am at 96,

"It's my poem they're reading. My latest," said Mr. Morton.

To James Morton, prophet, sage, pioneer, writer, poet, literatus, thinker and bon vivant, each year is a poem.

That same old bird, who was 96 Monday, has seen this country grow up. He'll tell you what he thinks of Canada —and the world.

"The history of this country, and in fact the history of all countries in the modern world, has been determined not by personalities but by economics," he said.

DON'T UNDERSTAND

"People — that is, voters — don't often understand that."

If times are good, the government stays.

"My old friend Mackenzie King understood this. A lot of people didn't credit him with much more than tenaciousness, but he understood government and he understood people.

"Take Pearson now. He's a good, but weak man. He showed bad judgment calling that election," said Mr. Morton.

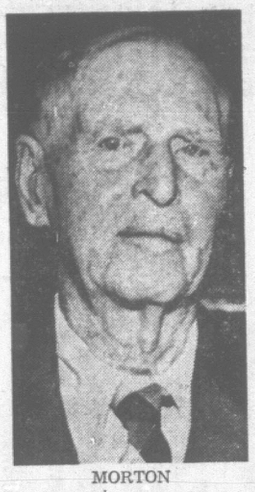
"Diefenbaker is just the opposite. To aggressive. Too authoritative. But he's a plucky old beggar isn't he?"

Mr. Morton's views are the astute and current views of an old hand. They ought to be.

After homesteading in his early years in Manitoba he came farther west and got a job as legislative reporter with the old Vancouver News-Advertiser and later the Vancouver World.

PREMIER'S SECRETARY

After that he took a position as personal secretary to B.C. premier John Oliver. He served succeeding premiers



MORTON
. . . each year a poem

MacLean and Tolmie in the same capacity.

He has been writing all his life. Romances, poems, satire a la Swift and a biography of John Oliver.

He seems to have total recall.

Discusing his favorite poets and authors, he quotes fully and without faltering, "Carlyle, Dickens, George Eliot, Whittier, Tennyson . . . those were the greats. Good literature ended with the 19th century. I can't stand this modern stuff. I tried Dylan Thomas, but . . . And they say Yeats has a great name, but who ever quotes him?"

'MAGIC WITH WORDS'

He said dreams are full of Mrs. Gamp, Sam Wellor, and the death of Little Nell.

"Dickens could make magic with words.

"Yes . . . Yes . . . oh yes . . ." he whispers, as if remembering it all.

"Ah, but the world is still with us. Those Americans are in trouble too. History has brought socialism to our doorstep. It's inevitable. It's only a difference in degree between the nationalization of hydro in B.C. and the communization of Viet Nam. What the Americans fail to see is that people have to be let alone. If the majority of Asians are communists, or want to be, it is certainly their affair."

WHY NOT?

Canada too is moving left. And why not?

"If we make provision for people's education why not for their health?"

"You know, I take more and more comfort from the eternal truths, the eternal pleasures, as I grow old.

"I sit at the organ—bought it in the '30s for $10—and play hymns and think about Christ's teachings. I don't go for all that Billy Graham drama—I can't swallow all that—but I go to bed feeling comfortable when I am able to think that I was here and there was some purpose to my being here."

Mr. Morton sings a little to his organ. He sings softly to the reedy music; you can't hear the words.

"It's nice being 96," he says. "You remember how my birthday poem ends?"

He does, and he recites:

"I still have music in my soul

Union Sues Policemen For Telling Secrets

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Policemen's Union here launched a Supreme Court suit Tuesday against nine of its fellow members for allegedly revealing union secrets to the Vancouver police commission.

The union also launched a suit against the police commission for allegedly forcing the nine policemen to reveal the secrets.

In one suit the union seeks damages from nine men and asks an injunction preventing them from revealing union business in future unless they are specifically authorized by the union.

The second suit, filed by the union and president Ronald G. Magill, seeks damages from the police commission for allegedly inducing certain members to breach their contract with the union and for alleged breach of the Labour Relations Act.

The union further seeks an injunction prohibiting the commission and "its servants" from "compelling or inducing" members of the union to disclose union business, and from proceeding with two disciplinary charges against Magill.

A writ filed with the court said McGill faces disciplinary charges by the police force for "expressing yourself before other members of the force to the effect that you did not have any confidence in the chief constable or in the deputy chief constable and by then attempting to elicit active support from your expressions from other members of the force . . ."

The writ claims Magill was speaking to a closed union meeting.

Funeral Held For Founder Of St. Michael's

Funeral services for the founder of St. Michael's School, Kyrle Charles Symons, were held Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, Elgin Road.

Born in India, he moved to England as a boy, attended public school and Oxford where he took an M.A. He came to Victoria when he was 24 and first taught in a one-room school on Salt Spring Island.

Mr. Symons founded St. Michael's in 1910 and taught until 1946, continuing as director after that.

Never a large school, it has produced Rhodes scholars and many successful Canadians.

Mr. Symons' son, Kryle, now the school's headmaster, says of his father's devotion to St. Michael's, "he had little time for anything else."

He was, though, president of the Victoria branch of the Royal Society of St. George and a member of the Kipling Society. Pallbearers at the funeral were old boys of the school: Capt. J. B. Prentiss, Hamish Bridgman, Kenneth Barnes, J. W. M. Barber-Starkey, Dr. A. E. Gillespie and John Nation.

Mr. Symons is survived by two sons, Kryle W. and Edward J., both of Victoria, and four grandchildren.

MASS LABOR STRIKE IN B.C. CALLED OFF

Oil Union Urges Gov't Formula Be Accepted

VANCOUVER—A threatened two-day general strike in B.C. Thursday and Friday was to be called off this afternoon.

At the same time, the executive of the oil workers' union will recommend acceptance by members of the government's settlement proposal announced this morning.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said:

"We are very happy the dispute is resolved. Our executive council now is going to call off the general work stoppage set for tonight."

The recommendation from the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union to its members was announced by Canadian director J. R. Duncan.

"The terms are not all we would have liked, but we have a responsibility to the community," Mr. Duncan said.

But there was no comment from any of the oil companies whether or not they will accept the formula.

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

The provincial government today announced a proposal to settle the oil workers dispute.

Premier Bennett said in Vancouver "we ask immediate acceptance by labor, management and the general public."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson asked that all plans for a two-day work stoppage to coincide with an expanded oil strike "be abandoned forthwith."

Company and union representatives retired immediately after the announcement to consider the proposal.

The proposed formula contains recommendations on job security and the subsidiary issue of wages.

These were the points in the formula:

- A committee with equal representation from both sides for continuing discussions on automation;
- Six months notification by oil companies of intent to change conditions which would result in discharge or layoff for any employee working for the company after Aug. 31, 1965;
- Companies will participate with the government in every way possible in training and retraining of men displaced by automation;
- Severance pay of one week's wages for each year of service to a maximum of 26 weeks;
- Wage increase of 35 cents an hour over two years.

The dispute involves 540 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union in B.C. and seven oil companies—British-American, Imperial, Shell, Standard, Home, Texaco and Pacific Petroleums.

Ontario Oil Strike May Be Expanded

TORONTO (CP) — Plans to spread a strike of oil workers through other parts of Ontario and to Montreal were announced today by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC).

Union spokesman Robert Kirk said unless a settlement is reached by noon Thursday in the strike against the British American Oil Co. Ltd. refinery at nearby Clarkson, union employees in the Toronto-Hamilton area and Montreal will walk off their jobs in sympathy.

About 600 additional workers in the Toronto-Hamilton area would be affected. In Clarkson, 419 workers have been on strike since Sept. 15. Union spokesmen here were unable to say how many workers would be affected by the strike deadline at the Montreal refineries of BP and Texaco Canada Ltd.

These are the only refineries in Quebec where the OCAW holds bargaining rights for workers.

The proposed spread of the strike involves truck drivers who distribute the oil as well as the refinery workers.

Mr. Kirk said the Thursday deadline could be affected by the results of the intervention by the British Columbia government into the strike of oil workers in that province.

Soviet Hockey Team to Play Here?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association are trying to arrange an exhibition game between the National Hockey teams of Canada and the Soviet Union here or in Victoria Dec. 20.

Association president Dr. Leo Margolis said Tuesday the Russians, who will make a Canada-U.S. tour culminating in an international game in Colorado Springs in late December, could be available for a game in B.C. because one of the U.S. matches was cancelled.

Strike Grounds Air France Planes

PARIS (Reuters)—Air France planes were grounded today as air crews of the French national airline began a four-day strike to back pay claims blocked by the government.

A few relief flights organized by the company were flown in chartered aircraft, but most flights were paralysed by the strike of some 2,500 pilots, hostesses and stewards.

India Troops Killed In Tibet

PEKING (Reuters)—China said today its troops killed three Indian soldiers who crossed into Tibet early today.

The official New China news agency said the Indians fired at Chinese personnel at a civilian checkpost in the Laiguo Bridge area.

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Alejo Triana, 27, of Havana, left a Cuban airliner here Tuesday night and asked Canadian immigration authorities for political asylum. The plane was en route to Prague, Czechoslovakia, from Havana and here to refuel. It later took of without Triana.

Pilot, Passenger Safe In North

EDMONTON (CP)—A light aircraft missing since Sunday night in the Northwest Territories was found today with both the pilot and his only passenger in good condition.

The missing craft, piloted by Bob Gauthier and with Bernie Gauthier as passenger, left Nahanni Butte Sunday night on a 390-mile flight to Fort Smith. Tathlina Lake is approximately half way between Nahanni Butte and Fort Smith.

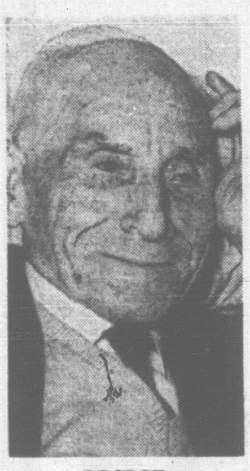
Mobility Plan 'Within Weeks'

OTTAWA (CP)—A program of loans and grants to help workers move to jobs in other areas will go into operation "within a few weeks," Labor Minister MacEachen said today.

The manpower mobility program, to involve a $5,000,000 loan fund and $5,000,000 a year in outright grants, was first announced in the Commons last May 18 by Prime Minister Pearson.

NEWFOUNDLAND SAGE:

Brace Yourself For Hard Winter



DRODGE
. . . sniffs the wind.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Levi Drodge, an amateur forecaster who has been predicting Newfoundland weather with uncanny accuracy for more than 40 years, has decided to branch out.

Mr. Drodge issued his first long-range forecast for all Canada Tuesday.

In a statement to The Evening Telegram, Mr. Drodge, 83, a retired fisherman from the Trinity Bay community of Hillview, said: "There's a hard winter coming up—don't say I didn't warn you."

★ ★ ★

His first forecast for the entire country: "It's going to be a very hard winter for Canada. It is going to be very cold and plenty of snow and frost." He predicted extremely heavy snowfalls.

He also predicted a bad year for ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Canadian forecast ended with: "That's all I am going to give you."

In 1963, Mr. Drodge forecast a heavy snowfall and during that winter the St. John's area received a total of almost 20 feet from November to May. Last winter, he forecast a cold winter with little snow and he was right again.

★ ★ ★

He said he predicts the weather by watching the tides and "scenting" the winds. The best place to predict weather, according to his calculations, would be Sable Island, off the Nova Scotia coast.

"If I was there for about 10 days, I could give the weather for the whole of North America," he said.

Gandhi Kin Banned By S. Africa

DURBAN (AP)—The South African government today banned the Indian husband of Mohandas Gandhi's granddaughter for five years under the suppression of communism laws.

The action against Newa Ramgobin, 33, a Durban insurance agent, restricts his movements and prevents him from attending political meetings and other gatherings.

Four years ago he helped establish the Gandhi Clinic, which treats more than 1,000 patients a month. Author Alan Paton, chairman of the trust which administers the clinic, said he thought Ramgobin had been banned because of his student political activities.

CANADA TO CLOSE TRADE OFFICE

SALISBURY (AP) — Canada's trade commission in Salisbury is likely to close toward the end of December, an official Canadian statement said today.

The statement sent to about 250 Canadian citizens in Rhodesia by Acting Trade Commissioner C. D. Miller said that after the office closed "it will not be possible for the Canadian government to provide direct consular assistance to you."

"After the Canadian government declined to recognize Rhodesian independence, it withdrew its trade commissioner but kept its Salisbury office open. Miller's statement is the first official indication that the office is to be closed entirely.

CALIFORNIA

Rain, Rain, Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The third storm in 12 days swept into soggy southern California today, bringing new flash floods to areas where at least 13 are feared dead.

Heavy rain hit mountain and foothill areas north of Los Angeles during the night, causing fresh gushes through canyons, then sloshed across the Los Angeles basin during the morning.

A third of an inch of rain fell in downtown Los Angeles in an hour, pushing the season total to 11 inches. Normal for the season since July 1 to date is 1.45 inches.

Rain was forecast to continue at least through Monday.

In northern California, a storm approaching blizzard proportions whipped into the Sierras. Wind and snow reduced visibility to 100 yards on 7,135-foot Donner Summit.

In the heaviest November rains ever recorded in southern California, floods in desert areas raked cars off highways and into washes and residents of hillside areas fought oozing mud as it inundated homes and yards.

The desert resort of Palm Springs, a winter mecca for smog - tired Los Angeles residents, was virtually isolated and cut in two by a flood that rushed down from the San Jacinto Mountains.

Witnesses said three persons were carried away in their cars and a man wading out to help was swept away in the torrent. Only one body was found.

FLOOD HITS CARS

At rocky Cucamonga wash, a roaring flood caught a dozen cars and swept them half a block, tumbling over and over, some with their lights still burning.

Hal Malloy, 19, saw a man swept away in the flood, then lamented: "I was so close . . . he finally was able to get out of the car. He was hysterical, saying 'help me, help me.' I got to within inches of him . . . his body disappeared."

AERIAL BOMBER ARRESTED

MIAMI (UPI)—Police today arrested a man whom they said bombed Miami homes from the air with Molotov cocktails because he hated Negroes and Jews.

Sheriff's officers identified the man as Lon David Shaw, 30, and said he went on his fire-bomb missions at night and alone in a small plane.

Shaw was charged specifically with tossing Molotov cocktails, bottles filled with gasoline and a rag and then ignited, at five homes, two of them owned by Negroes.

Life Jail Term Starts On Slayer's Birthday

The murderer of Susan Freschi today was taken to New Westminster to begin a life term in the B.C. Penitentiary.

David Leonard Robinson, who also was marking his 25th birthday today, received his sentence in Assize Court Tuesday afternoon, without blinking.

"David Leonard Robinson, I sentence you to life imprisonment," said Mr. Justice George Gregory.

The sentence is laid down by statute and neither the accused nor court officials had reason for surprise since Monday when Robinson entered a guilty plea.

The prisoner was escorted from court almost immediately and RCMP confirmed this morning that he has already been taken to the mainland.

He will automatically be eligible for consideration by a parole board in seven years. But some legal circles here believe the gruesome details of his crime, all written into the court proceedings, might weigh against him.

Mr. Justice Gregory said in the final stages of the court session that it might appear unusual for all the evidence to be reviewed after the plea of guilty—because the sentence is set by law. A recitation of the facts could not affect the sentence.

"The Crown has its reasons, with which I heartily concur," he said.

Outside of court, the judge would not comment on the statement. Nor would prosecutor William McIntyre.

But some quasi-legal comment on the case suggests that with the full evidence on the record, including suggestions of mental instability, there would be little hope of early parole.

Several times in his testimony to police, all of which was repeated in court Tuesday, Robinson mentioned memory failings, severe, sudden headaches and a fear of inanimate objects.

In a tape-recorded police interview he said that following his fatal attack on the girl, as he walked down the railway tracks, he felt something frightening all around him.

"All around there were huge towering things and they didn't look like trees," he said.

And again, "These big things were still around . . . huge . . . they didn't look like trees . . . I guess that's all they were."

STARTED TO CRY

He said that he started to cry after he struck the girl and when he was driving home, "A few more tears dropped then."

When he arrived home he said he walked into his house

Secret Hearing Revealed

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaston Constantin, charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud $115,000 was released on $2,000 bail Monday during a closed hearing in the chambers of sessions Judge Gerard Simard, it was learned Tuesday.

The few newsmen who heard about the "secret" hearing were asked not to print anything about it by Crown Prosecutor Anatole Corriveault because Constantin's life was "in danger." He didn't elucidate on the danger.

CROPS ARE FLOODED AND CHILDREN WAIL

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

It's the time when cold and bitter winter weather gives way to the ceaseless spring rains . . .

When thousands more are added to the millions of Koreans who are homeless and unemployed all year round.

The food situation for the poor becomes crucial, because it is just before the grain crop is to be harvested.

And the harvest, when it does come, will be pitifully inadequate because of the floods.

Grain prices go sky-high and the wail of hungry children is heard more and more in the streets of Korean cities like Seoul and Mokpo.

Although USC activities are worldwide, Korea continues to receive the lion's share of aid both in funds and in what the USC calls "gifts-in-kind" — everything from codfish to cardigans contributed by Canadians.

Thousands of human lives have been saved through USC aid, and thousands more salvaged from misery and despair by the efforts of USC workers throughout Korea.

Of about 600 children's homes in the country, the USC sponsors seven, four in Seoul and three in Kyong go Do province.

The largest and most expensive USC project since 1960 is the TB Children's Hospital in Mokpo, Chollanamdo Province.

The oil workers had set a deadline of midnight tonight to expand the strike. More than 60,000 members of unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labour responded to a call for a two-day work stoppage to support oil workers.

The Teamsters union said it would follow contract provisions allowing it to observe picket lines and refuse to handle goods from a strike-bound plant. This wouldn't apply to fuel delivered from a strike-free plant prior to any strike.

This is what the oil workers were seeking:

- Six months notification by companies of new automation processes;
- Company-sponsored job retraining for men facing automation;
- One year's severance pay for each five years of employment;
- An extra 50 cents an hour over two years.

This morning's proposal from the government came at a meeting attended by Premier Bennett, Labor Minister Peterson and mediator Reg Clements.

The premier said neither side had advance knowledge of the formula.

The premier went to Vancouver Tuesday to sit in on mediation talks.

"These discussions are never easy," he said.

In a reference to Mr. Peterson being minister of both education and labor, he said both education and labor "must work closely together."

Negroes File Back to Work

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — A general strike of Negro workers in protest against the seizure of independence by Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian government appeared to have petered out here today, the third day of the protest.

Shots were heard in the centre of Bulawayo Tuesday night, but no further incidents were reported during the night. The shooting was unexplained.

Police and other official departments have refused to give details of incidents to the press.

Police opened fire Tuesday on a crowd which was stoning a bus in Mpopoma Township, killing one Negro. His death was the first known killing in disturbances arising from Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain Nov. 11.

Police also used tear-gas as incidents broke out between pickets and non-strikers.

More than 50 Negroes suspected of intimidating other Negroes were arrested. Absenteeism Tuesday was estimated at 60 per cent.

Today the scene was quiet. There were no signs of the Negro pickets who prevented non-strikers from reaching their factories during the last few days.

But steel - helmeted riot police — the whites armed with rifles and the Negroes carrying truncheons—stood watching for any sign of trouble at main junctions and other key points.

A warning by Bulawayo's industrial and business leaders that workers who failed to report for duty today would be dismissed appeared to be a major factor in the back-to-normal trend.

The chambers of commerce and industry represent some 500 businesses employing between 15,000 and 20,000 Negroes.

33 New Citizens

Thirty-three immigrants will be sworn in as Canadian citizens by Judge Montague Drake in County Court here Thursday, Dec. 9, at 10 a.m.

They will be received afterwards at a coffee party given by Greater Victoria Citizenship Council in the new "Y" building. Mrs. H. L. Smith, a former president of the council, will be hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol, who were refused citizenship in County Court last July, will receive their certificates at a special ceremony conducted by Immigration and Citizenship minister John Nicholson this Friday at 10 a.m.

Natural Gas Halted; Firm Says 'Sabotage'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Natural gas service disruptions, which affected homes and industries in three Essex County areas late Tuesday night and early today, were "acts of sabotage," a gas company spokesman said.

The spokesman for Union Gas Ltd. said there were nine shut-offs reported during a three-hour period.

In Windsor, three firms manufacturing parts for the automobile industry, a hotel, a bowling alley and a billiard saloon were affected. The shut-offs also disrupted service to a store and a number of homes in Leamington, 38 miles southeast of here, and a motel at Kingsville, 23 miles southeast of Windsor.

The company spokesman said today that although it was not known who was responsible for the latest shut - offs, "it obviously was deliberate sabotage."

Similar incidents have occurred in the Sarnia are since the strike began and the company has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension of those responsible for the shut-offs.

Some 200 employees of the company here and in Sarnia, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC), have been on strike since Nov. 3.

Then he went upstairs to wash his hands because there was blood on one of them.

"Then I came downstairs. We just sat and played a couple of games of scrabble and watched TV," the tape-recorded voice said in court.

KNOCKED HER DOWN

After parking his car he had walked down the track, picking up a stone on the way, to intercept her. He bumped into her and knocked her down, then helped her up.

His testimony, vague and uncertain on many points — he could not remember when he tied her hands or gagged her—indicated he brought the girl off the railway into the woods where a sexual assault took place.

RCMP sergeant R. S. Rogers in his testimony said the accused told him he later knelt over the girl and struck her, in Robinson's words, "Two or three times . . . I don't know."

'HIT HER AGAIN'

Later on the tape, Robinson said, "I put my hands down and the rock just hit her head . . . she started to moan and I think I started to cry . . . she was still crying and I think I hit her again, and I'm not sure if it was then or after I felt a big pain in my head."

His counsel, Alan Bigelow told the court that he realized that there was nothing he could say in mitigation.

"If judged by psychiatric standards, he most assuredly needs treatment. He is sick. His sole wish is to receive psychiatric treatment . . ."

A source close to the penitentiary service told The Times later that the New Westminster penitentiary at present has a part-time psychiatrist tending to 700 men. Treatment is not set up on a clinical basis—another fact which might be expected to weigh against eventual parole considerations.

RELIEVED

Mr. Justice Gregory, before passing sentence, noted that he had wanted to hear the full evidence because he wanted to satisfy himself that there had been no brutality on the part of police who had questioned Robinson for almost 12 hours.

"I am relieved to be assured, after hearing the tape recording that there was no police brutality or misconduct in the questioning of this man," he said.

This was contrary to an impression he had formed when reading transcripts of the preliminary hearing, he added.

Civic Workers Vote Support To BA Boycott

The Canadian Union of Public Employees has asked its 90,000 members to support a boycott of BA products launched by striking members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (CLC).

Workers employed by the BA Oil Company and the Royalite group have been on strike since September and have asked members of other unions to boycott the companies' products.

CUPE president Stanley A. Little, of Ottawa, sent letters to the union's 560 locals asking their members to support the boycott.

It asks CUPE members not to buy BA products until the strike is settled, to return BA credit cards if they hold them and to cancel fuel oil contracts if their dealer buys from BA.

"If your employer uses BA products we would ask that locals, wherever possible, use their influence to see that another unionized product is used as long as the strike continues."

Thirty per cent of their young patients, say USC workers, come from families that suffer from hunger, squalid housing conditions and unemployment.

Besides orphanages and hospitals, the USC also runs a Social Service Centre in the heart of Seoul's Mapo slum district, where USC workers have been aiding refugees since 1958.

This centre, employing Korean social workers, was the USC's 20th anniversary project, started last year, and the cause of much excitement and enthusiasm in the organization.

Much more can be accomplished through USC aid, if the money is available for their projects and self-help programs overseas.
